SOVIET TROOPS QUIT ROSTOV

HITLER HAS CUT LINE TO EUROPE, SEN. LEE SAYS

Build Cargo Planes, New Dealer Urges.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—Sen. Josh Lee [D., Okla.], co-author of a resolution calling for the production of giant cargo and troop carrying aircraft, told the senate today that Hitler has made good his threat to cut the supply lines of the United nations.

Sen. Josh Lee.

"It is utter folly for us to continue to try to build ships faster than Hitler can sink them," the Oklahoma New Dealer said. The alternative to air transportation for the maintenance of our supply lines, he contended, is "complete loss of the war."

Lee's ominous warning, one of the gravest thus far uttered by an administration supporter, followed introduction of a resolution signed by himself and four other members of the military affairs committee to create a supply board for the immediate construction of flying boats and land based aircraft for the transportation of troops and cargo overseas. Other sponsors of the resolution were Sen. Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], Sen. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Col.], and Sen. Chan Gurney [R., S. D.].

Kaiser Plan Recalled.

Since the subcommittee appointed to hold hearings on the resolution is composed of the same senators, a favorable report to the full committee is assured.

The resolution was prompted by the proposal of Henry J. Kaiser, the nation's leading builder of surface ships, to construct 5,000 huge flying boats similar to the 70 ton Mars recently completed by the Glenn L. Martin company. Kaiser urged that the facilities of nine shipbuilding companies be devoted to cargo aircraft.

"Hitler told the world more than a year ago that he would turn out enough submarines to cut the supply lines of the united nations," Lee reminded the senate. "He has made good that threat. It has been estimated that there are now 100 Nazi submarines plying the seven seas and it is entirely possible that within a few months there will be at least 300 of these steel sharks on the prowl.

'Folly, Utter Folly.'

"These submarines can be manned by a handful of boys. Therefore, it is folly, utter folly, for us to continue to try to build ships faster than Hitler can sink them."

The practicability of carrying freight and troops by air has been established, Lee said. He recalled that Hitler invaded Norway with air borne troops, conquered Crete with air borne troops and has reënforced and supplied Rommel's forces in North Africa by air transportation. The United States is building some cargo and troop transport airplanes, but the number is far too small, Lee said.

Lee said the heart-breaking tragedy of Bataan and Corregidor, where American soldiers scanned the horizon every day for supplies and reenforcements that never came, could have been prevented by air transportation.

Appeals to Roosevelt.

"Why should the army and navy hesitate for one hour on their decision?" he asked. "It must be done. Certainly there are no obstacles. Certainly strategic materials will be required. But what is the alternative? The alternative is complete loss of the war."

Lee appealed to President Roosevelt to issue orders for the immediate undertaking of a vast air transportation program.

Another aspect of the shipping question was discussed in the senate by Sen. Allen J. Ellender [D., La.], who denounced the cancellation by the United States Maritime commission of a contract with Andrew Jackson Higgins, New Orleans boat building wizard, for the construction of a ship yard and 200 Liberty type cargo vessels.

Ellender called the senate's attention to statements by Rear Adm. Emory S. Lands, Maritime commission chair-

WARNS O'BRIEN: GET 'BIG SHOTS,' STOP GAMBLING

He Shifts Blame to Chief Fleming.

Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien and James J. Fleming, chief of the sheriff's county highway police, each spent an unhappy hour yesterday before the Cook county grand jury which is investigating wide-open slot machine gambling in hundreds of taverns and night clubs.

The grand jurors were reported to have taken a stern attitude toward both O'Brien and Fleming and to have ordered them to bring in Edward Vogel who, with Jack Guzik and other Capone gangsters, operates the slot machine syndicate in the county. A subpena for Vogel was issued several months ago, but the sheriff's office has pleaded inability to serve it, tho Vogel's Chicago residence is known.

The jurors were reported also to have demanded that Sheriff O'Brien obtain evidence against the heads of the gigantic gambling syndicate, whose operation and $3,875,592 annual income were exposed by THE TRIBUNE which turned over to the state's attorney's office some of the syndicate's ledger sheets for the month of July, 1941.

Jury Pierces O'Brien Hide.

The sheriff, who emerged from the grand jury room flustered and snarling, was reported to have shifted the blame for his office's shortcomings to Chief Fleming.

O'Brien is understood to have testified that he has ordered the law strictly enforced and has placed the responsibility for enforcing it upon Chief Fleming. If there have been violations, Fleming is to blame, he said.

The jurors then summoned Fleming, who was questioned more than an hour. After he had emerged, surly and fuming, it was reported he had told the jurors that if there have been violations the blame should be placed upon his three lieutenants in charge of the key highway police stations. The three are Morton Leviton of the Morton Grove station, Fred Mulhausen of Homewood, and Henry Andel of Willow Springs.

Tinker to Evers to Chance.

The grand jurors immediately issued subpenas for the lieutenants, and it is expected they will be heard today.

Also before the grand jury yesterday was Chester Nichols, photog-

DAVIES PUT IN CHARGE OF WAR RELIEF FUND COLLECTING AGENCIES

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt today set up a war relief control board, headed by Joseph E. Davies, with broad powers to regulate agencies collecting welfare funds for use in the United States or abroad. Davies was formerly ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

The board will have charge of registering or licensing war relief agencies, coördinating the times and amounts of fund raising campaigns, and establishing standards of solicitation. It can require financial reports and merge or eliminate agencies in the interest of efficiency or economy.

The former committee on war relief, also headed by Davies, was reconstituted to form the new war relief control board. The new organization will have jurisdiction over the collection of funds for the United Service Organizations and other domestic relief agencies, whereas heretofore its authority extended only to organizations like the British and China war relief agencies.

However, the board will not exercise such powers over the Red Cross, local charitable activities of a normal character, or established religious bodies.

Davis, in a report to the President, said that while the old committee had succeeded in reducing the number of foreign relief agencies from 700 to 300, war relief solicitations in the domestic field had grown by leaps and bounds since the United States entered the war.

U-Boat Spies Seek Writs in Supreme Court

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Seven of the eight men accused of coming to America in Nazi U-boats to commit sabotage invoked American civil rights today—and the nine justices of the United States Supreme court broke off their vacations to publicly hear their plea.

On Wednesday at noon, the tribunal will open a special term so defense council may present petitions for writs of habeas corpus in behalf of the men, now on trial for their lives before a military commission appointed by President Roosevelt. The prisoners will not appear before the court in person.

[The writ of habeas corpus has for its object the bringing of a prisoner before a court or judge, usually to determine whether he is being legally detained. Prisoners do not have such rights in Nazi Germany.]

Two Issues Before Court.

The Supreme court, according to informed persons, will have two points to pass upon:

1. Whether it has any right to consider the petitions in view of a Presidential order denying civil court processes to such prisoners.

2. Whether the military commission has jurisdiction to try the men.

If the first point is decided negatively, the second will presumably not be considered. If it is decided affirmatively and the court then decides the commission lacks jurisdiction, the 16 day proceedings of the commission would be nullified.

Special Sessions Rare.

The announcement of the special Supreme court term, the first since 1920, was issued by Charles Elmore Cropley, clerk of the court. It said:

"The chief justice directs that it be announced that the Supreme court will convene a special term on Wednesday, July 29, at noon, in order that petitions for writs of habeas corpus, on behalf of certain persons now being tried by a military commission appointed by the President, may be submitted to it.

"The petitions will be presented by counsel on July 29 and the prisoners will not be present at the bar of the Supreme court on that day."

The announcement did not say how many of the prisoners were petitioning, but other sources said seven. There was unofficial speculation that the man who did not petition is George John Dasch. He is reported to have given the FBI valuable information and is represented by separate counsel.

All the prisoners are defended by United States army officers who are duty bound to present the best case possible.

The presentation of testimony before the military commission was completed by both sides during the day after 16 days of hearings and the case was adjourned until Thursday.

If the court refuses to entertain the petitions the military commission will hear final arguments from both sides starting Thursday and proceed to consider a verdict.

105 TONS OF TIN CANS SAVED IN CHICAGO FOR SALVAGE OF METAL

Almost 1 million tin cans weighing approximately 105 tons have been collected in the Chicago metropolitan area since the beginning of the tin salvage drive on July 16, William L. McFetridge, area salvage director for the Office of Civilian Defense, reported yesterday.

"Collections are averaging 15 tons a day," McFetridge said. "There have been seven regular collection days, indicating a total of 105 tons. We estimate that there are 9,000 average sized cans to a ton.

"The rate at which housewives, restaurants, hotels and other users of canned foods are turning in cans is about twice that of New York City, which has almost twice Chicago's population."

THIEVES BREAK INTO BYRON NELSON'S AUTO, GET WIFE'S $1,000 RING

It was a great day yesterday for Byron Nelson, nationally known golfer. He won the Tam o' Shanter Open golf tournament in an 18 hole play-off with Clayton Heafner with a brilliant score of 67.

Nelson beamed happily. Heafner and many friends, as well as 2,000 spectators cheered him warmly. Besides, the victory meant $2,500 in winnings. [See details on sports pages.]

Then Nelson left the clubhouse for his car. Immediately some of his elation faded. A thief had ransacked his car while he was on the fairway and taken several personal articles, including a $1,000 diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Nelson. The theft cut the golf victory value to $1,500.

Army May Use Coliseum for Radio Classes

The Chicago Coliseum, beneath whose medieval appearing turrets Presidents have been nominated, automobiles paraded, and all night 1st ward dances held, may soon be taken over by the army for use as a giant laboratory to train thousands of soldiers in the new aviation radio training school being formed in the Stevens and Congress hotels.

This was learned yesterday after army officers, from generals to sergeants, tramped about the 42 year old structure at 1513 Wabash avenue to measure walls, piping, wiring, and floor space.

Altho no official action has been taken, unofficial sources disclosed that the Coliseum probably would be acquired in a condemnation suit, a procedure used to obtain the two hotels.

Desk for Each Man.

Army officers said that the Coliseum would serve well as a laboratory in which each man could have a desk for building radio sets and learning electrical wiring technique. It was said the structure could accommodate thousands of soldiers at a time because of its 92,000 feet of floor space.

The Coliseum was built in 1900 by a group of Chicago and Iowa capitalists headed by Charles F. Gunther. It quickly became a great convention hall, with exhibitors of every kind of merchandise using its space. It also became the scene of the great 1st ward masked balls, at which Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna and the late John [Bathhouse] Coughlin played host to their domain's numerous scarlet ladies, thieves, and other underworld characters. The balls stopped in 1910 after a group of reformers obtained a court injunction on the charge that the dances were places of sin.

Four Republican Conventions.

In 1908 the first of four successive Republican conventions was held in the Coliseum—a display of president-making that was climaxed in 1920 when Warren G. Harding was nominated.

In the 1920s, when automobile shows became big events, Chicagoans jammed the Coliseum to see exhibitions of new models. Bike racing found its Chicago home beneath the Coliseum's roof. Ice hockey flourished.

But in late years the big arena lost many of its attractions to the Stadium. Now it may become active again.

401ST SHIP SUNK BY SUBMARINES IN THE ATLANTIC

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

401 The sinking of an obscure little onion boat by hungry Nazis, announced yesterday by the navy, and the reported torpedoing of the Mexican freighter Oaxaca boosted to 401 the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of allied and neutral ships torpedoed to the bottom of the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

In 233 days axis underwater raiders have averaged nearly two victims daily on the basis of reported sinkings on the western Atlantic front. With the loss of the 401 ships went the lives of 2,240 seamen.

Still missing are at least 1,626 crewmen or passengers, most of whom may now be considered lost. Figures show 11,801 persons rescued from the sunken craft.

Sunk in Sight of Havana.

The 55 foot fishing boat Gertrude was carrying 40,000 pounds of onions from Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba, when she was "looted" and destroyed by "stickup men" from an axis submarine within sight of the lights of Cuba's capital.

Her master, Capt. Walter Broward Crosland, Miami, and the two crew members escaped, leaving their craft at the mercy of a submarine command who ordered them to abandon ship.

An explosion was heard an hour later, and Capt. Crosland reported he was convinced the U-boat men stripped the vessel of all the onions they needed, took $40 worth of canned goods from her hold, and possibly took some of the 400 gallons of Diesel oil and a 55 gallon drum of cylinder oil.

"Maybe the sub was feeling the pinch for rations," Capt. Crosland said, "because food was what I believe they wanted."

Caught in Gulf Stream.

Crosland and his crew, King Gomez and Joseph B. Allen, both from Miami, left quickly in a motor driven lifeboat when told to abandon ship. They steered for Havana, but a strong current swept them into the gulf stream.

They ran out of fuel and finally spent 78 hours in the lifeboat, bailing and rowing with bruised and cut hands, toward the Florida keys. They were rescued by Walter Starke, Whale Harbor, who towed them ashore.

The Mexican government announced Oaxaca was torpedoed Sunday morning a few hours after she left Corpus Christi, Tex., and sank within three or four minutes, the government announced tonight.

Six members of the crew are missing. Two of the 32 survivors taken to Corpus Christi were wounded. The ship was hit by one torpedo and broke in two.

The Oaxaca was the fifth Mexican ship lost by enemy submarine action in the Gulf of Mexico. The Oaxaca was one of 12 seized from Germany by Mexico more than a year ago.

ELEPHANT SERIOUSLY ILL AT ZOO; WEIGHT DROPS 1,000 POUNDS

A strange illness has attacked Deed-a-Day, the well beloved elephant which was given to the Lincoln park zoo in 1924 by the Boy Scouts of Chicago.

Deed-a-Day has shed 1,000 pounds from her four ton physique in recent weeks. Her skin is hanging in folds and the customary twinkle is absent from her enigmatic eyes. She is so weak she is unable to rise and refuses all food.

When she passed up a serving of luscious sweet potatoes yesterday, Floyd Young, the zoo director, and Dr. R. E. Young, manager of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society, shrugged their shoulders in despair.

Deed-a-Day became more and more interested in nothing as the day wore on, refusing even to notice the children who have fed her peanuts for 18 years. Late in the afternoon Harry Carlyle, her attendant, was ordered to draw the tarpaulins which serve as the curtains of her cage. Until she shows improvement she will be secluded.

"It looks like stomach trouble to me," said Dr. Young. "But she's so big it's hard to put your finger on the cause of the sickness. We've given her medicine but nothing seems to do any good. She gets weaker and weaker because she won't eat. She's only 25 years old, which is middle age for an elephant, so it can't very well be senility."

Like every one else at the zoo, guests and employés alike, Dr. Young hopes it won't be necessar, to shoot her.

GERMANS PRESS CAUCASUS DRIVE SOUTH OF DON

Throw More Bridges Across River.

MOSCOW, July 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—An overwhelmed Red army has withdrawn from Rostov on the Don and from Novocherkassk, 20 miles to the northeast, before the steady German drive into the Caucasus, the Russians announced early today.

After fighting grimly in the streets of both shell wrecked cities north of the Don river, the Russians retreated to unspecified positions south of the river.

[The Germans claimed the capture of both cities last week and today said their troops also had taken Bataisk, 20 miles south of Rostov, on the main Caucasus railway and pipe line.]

The Russians also were imperiled all along the Don river as far east as Tsmilyansk, 120 miles from Rostov, where German machines and men continued to throw pontoon bridges across the Don faster than the Reds could smash them.

Once a Turning Point.

Rostov's citizen army of men, women, and children in a herculean effort joined hands with the Red army last November to repulse huge German forces which had entered the city. The Nazis withdrew in what was the turning point in Hitler's 1941 campaign against Russia.

Known as the "spigot of the Russian oil barrel," Rostov, a city of 500,000 population, was a big transportation terminus for Caucasian oil and foods, and a shipbuilding center near the corner of the Sea of Azov.

Today's war bulletin said of the Tsimlyansk area:

"The enemy repeatedly attempted to cross the river. Fighting is going on with fluctuating successes. In one sector the Germans succeeded in pushing forward but were stemmed by a counterattack of soviet troops."

Flow Across the Don.

The phrase "fluctuating successes" bore out press dispatches which acknowledged the Germans were flowing across the Don despite the wrecking of numerous Nazi pontoons by soviet airmen and artillery.

Only in the Voronezh area 300 miles north of Rostov were the Russians claiming any distinct successes. There the Red army was reported to have made another crossing of the Don to the western bank after wiping out thousands of Nazi troops.

But the Russian successes in the Voronezh area thus far have not endangered the Nazi left flank enough to stem the southeastward German tide which threatens the Caucasus and Stalingrad on the Volga communications route.

The soviet communique reported that in the Barents sea [a part of the arctic north of Murmansk] Russian warships sank a German U-boat and a 10,000 ton transport.

British Gravely Concerned.

LONDON, July 27 (AP).—British military and political circles were gravely concerned today over the course of the Russian fighting and described the current battle as "the most important yet fought," both from a military and an economic point of view.

These sources described the German assaults in the Tsimlyansk region as the "crucial battle" for southern Russia.

Drive South of Rostov.

BERLIN, July 27 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command reported today the capture of Bataisk, "strongly fortified and tenaciously defended town" 20 miles south of Rostov on the railway leading to the oil port of Baku on the Caspian sea.

On the left wing of the German drive upon the Caucasus the high command reported that further advances southward were made by armored units while in the big loop of the Don, German and Rumanian forces were declared to have reached the river on a broad front. A tank battle is in progress along the west shore of the river.

German planes were reported ranging ahead of the battlefront to bomb Russian communications along the Volga and railroad objectives northwest of Stalingrad.

The Germans said the point at which Nazi and Rumanian forces drove to the Don in the loop of the river was northwest of Kalatsch, 50 miles west of Stalingrad.

29 FLYING TIGERS NOW PILOT CHINA AIR TRANSPORTS

60 Per Cent of Volunteer Group Joins Up.

BY DANIEL DELUCE.

CALCUTTA, India, July 27 (AP).—They could paint a flying tiger on the big green cargo planes of China's national air line and not be far wrong.

For of all of the "Flying Tiger" pilots who finished their fighting contracts with the American volunteer group which served the Chinese army, the China National Aviation corporation has now signed approximately 60 per cent to operate transports over one of the most mountainous and storm ridden routes in the world, linking isolated China with allied supplies in India.

Some of the pilots have joined the United States army air force in China, which took over from the AVG on July 4.

The China corporation's veteran captain pilot, Charles Sharp of Fort Worth, Tex., released today the names of 29 American volunteer flyers who have joined the air line's staff. Fifteen of them will start work immediately, while the remainder will return to China after a few months' leave in the United States.

Get Materials Priority.

In addition to the pilots the air line employed Dr. Lefis Richards of Parsons, Kas., the volunteer group's famed "bombproof" surgeon, and four of the group's mechanics.

Since President Roosevelt has given the China National Aviation corporation higher priority for materials the air fleet upon which the Chinese government depends to haul supplies from India has grown. A few months ago the corporation, after the loss of Hongkong, had few aircraft left.

Signing up former volunteer group personnel admittedly was a break for the air line. A number of the pilots have had experience with twin and four motored patrol bombers of the United States navy, and all are accustomed to navigating in the most difficult weather.

Chicago Man Has Contract.

Sharp, who will be their mentor while they get used to new duties, has flown nine years for the 13 year old Chinese air line. He once was an army pilot in a Kelly field pursuit squadron.

Of the old volunteer group's three squadron leaders Bob Neale of Seattle and Arvid Olson of Chicago and Los Angeles have corporation contracts. The third, David Lee Hill of San Antonio, Tex., now is a major in the United States army air force in China.

The following 15 veterans of the volunteer group are now active pilots of the national air line: Francis Adking, Miami Beach, Fla.; Cliff Groh, Wilmette, Ill.; Robert Hedman, Webster, S. D.; Fred Hodges, Memphis, Tenn.; Chauncey Laughlin, Ashland, Mo.; Robert Moss, Doerun, Ga.; Eriksen Shilling, Washington, D. C.; Ernest Loane, Presque Isle, Me.; Joe Rosbert, Seattle; Van Shapard, Chattanooga, Tenn; Allen Wright, Dyersburg, Tenn.; Harry Bolster, Bayton, Tex.; Robert Raines, Reno, Nev.; J. Dean, St. Peter, Minn., and Einar Nickelson, Fergus Falls, Minn.

En Route to United States.

The following 14 pilots are en route to the United States, but intend to return to China: W. Bartling, Middleton, Ind.; Charles Bond, Dallas, Tex.; Herbert Cavanah, Sacramento, Cal.; Parker Dupouy, Seekonk, Mass.; Thomas Haywood, St. Paul, Minn.; J. Hennessey, Newton, Mass.; Robert Keeton, Manzanola, Colo.; Robert Neale, Seattle; Arvid Olson, Chicago and Los Angeles; William Reed, Marion, Ia.; Freeman Ricketts, Walnut Creek, Cal.; John Rossi, San Francisco; Robert T. Smith, Lincoln, Neb., and Peter Wright, Birchrunville, Pa.

The American mechanics who transferred from the volunteer group are W. E. Shaffer, Stanley Regis, Frank Losonsky, and Frank Woodward.

PREMIER CENTER OF BIG UPROAR IN CANADIAN HOUSE

OTTAWA, Ont., July 27 (AP).—A tumult of shouting in which Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King described opposition members as a mob and defied them to silence him broke out in the house of commons today during a debate on the report of a royal commission concerning the participation of Canadian troops in the defense of Hongkong.

At one time both King and Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson were on their feet waving their arms and shouting, their voices drowned in a chorus of calls for order from all quarters.

In the midst of the shouting, the prime minister was heard to say "That is a typical tory method, shouting people down," and "I have the right to speak on a point of order, and if any mob opposite think they can oppose me on that they are greatly mistaken." King later had the remark removed from the record at Hanson's request.

Australia Fears Jap Subs Have Sent Spies Ashore

CANBERRA, Australia, July 27 (AP).—The Australian government dislosed today it believed enemy agents, possibly landed from submarines, were operating in Australia and secret military movements had been learned by the Japanese. The statement said the agents may have landed from submarines at lonely coastal spots and been harbored by anti-British elements.

Japs Raid Townsville and Darwin Twice in Two Days

Blackout Lesson

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 27.—The Japs' abortive air raid on Townsville is considered in some circles here as a blessing in disguise.

"Nothing like a little air raid to make people pitch in and work harder than ever," an Australian business man said today. "Since no one was hurt or any damage done, the effect on morale is bound to be good."

Townsville at least will probably take a greater interest in the war as a result of the visit of the four Japanese flying boats which dropped a few bombs harmlessly in the sea. Residents of this northern Queensland town have not heretofore been able to convince themselves that it was necessary to have a blackout.

Regarded as Nuisance Raid.

Requested by army authorities to reduce the town's lighting, the town council replied, "What will we do if we tell the people to put out their lights and they just reply, 'O, rubbish'?" Since the town was not under martial law the military was powerless to act.

Most Australian papers regard the bombing as a nuisance raid, altho they take advantage of the opportunity to warn the public against complacency. Some papers point out that the Japanese have reached a thousand miles farther south, but it is generally overlooked that allied air forces have been penetrating even deeper into enemy occupied territory.

Fly 2,000 Miles to Celebes.

Many new names have been appearing in allied communiques, the most notable being Kendari in the Celebes Islands, which entailed a flight of approximately 2,000 miles. At Kendari bombs were dropped on a bomber park from which the enemy ferried machines to operational bases nearer New Guinea and Australia. Both sides have been trying to find distant fields on which the bombers can be serviced.

Battle in Papua

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Japanese raiders attacked Darwin in northern Australia, twice last night and attempted to attack Townsville on the northeastern coast for the second time since Saturday, a communique said today.

No damage or casualties occurred at Darwin, and when an allied searchlight crew picked out a single Japanese flying boat near Townsville the craft dropped its bombs harmlessly and fled.

Jap Bases Raided.

Meanwhile, allied planes continued their attacks on the new Japanese bases in New Guinea, a group of dive bombers blowing up an ammunition dump, the communique said. Other allied airmen ranged far to the northwest to score direct hits on an airdrome and barracks at Japanese held Koepang in Dutch Timor. Previously allied planes had raided Kieta on Bougainville Island, in the Solomon group, and Buka and Sohana Islands north of Bougainville.

Patrols Clash with Japs.

Allied ground patrols still were in contact with the Japanese in the Buna-Gona area of Papua, New Guinea. The communique said a clash had occurred in the vicinity of Oivi which is between Buna and Kokoda on any Japanese overland invasion route toward the allied base at Port Moresby in southern New Guinea. Over the week-end allied patrols had clashed with the invader at Awala, 25 miles inland from Buna near where the Japanese landed last Wednesday.

An earlier communique told of another clash between tough allied outpost forces and the Japanese recently at Mubo near Salamaua, 150 miles north of Buna, where 60 Japanese were killed in a thwarted patrol attack upon the allied-held village. This enemy attack followed an allied commando swoop early this month on Salamaua, in which another 60 Japanese were killed.

MAYOR ADMITS VIOLATIONS OF WPB PRIORITIES

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 27 (AP).—Mayor Waldo V. Tiscornia of St. Joseph, Mich., vice president and general manager of the Auto Specialties company, pleaded guilty in federal court this afteroon to violating priority restrictions of the war production board. Tiscornia also is chairman of the Berrien county defense council.

United States Attorney Joseph F. Deeb, who instituted prosecution, said Tiscornia had obtained plumbing and heating equipment for use in a private dwelling by representing that it was essential for use by his company.

Judge Fred M. Raymond, who heard Tiscornia's plea, set bond at $1,000 and said he would pronounce sentence Aug. 6. The maximum penalty that could be assessed would be one year in prison and $10,000 fine.

U. S. PLANES SAVE CHUNGKING FROM 30 JAP BOMBERS

Avert First Raid in 11 Months.

CHUNGKING, China, June 27 (AP).—United States warplanes which roared out to meet a squadron of 30 Japanese raiders saved this often-bombed Chinese capital from attack tonight, while its tens of thousands of people huddled anxiously in caves and shelters for 2 hours 5 minutes thru their first air raid alarm in 11 months.

It was not known immediately whether the American planes actually engaged the Japanese. However, not a single one of the raiders which roared in at dusk from across the eastern border of Szechwan province reached the vicinity of the capital.

Stream to Cave Shelters.

The alarm sounded at 7:10 p. m. [6:10 a. m. Chicago time] and sent the city's residents streaming in long lines to the cramped caves where vegetable oil lamps flickered in the heat.

For the last three years the Japanese have subjected the crowded city to heavy air raids from mid-May, when the spring fogs end, to September. This year, however, the Flying Tigers of the AVG and later the United States army air force in China have kept the city raid-free.

Fight On for Railway Line.

On the ground, fighting continued in eastern Kiangsi province, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's high command said the Chinese were trying to win back still more of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

A communique said fighting was under way south of Yintang, which the Chinese recaptured last week.

New Zealand to Construct Its 1st Dried Meat Plant

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 27.—New Zealand today announced plans to construct the country's first large dried meat plant. The move follows experimental shipments of dried meat to Britain, which resulted in the placing of contracts for shipment of at least 100 tons monthly. Dried meat's major advantages in the shipping shortage are its small bulk and the fact that it can be shipped without the use of specialized refrigerator vessels.

CHOOSE FRONT, THEN STRIKE AT ONCE, NEW ZEALAND ENVOY URGES

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Walter Nash, New Zealand's minister to Washington, D. C., added his voice to the rising clamor for action by the united nations in an interview here today. Nash said he did not know whether the time was ripe for an offensive either here or in the Pacific, but added: "I think it is a mistake for us to do nothing."

Nash warned that Japan's great naval strength still presents a grave danger to New Zealand and Australia despite the Coral sea and Midway Island victories and said it was imperative that the united nations find the most effective way to strike, whether it is from New Zealand, Australia, the United States, or the United Kingdom.

Demands that the united nations take the initiative have been expressed frequently in recent public meetings, and the cry for a second front which arose at a huge mass meeting yesterday in Trafalgar Square was generally believed to reflect the hope of the British public.

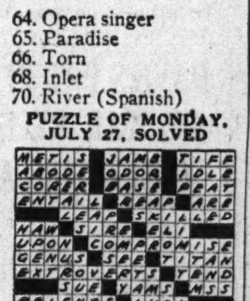
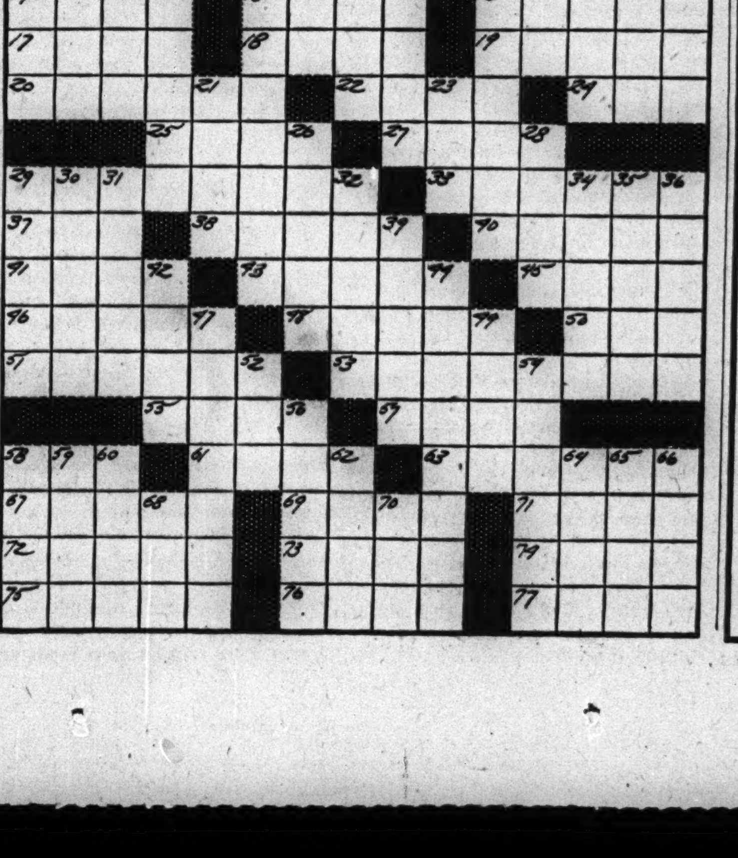
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, JULY 27, SOLVED





SAYS ALL FRANCE WILL RISE TO AID A SECOND FRONT

De Gaullist Warns Against Abortive Invasion.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—Andre Philip, 40 year old former Socialist deputy for Lyons who escaped from Vichy and is now in England to join Gen. Charles de Gaulle's "Fighting France," today said that if a successful landing is effected in France the united nations will have behind them the whole French population, which is now ready for revolt.

Philip said, however, that "it would be terrible if there were to be an unsuccessful landing or if you just have a general uprising of the population, unorganized and unarmed, beforehand."

Hits Raising of False Hopes.

"If an affair like St. Nazaire, when the people fought alongside the commandos, is repeated two or three times, then the [retaliatory] slaughter by the Germans will break the people's spirit," he said.

"Warnings such as were given recently [by the British radio] that people move away from the French coast are playing with the nerves of the people. They wait each day ready to help an invasion which never comes."

Philip said the underground organization in France now "takes orders direct from De Gaulle."

He said resistance to the Vichy régime has grown increasingly strong in the last eight or nine months and resistance is now spreading in Paris, Alsace, and Brittany so much that now in the Paris region the Vichy government is simply nonexistent.

Laval "Most Hated Man."

He said Chief of State Marshal Petain has lost prestige, and described Chief of Government Pierre Laval as the most hated man in all France.

Philip drew a distinction between French naval officers and sailors, pointing out that the eyes of the French masses, from which the sailors are recruited, are always directed eastward, while the officers, drawn from the upper classes, have never forgotten that their navy never fought the Germans but usually the English.

"There is a growing opposition between the officers and the sailors," he said. "I think it would be exceedingly difficult for Germany at any time to try to use the French navy. I believe that Marshal Petain will not yield this point and if the order came from Pierre Laval nobody would be ready to obey."

PURGE, SMEAR ARE REPUDIATED BY LUCE'S WIFE

Clare Boothe Says That Isolationism Is Dead.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—The smear and the purge of prewar noninterventionists has been repudiated by Clare Boothe, wife of Henry Luce, one of the leading smearers and purgers, who is the Fuehrer of the Time-Life Fortune magazine. Miss Boothe says that the isolation issue is dead and that the New Dealers have dropped it because President Roosevelt at one time "was the leading isolationist in the country." Miss Boothe saw the light and ran out on her husband's smearing campaign when she began to toy with the idea of running for congress in Connecticut.

Clare Boothe.

Rep. Clare Hoffman [R., Mich.] announced this important desertion to the house in a speech in which he quoted Miss Boothe's confession, which also repudiated the smearing of critics of the conduct of the war as defeatists. Hoffman is one of the targets of the smear and the purge being conducted by the Roosevelt administration, the Henry Luce press, the Marshall Field press, the so-called Union for Democratic Action, and the pinko New Republic.

May Run for Congress.

Hoffman explained in the Congressional Record that the term "isolationist" has been used by "warmongers and these publications to indicate disloyalty."

"Henry Luce," the congressman continued, "is the publisher of Time and Life magazines which, like the bird that 'fyleth his own nest,' have been trying to smear congress. Clare Boothe is his wife and Henry's views do not seem to be accepted at home. Under that name his wife may be a candidate for congress."

Then Hoffman quoted Miss Boothe's statement, published by the New York Times July 17.

"The isolation issue in the fall elections is a dead issue," said Miss Boothe. "Wanna bet? I think the New Dealers are too smart to use it. They put it out as a trial balloon and the balloon burst in their face. Now we will hear no more about it and I'm for that all the way. The whole American nation turned to a new page on Dec. 7 and the only political issue that has any validity now and for the duration is the war and what's being done about it. The only test for any candidate is, will he help us win the war or will he hurt?

F. D. R. an "Isolationist."

"Why do I think the isolation issue is dangerous for the New Dealers? For the simple reason that President Roosevelt himself was the leading isolationist in the country from the time he scuttled the London economic conference until his quarantine speech in Chicago. I challenge any New Dealer to show me any evidence of a single effort by the President in those years to lead the American people to confront the world shaking storm that was then brewing in Europe and actually blowing in the far east.

"If you think President Roosevelt, by taking time off from the war to intervene in the New York gubernatorial situation, is helping us win the war, then, of course, you cannot criticize him for what he is doing. Some suggest that the problems of winning the war and winning the peace are inseparable for political leaders and that the question of who will be New York's next governor is certainly involved in winning the peace.

Peace Will Come Later.

"But I think winning the peace is something that will grow out of winning the war and that we are going to keep on losing the war, as we have been losing it steadily since Dec. 7, unless every single one of us bends every single energy he possesses to the one objective of licking the axis.

"We don't want any rubber stamp congress and we don't want any silent congress that thinks criticizing the conduct of the war is obstructing victory. We have a democracy here, and if you believe in democracy you believe in the value of constructive criticism. I know I do."

News of Tom Chan's appointment to the People's Political council in Chungking spread rapidly thru the Chinese colony early today, and was favorably received. Tom is a leader in the colony, owner of the Chinese Trading company, importers, at 2261 Wentworth avenue. He attended a meeting of the council in Chungking last November. Tom is 58 years old, has been in Chicago 35 years, is married and the father of six daughters and two sons. They are Florence, a graduate of Northwestern university; Grace, a graduate of the University of Chicago; Helene, a student at the University of Illinois, and Eunice, Mary, Priscilla, Chan Jr., and Ping, all five in grammar or high schools. Tom is now in San Francisco, Cal.

O'DANIEL IS NEAR POLLS VICTORY WITH NO RUNOFF

Dallas, Tex., July 27 (AP).—A wavering one per cent of Democratic votes in the Texas primary election stood tonight between W. Lee O'Daniel and the United States senatorial nomination without a runoff.

With close to a million votes counted, former governor James V. Allred was pushing O'Daniel, the incumbent, toward a runoff.

The election bureau gave these figures: O'Daniel, 452,082 votes, or 48.12 per cent; Allred, 304,508, or 32.36 per cent; Dan Moody, 178,228, or 18.20 per cent.

A fourth candidate, Floyd E. Ryan, had 12,056 votes—the number the Texas election bureau said would give O'Daniel the uncontested nomination. Ryan tonight said he would not suggest how people who voted for him should vote but "I personally will vote for Sen. O'Daniel."

LEADERS OF N. Y. LABOR PARTY INDORSE MEAD

New York, July 27 (AP).—The state executive committee of the American Labor party tonight indorsed the candidacy of United States Sen. James M. Mead for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Mead, who is favored by President Roosevelt, is opposed for the Democratic nomination by Attorney General John J. Bennett, the choice of State Party Chairman James A. Farley, who claims a majority of next month's convention delegates are pledged to Bennett.

WIN WAR, SLASH NEEDLESS COSTS, IS G. O. P. DEMAND

Willkie Stand Ignored by State Leaders.

Springfield, Ill., July 27 [Special].—Republicans of Illinois, meeting in a preconvention session to exchange views on a possible party platform, today veered sharply away from any postwar commitments by the United States, and neglected even to mention Wendell Willkie's recent statement urging the Illinois Republicans to take a firm stand against a return to isolationism.

Theme of the meeting was "win the war and do away with needless governmental expenditures," a sentiment that was expressed over and over again by leaders of the party.

After the meeting Arnold P. Benson, of Batavia, who heads the state platform committee, termed the postwar issue "no issue at all," and said that the only thing to do after the war is do what every one wants done—protect American interests.

A Cheer for Brooks.

A suggestion by Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove that the convention at its session here Aug. 20 go on record "to win the war, and see to the election of C. Wayland Brooks as United States senator," received a cheer from the 100 persons who attended the meeting.

Brooks was the only state candidate mentioned at the session.

State Sen. Earl B. Searcy of Springfield called on the platform committee, of which he is a member, to make "no statements that any candidate cannot live up to after Jan. 1."

"I propose," said the senator, "that our 1942 state convention platform be brief—not to exceed 1,000 words in length, and shorter if possible; that its preface be a strong declaration for victory."

Suggested for consideration was a proposal by James Waller of Chicago that the platform call for adequate relief for every person unable to work for a living. Waller also suggested a stand against all nonessential governmental expense—"national, state, and local."

Proposals by Women.

"Rehabilitation" of the civil service system in the state was suggested by the league of women voters. Legislation permitting setting up of county health departments, also was advanced by the league.

"Return of states rights to the states, and return to the people of constitutional government" was suggested by Rep. R. J. Branson of Chicago.

Hill Blackett, former national committeeman, spoke briefly, declaring the "Republican party and the people of the United States want no commitments from this government now as to what we will do after the war."

"Leave that decision up to the government in power at that time," he said.

"I am opposed to an innocuous platform which some have proposed to avoid embarrassing candidates," he said. "There are some things we can say without embarrassing the candidates.

The Problem of Rubber.

"First is 'what are we going to do about this rubber situation?' There are plenty of able, competent scientists in this country who are able to start production of one million tons a year within nine months. Why isn't it being done? I believe that the Republican party will have to send a challenging call to the country to solve this rubber situation.

"There has also been a great deal of talk on reciprocal trade treaties after the war. I want no reciprocal treaties that will bring in cheap meat and grain to put farmers out of business."

VIRGINIA J. FOGARTY.

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—Virginia Josephine Fogarty of Akron, O., a navy nurse captured by the Japanese at Guam, and Frederick Mann, 29, of Brooklyn, N. Y., former United States vice-consul at Osaka, were married here today after a shipboard romance aboard the Asama Maru, the Japanese exchange vessel which brought them to this neutral port. They determined to get married when Mann learned he was being transferred to Brazzaville, French Africa. Mr. and Mrs. Mann expect to leave for West Africa shortly.

NEGROES TO TRY TO CAST VOTE IN ARKANSAS TODAY

Little Rock, Ark., July 27 (AP).—Racial issues, raised both by a Negro organization and a congressional candidate, overshadow other issues in tomorrow's biennial state-wide Democratic preferential primary election.

Negroes, working thru their Arkansas Negro Democratic association, planned to try to vote in Little Rock, Pine Bluff, and Forrest City despite a party regulation restricting primary voting privileges to "qualified white electors."

Negro leaders and white authorities said they anticipated no trouble.

In the fifth [central] district, Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey of Russellville, thru large newspaper advertisments, criticized Brooks Hays, former Farm Security administration official, for participation in the 193[illegible] Birmingham, Ala., convention of the southern conference for human welfare at which an anti-Jim Crow law resolution was adopted.

DISCLOSE JAPS SEIZED ALLIES IN INDO-CHINA

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portugese East Africa, July 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—Immediately after Pearl Harbor American, British, Canadian, and Dutch citizens were interned by the Japanese in French Indo-China, technically a neutral colony, overriding the protests of the French.

Americans arriving here report that 75 Americans remain in Hongkong. These include Emily Hahn, writer, and several members of the crew of the American freighter Admiral Williams, who were interned with 2,000 combatants.

Four Americans were killed in the fighting in Hongkong in December. They were Robert Rodger, 68 years old, of San Francisco, Cal., who was the only American serving as a volunteer soldier; Miss Florence Webb of Shanghai; Brother Damien Peter Whalen of New York, of the Christian Brothers schools, and John Jackson, 54, of Los Angeles, Cal., a sailor who was machine gunned while driving a food truck a few hours before the surrender Christmas day.

TELL YANK WAR CAPTIVES' PRIDE IN U. S. HEROISM

Prisoners' Need of Food, Supplies Described.

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 23 [Delayed].—The most serious conditions seem to prevail in military concentration camps at Zentsuji and Singapore, according to accounts given by released prisoners to American newspaper men in their party on the exchange ships.

At Zentsuji some 400 American, British, Australian, and Netherlands war prisoners are living on Japanese army rations, consisting mainly of vegetable soup and rice bread, with about 25 pounds of meat weekly for all and a little fish once weekly.

Lose Weight Rapidly.

As a result the men are losing weight rapidly, suffering softening of the teeth, incipient beri beri and dysentery. They are in urgent need of almost everything—food, clothes, soap, tobacco, vitamins, medical supplies, and reading matter.

The camp is called upon to provide "volunteer" workers who, for a little extra food, are put to clearing land and as dock labor, which in the orient is considered degrading coolie work. Despite this the spirit of the camp is excellent.

Take Pride in Heroism.

The Americans especially take pride in their valiant fight at Wake Island and stories about the numerous individual feats of valor, such as that of the American pilot who sank a Japanese submarine or the sergeant who blasted a Japanese torpedo boat by sighting his gun thru the bore after the sights had been shot off. But survivors of the Wake battle also remember a number of their comrades bayonetted by the Japanese after surrendering.

Five American navy nurses, headed by Marion Olds of Washington, D. C., who was captured at Guam and for a while was confined at Zentsuji, were aboard the liner Asama Maru. Altho they are under orders not to talk, it is known that one of them was slapped by a Japanese guard.

Saw British Prisoners Working.

Actual conditions at Singapore are not known but a Chilean newspaper man who was taken ashore saw British war prisoners doing road work under a blazing tropical sun clad only in shorts and without shirts or sun helmets. Civilians at Singapore are under strict supervision and are not permitted on the streets after 9 p. m.

At Hongkong, on the other hand, conditions in the war prisoners' camp were described as passable. Included among the inmates are some 40 American sailors from the freighter Admiral Williams, who are considered by the Japanese as members of the Hongkong volunteers.

Hull Declines Comment.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today the government was assembling all possible information on the treatment of Americans in Japanese hands. Until the complete picture is at hand, Hull told his press conference, he would prefer not to comment on the situation.

JAPS 'SO SORRY' AS THEY SNATCH SHANGHAI BOOTY

Rule in International Settlement Told.

[Morris J. Harris and J. D. White, veteran Associated Press correspondents in China, tell in the following dispatch the first story of the Japanese occupation of Shanghai's international settlement.]

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS AND JAMES D. WHITE.

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 24 [delayed]—(AP).—Still maintaining their traditional "so-sorry-for-you-but-we-need-this" attitude, the Japanese have steadily tightened their grip on Shanghai's International settlement. The Japanese occasionally remind the public and themselves that perhaps the settlement is still supposed to be international, but this in no way hampers them from appropriating anything they wish.

The Japanese have gone slow in Shanghai and it is believed that the main deterrent has been the fear of arousing to panic the city's 5,000,000 Chinese who, tho unarmed, still constitute a potential mob.

Shanghai was awakened at dawn Dec. 8 [the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor by East Asia time] by Japanese guns destroying the sole British gunboat remaining in the Whangpoo river, the Petrel. The American gunboat Wake surrendered.

Japs Cheer Arriving Troops.

Thousands of Japanese civilians cheered as truckloads of bluejackets, soldiers, and gendarmes poured into the settlement from Hongkew, plastering the area with printed posters, obviously prepared long in advance, which proclaimed the occupation of the settlement and instructed allied nationals to register on the following day.

The occupation was effected speedily and without incident. Germans provided some of the most ironical comments. "Japan's action means the white man's end in the far east," one said.

The Americans laughed in their faces.

Squads of soldiers, sailors, and gendarmes descended on all allied property except private homes. They spent days, weeks, and months sealing American and British offices and warehouse stocks involving all essential commodities.

Still Bicker Over Spoils.

They parceled out allied stores, factories, and wharves among themselves and the favored Japanese companies. Bickering over the spoils still continues. However, there was no unofficial looting or despoiling.

Public utilities were occupied and operated by military and naval agents. Most of the stores had Japanese supervisors appointed and some reopened for business, which was necessarily limited.

American Red Cross supplies were confiscated, tho some were later released. Allied banks were sealed immediately and later reopened. Gold balances are still frozen. Depositors in theory can withdraw 2,000 Chinese dollars a month from private local accounts but payments are slow and erratic.

On winter days we lined up for hours waiting to withdraw money for living expenses.

While some firms were allowed to withdraw enough money to pay off their staffs, some 200 others, including the Associated Press, were unable to get any funds whatever.

Confiscate Metals, Foods.

All essential commodities like metals, basic foods, and medicines, were confiscated or became subject to priorities rule. Allied automobiles were requisitioned in February and "receipts" were issued by the military authorities.

The Japanese kept all of the settlement's departments working, including the police, altho many employés were British and American. Allied nationals were immediately ejected from the Chinese maritime customs commission.

The French thus far appear to have escaped Japanese control but have no illusions about the future. Reciprocally the French receive small favors like fuel for buildings which is denied the settlement. But gendarmes enter and search homes and buildings in the French concession, sometimes ostentatiously accompanied by French police who thus signify "coöperation." The French remain friendly and helpful to allied nationals when possible.

BRITISH OPEN NEW ATTACKS ON AXIS FORCES IN EGYPT

Tobruk Bombed by British and American Flyers.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 27 (AP).—Renewing the aggressive tactics which pushed the Germans and Italians off a number of strategic ridges west of El Alamein last week, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's forces drove forward in the Egyptian desert again last night and today. The limited offensive opened last night in the northern sector resulted in the capture of prisoners and was continued today.

The attack was launched while both sides were building up forces and supplies in the expectation that a big operation will be undertaken shortly by one side or the other, and while the Germans and Italians still were under the disadvantage of hard and repeated blows by American and British airmen who delivered some of their mightiest assaults over the week-end against Marshal Erwin Rommel's supply lines and bases.

Raid Tobruk in Moonlight.

The latest of these was on Sunday night by a mixed force of British bombers which took advantage of a bright desert moon to assault Tobruk. The British said this assault touched off a train of fires and explosions, and that a cargo ship in the harbor, which evidently was jammed with explosives, blew up under the bombardment.

This followed a Saturday night attack in which 10 United States four motored bombers roared over the same sea base in the Americans' most successful raid since they have been battling by the side of the British in the desert. All 10 machines returned safely with their 70 flyers.

Drop Bombs Along Pipeline.

Lieut. Ernest Duckworth of Providence, R. I., bombardier-navigator of a plane piloted by First Lieut. Mark T. Mooty of Winter Haven, Fla., said he dropped a string of nine heavy bombs along a pipeline carrying fuel from the water front to inland dumps and that a long, livid line of fire spread with startling speed across the desert. The fire grew bigger after two hours and the RAF news service said it raged all night.

Far-ranging British fighters last night attacked axis barges off Sidi Barrani.

Much greater damage than at first was reported also was done in a raid on Candia airdrome in Crete Saturday night, reconnaissance disclosed today. It is from there that Marshal Rommel is reported to have flown reenforcements.

Down 12 Malta Raiders.

VALETTA, Malta, July 27 (AP).—Twelve axis planes, three Nazi bombers and eight fighters, and one Italian fighter, were destroyed by the RAF in two attacks on this British Mediterranean island today, a communique reported.

CLAIM ATTACK REPULSED.

The German and Italian communiques said axis forces had repulsed a new British attack on the southern sector of the El Alamein front and had captured a number of prisoners.

The Germans asserted Marshal Rommel's forces in Egypt have destroyed 146 British tanks and captured 1,400 prisoners since July 22.

The Italians said one of the planes attacking Tobruk was shot down and that two British fighters were shot down by German fighters during an axis attack on Malta.

KILLED BY HIGH TENSION WIRE.

Holland, Mich., July 27 [Special].—William Lou Rouse, 38 years old, Three Rivers, Mich., was killed at 4 p. m. today when he touched a high tension wire while working as a lineman for the Clifton Engineering company.

NO AMERICAN SHOULD BE ALLIED LEADER, SAYS LONDON PAPER

LONDON, July 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The Daily Mirror in a front page editorial today said any allied generalissimo for a second front should not be an American.

Commenting on reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, might be named allied generalissimo, the paper said that when British, American and Canadian troops undertake a second front, "the proper person to command it is a general with active experience in this war against the Germans."

"The ability of American leaders, however great, has not yet been tested beyond the examination room," the editorial continued. It criticized "minority opinion in this country" that British generals were unfit to command an allied force.

CHICAGOAN, 72, DIES AFTER FALL.

Charles Sborel, 72 years old, 2721 South Kedvale avenue, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of a skull fracture suffered July 22 when he fell while repairing his porch. He was a retired shipping clerk.

HITLER BOMBERS RANGE OVER WIDE AREAS OF BRITAIN

Heaviest Attack on Town of West Midlands.

LONDON, July 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—German planes dodging British anti-aircraft fire flew over London and other areas in the adjacent counties by the light of a full moon early today, but the only concentrated attack appeared to be at a west Midlands town where heavy explosives, and incendiary bombs were dropped.

A few heavy bombs also were reported dropped in the counties near London. The capital itself had a brief alert, but no bombings were reported here.

German planes also were reported over Northern Ireland and northern England. No damage was reported in Northern Ireland, where large numbers of American troops are quartered. Six of the raiders were shot down.

Yesterday the Germans had struck with breakfast time bombings in western and southern England, the Midlands, and into the counties within 50 miles of London. About 30 German planes participated in the 23 scattered raids. Casualties were reported in a number of sections.

At least 600 royal air force bombers which swarmed upon Hamburg in a powerful Sunday overnight assault left Germany's prize port and greatest submarine building center ablaze from a shower of two ton explosives and more than 175,000 incendiary bombs.

Air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris described the assault as "one of the outstandingly successful attacks of the whole war."

Returning airmen said that altho the size of the attacking force was short of the 1,000 plane standard set in June, perfect visibility and the weight of the 4,000 pound explosives dropped made the results "better than the 1,000 bomber job on Bremen."

One American member of a Canadian unit which took part in the attack said the great German town of 1,700,000 population was so ablaze with fires, searchlight beams, and bomb bursts that it "looked like Coney Island on a Saturday night."

Admit 29 Bombers Lost.

The air ministry news service said that the 29 bombers lost in the raid were "well under 5 per cent of the total number of bombers employed."

[The Germans said they shot down 37 attacking aircraft. They reported "fairly heavy civilian casualties" and said "a number of buildings, almost all in residential quarters, were destroyed or damaged."]

The big Blohm and Voss shipyards, said to be capable of building 25 submarines at a time, were believed to have been one of the RAF's principal targets at Hamburg.

"Much of the old town was on fire," the air ministry news service reported. "There were fires all around Aussen-Alster lake, and there were many in the dock area.

The appearance of United States army fighter pilots in week-end RAF forays over the continent further tipped the scales in favor of the allies in the long struggle for mastery of the air. At present the American fighter pilots are flying British Spitfires, but later they are expected to have their own latest United States models.

CITY OF LONDON MAPS REBUILDING PROGRAM; FEARS SPECULATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—The City of London corporation has prepared a plan to rebuild the financial district's "square mile," a large part of which was devastated by bombs, but will not disclose the scheme until government legislation is adopted to control what the city calls the black [illegal] land market.

This was revealed today by Claude W. Dennis, chairman of the city's improvement and town planning committee at a luncheon in honor of Lord Portal, minister of works, at Guildhall house. Not only the city but every other borough is awaiting government protection from land speculators before making public i rehabilitation plans, Dennis said.

Referring to a suggestion by the bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Geoffrey F. Fisher, that the wide open space bombs had cleared around St. Paul's cathedral should be allowed to remain since it gave a view which no other generation of Londoners had been privileged to enjoy, Dennis commented, "St. Paul's, we hope, will never be built upon again."

PLEBES BLITZED BY WEST POINT'S STIFFEST COURSE

Work, Work, More Work in Commando Routine.

[The American army today wants its "shavetails"—second lieutenants—to be as tough as commandos. Innovations in training West Point's new record class of plebes are described for the first time in the following article by J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent, who collected a sergeant's stripes, two wounds, three citations, and a Croix de Guerre in six major engagements in the first World war.]

BY J. NORMAN LODGE.

West Point, N. Y., July 27 (AP).—The toughest preacademic course any plebe ever took at the United States Military academy is being taught the present class of 960 youths.

Having completed an ordinary day with them—and quit before they did—I'm tired just from watching. But as daylight fades sharp commands still are being barked by upper classmen and the youths are still out there taking a tougher course than any other West Pointer ever took.

And for five weeks, starting back on July 1, these lads, ranging in age from 17 to 20 years, can expect nothing but work, work, more work, and then field maneuvers at Pine camp.

Then Work Begins.

By that time the summer plebe training period will be over and academic work will begin. That's when the casualties will start falling by the scholastic wayside.

The rest will become officers in the greatest army the United States ever put in the field.

Training today is based on the belief of a long war. That is why, for five arduous weeks, the plebes are taking the full commando course.

Today, for instance, there were simulated conditions running the gamut of blitzkrieg warfare. Bivouacs with attention centered on natural comouflage, bayonet and grenade practice, long marches, instruction in personal and field hygiene, preliminary rifle practice, instruction in tactics both on approach and march, dismounted drill and running obstruction and assault courses.

4 Minutes of Fighting.

While it is not possible to delineate every phase of this rigid training program, a description of the bayonet assault course may convey what your future officer is going thru.

The course looks like a badly blitzed countryside in any European country. From a standing start the cadet leaps a 3 foot obstruction, worms his way thru an 8 foot box that looks like the pine boxes in which a coffin is placed, then into a series of connecting snakelike trenches.

In the trenches are several insets not unlike a sentry box. In each is an imaginary foe. Most of them bear a likeness of Adolf Hitler and at each the plebe uses the bayonet. At the far end another enemy is encountered—he jumps right out at you and must be polished off.

Once thru the trench, the cadet finds he is just starting. Obstructions, barbed wire, deep holes, each holding a lurking enemy; high log barricades with bark chipped off to make them smoother, improvised bridges, more barbed wire, and a steep climb up a snaky hill, and the cadet emerges at the grenade throwing area.

There he slings his rifle, reaches into his musette bag, and tosses grenades. The course, about 440 yards long, is negotiated in about 4 minutes and woe betide the plebe who has failed to satisfy the upper class man tutor. Back he goes for more.

The call you DON'T make—the Army CAN!

MODERN war is a high-speed, high-pressure operation. Any time a military or war production call gets stalled in a telephone traffic jam, Victory is postponed that much.

Wartime tie-ups can't be cured by new construction — because materials are even more urgently needed for tanks, planes and ships. The only solution is more careful, efficient use of present telephone facilities.

Will you help out? Here's how you can —

1. Make fewer and briefer Long Distance calls.
2. Try to call in the less crowded hours — noon to 2 P. M— 5 to 7 P. M.— after 9 P. M.

Thank you. We knew you'd be glad to cooperate in saving calls — so the Army can make 'em! Remember, war's on the wires.

War calls come first!

TRIBUTES TO TRAVELERS

Whose cooperation and patience are helping so much in America's War of Movement!

There has been considerable praise of late for the way in which railroads have handled their wartime responsibilities. Much of the credit should go to Army and Navy officials for their foresight and unfailing cooperation.

But we would be less than just if we did not also express our gratitude to our passengers whose willingness to adjust their travel habits to wartime needs has done so much to help "keep 'em rolling."

TO MR. McPHERSON
for stopping by in person!

By stopping in for information instead of making several telephone calls, many travelers are planning their future trips with maximum efficiency and at the same time helping us to keep the telephone lines open.

TO MRS. PICKETT
for the early date at which she bought her ticket!

We are glad to report that passengers are coming to the ticket office to make reservations and buy tickets well in advance. This spirit of helpfulness allows us to allocate equipment more efficiently and helps avert last minute jams at the station.

TO MR. GRANGE
for canceling promptly when his plans change!

Here is another fine example of how the considerate actions of our passengers serve the common good. Prompt cancellation of unused reservations makes possible someone else's trip—prevents the waste of precious travel space.

TO MRS. WHITE
for traveling light!

Nowadays, with both Pullmans and coaches at near capacity, a minimum of luggage leaves more space in accommodations and facilitates transfers. We are grateful that so many passengers are adopting the motto "traveling light is traveling right!"

TO MR. SKINNER
for not lingering at his table after dinner!

With train traffic increasing, and with no material available to build new cars, we must serve a great many more meals per diner. Therefore, the consideration of passengers who leave their tables promptly when they finish eating is very much appreciated these days.

TO MR. TRIPPER
who isn't a passenger at all, but a shipper!

We include this tribute because we want everyone to know how helpful our shippers have been. By ordering only the necessary freight cars, by loading and unloading promptly and by loading to full capacity, they are helping us greatly to make maximum use of our equipment.

We know many others to whom we should like to pay similar tribute. There's Mr. Peek who now travels in the middle of the week ... thus lessening weekend and holiday congestion. There's Mr. Tupper, who cheerfully accepts an upper ... or whatever accommodation is available in these times when so many cars are in use by the fighting forces. And especially, there's Mr. Rood whose "thumbs up" attitude toward occasional wartime delays and inconveniences is more important than he perhaps realizes, because such spirit is catching and cheers on those who are waging America's War of Movement.

RED, BLUE ARMIES TAKE POSITIONS FOR WAR GAMES

Set Zero Hour in Carolina Test on Wednesday.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wadesboro, N. C., July 27.—Red and Blue forces in the Carolina war games began moving into position late tonight, for the opening Wednesday of the initial phase of the air-ground maneuvers. First details of the problem were handed the opposing generals by the maneuvers director, Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley, commander of the 6th army corps, while tank, air, and foot troops completed their preparations for simulated combat in the hot, scrub-covered uplands just north of the South Carolina border.

Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley.

By tomorrow night, the thousands of troops participating will be in position on a 20 mile front separated by a neutral zone about six miles wide. The mission of the Blues, under Maj. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem Jr., who has superior man and air power, will be to destroy the Red army led by Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker.

Zero Hour 6 A. M. Wednesday.

At 6 a. m. Wednesday, both forces will start reconnaisance north and south of their respective lines which will face each other, at the six mile distance, in the northwestern sector or the maneuver area, which is heart shaped and covers about 5,000 square miles. The problem, which is designed to last two days, will cover about half the territory, with the Reds holding a defensive position in the south, from which the Blues will attempt to dislodge then without crossing the border of a brown neutral state which occupies the eastern portion of the maneuver tract.

Altho the Blues have about a four to one man power advantage, and easily a six to one advantage in firepower over the Reds, in addition to air superiority, the Reds are to be considered as part of a much larger attacking force mythically organizing 90 miles away in Kingstree, S. C., preparing for an invasion of the northwest.

Flyers at Tent Top Level.

After getting into position tomorrow, the Reds will camouflage as well as they can, to minimize the effects of the Blue bombers, which started familiarizing themselves with the area before sunup today, making headquarters at Pine Ridge by flying at about tent-top level.

In their strategical advance upon the invading Reds, the Blues will be handicapped by the brush and pine woods, the creeks of the battle terrain.

Only partial information concerning their enemies was given to the opposing commanders, Generals Walker and Gillem. They know a little about the other's position, but very little.

Both armies were in blackout tonight occupying bivouacs areas in order to avoid detection by dawn patrols of both air forces.

The flyers, under command of Col. Guy L. McNeil of Ames, Ia., a World war pilot who remained in the air corps, have been living under "10 second orders" for a day now, when they are not in the air, which means they were never more than 10 seconds from their helmets and gas masks.

The planes are carrying full bomb and gasoline loads, with machine guns manned. They will carry the weight they would in foreign combat.

JURY WILL HEAR DR. WILLUMEIT IN SEDITION INQUIRY

Judge John P. Barnes in the federal District court yesterday issued a writ to bring to Chicago Dr. Otto Willumeit, former head of the German-American bund here, to testify before a special grand jury investigating seditious activities. Dr. Willumeit is awaiting sentence by a federal court in Hartford, Conn., on a plea of guilty to espionage.

The former bund head has testified before grand juries in Washington, D. C., New York City, and Hartford, Conn. Indictments have been returned by those juries on charges of espionage against other persons. He will testify before the grand jury here Friday.

Four other persons were subpenaed to appear before the special grand jury during the day. They are A. F. W. Siebel, 100 Garrison street, Wilmette, an attorney and formerly president of the Germania club; Otto C. Dwors, 2042 Kenmore avenue, and Harold N. Roeser, 7134 Oleander avenue, both officials of the club, and Sigmund Katz, 904 Wilson avenue, active in German organizations.

Schwinn Pleads Innocent.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Herman Schwinn, western district leader of the German-American bund, pleaded innocent today to indictments alleging conspiracies to violate the selective service act and the alien registration act when he was brought before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey. He was held in bail of $25,000. Schwinn came to the United States from Germany in 1924 and was naturalized in 1932. In 1940, however, the United States Supreme court affirmed a decision depriving him of citizenship on the ground he had been illegally naturalized.

Test 2½ Ton West Side Air Raid Siren Tomorrow

First test of the new 2½ ton air raid siren, installed last week on the roof of the fire house at 4666 Fulton street, will be held at 11:50 a. m. tomorrow. Police, firemen, and civilian defense volunteers will be posted in concentric circles thruout the area to report its effectiveness. Officials expect the audibility range will exceed five miles.

Medical Journal Hits Tribune Editorial on Jaundice in Army

The Journal of the American Medical association, in the leading editorial of its Aug. 1 issue which is published tomorrow, attacks THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE because of an editorial, titled "A Grievous Error," which appeared in yesterday's Tribune.

The Tribune editorial commented on an official report from Secretary of War Stimson revealing 28,585 cases of jaundice in the army, 62 of them fatal. The condition was attributed to inoculations against yellow fever. Mr. Stimson explained that as a result the vaccine had been modified.

The Tribune editorial is here reprinted and with it the greater part of the AMA Journal editorial:

EXCERPTS FROM MEDICAL JOURNAL EDITORIAL.

"The charge has been made by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE [July 27, 1942] that the medical department of the United States army and thereby our government has been 'guilty of a grievous error of judgment.' THE TRIBUNE asks: 'How did it happen that wholesale vaccinations were undertaken with a vaccine which quite obviously had not been thoroly tested in advance?' The statement in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is unwarranted. Testing had been adequate. The vaccine had been tested in hundreds of thousands of cases. The procedure is, however, a new one and, as with all procedures in the field of medicine, the use of any new technic in the field may yield information which is quite different from that obtainable on preliminary testing. There is every reason to believe that vaccination against yellow fever is warranted and that the occurrence of 62 deaths and some 28,000 cases of jaundice associated with the vaccination of millions of men is far less serious than would be an epidemic of virulent yellow fever among soldiers sent to the tropical areas in which our army is now engaging the enemy.

"In its editorial statement THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE says that 'an inquiry is plainly indicated.' That statement presupposes a stupidity on the part of medical science which is wholly unjustified. From the very moment when cases of jaundice first appeared in association with inoculation against yellow fever the best medical talent available in the United States was concentrated on this question. In its study of epidemic and other diseases the army medical department does not depend exclusively on its peacetime personnel. It has engaged the facilities and the talent assembled by the Division of Medical Sciences of the National Research council and it has established a consulting staff of physicians from civil life which represents the very best that this nation can supply.

"The American army has always been the most healthy army in the world. Its sickness and death rates today are, even with the temporary invalidism associated with the vaccination, far less than those of similar age groups in civilian life. This fact warranted the statement published in the Journal on July 18 that 'the total number of cases in the entire army has not been enough to appreciably increase the admission rate for all diseases.' By the type of editorial that has been printed THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has done a disservice to American medicine. Certainly by the fears it may create among soldiers now being inducted into our armed forces it will injure morale and make more difficult the task of assembling the type of force that must be assembled to meet the challenge of our enemies. The haste with which the editorial must have been prepared certainly made impossible the kind of scientific investigation on which charges such as THE TRIBUNE has made ought to be based."

THE TRIBUNE EDITORIAL

"Secretary of War Stimson has reported 28,585 cases of jaundice in the army. Sixty-two of them have proved fatal. The condition is attributed to inoculations against yellow fever. Mr. Stimson has explained that the vaccine which seems to have been responsible for the trouble has now been modified. The surgeon general of the army, Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, is said to be confident that there will be no further ill effects.

"As recently as June 18 the Journal of the American Medical Association contained the following note:

"'In recent weeks there have been numerous admissions to [army] hospitals on account of jaundice which has the characteristics, the war department said, of catarrhal jaundice [epidemic hepatitis], but the total number of cases in the entire army has not been enough to appreciably increase the admission rate for all diseases. The war department points out that this is definitely not yellow fever and it is not dangerous to the general public.'

"It is difficult to believe that the development of more than 28,000 cases of jaundice did not 'appreciably increase the admission rate for all diseases,' even if the great majority of the victims were not hospitalized. What is even more curious is the war department's intimation that 'this is definitely not yellow fever.' The statement may be accurate, strictly speaking, but it is certainly misleading, for it invites the false conclusion that the condition is wholly unrelated to yellow fever in any fashion.

"The modification of the vaccine may be counted upon to prevent further trouble, but the country is entitled to a much fuller explanation of the matter than it has received. How did it happen that wholesale inoculations were undertaken with a vaccine which quite obviously had not been thoroly tested in advance? Somebody was guilty of a grievous error of judgment. In the war thus far some 1,400 American soldiers have been wounded. Twenty times as many have fallen victim to yellow fever inoculations. The number is so large that an inquiry is plainly indicated.

"It should be added in justice to medical science and to the army's medical service that this is the first unfortunate experience of the sort that has been encountered. The preventive treatments against typhoid, paratyphoid, smallpox, and other communicable diseases have been productive of excellent results in the last war and in this one. Diseases which formerly ravaged armies have all but disappeared from the military hospitals. It is just because the contrast is so striking that an investigation is needed."

DR. FISHBEIN'S COMMENT

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, which attacks a Tribune editorial demanding an inquiry into the illness of 28,000 soldiers from yellow fever inoculations, was asked last night whether he believed recovery will be definite in most cases.

"Who can tell?" he countered. "Those cases that have come to my attention seem to have recovered all right, but there is nothing definite in the world."

Dr. Fishbein said that so far as he knows the inoculations have not been stopped, altho modified; nor did he know, he said, whether there were any cases at nearby army camps. He denied that the A. M. A. editorial was influenced by any government agency. In 1938, Dr. Fishbein was indicted with other physicians and the American Medical association under the anti-trust laws. A federal jury last April acquitted the individual defendants but convicted the A. M. A. The association was fined $2,500, and is now appealing before the United States Supreme court.

'MONK' TEARS UP HIS DRAFT CARD; FACES U. S. TRIAL

William Schull, 49 years old, who asserted he is a "monk" and his wife a "nun," was held under $5,000 bond yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for destroying his draft registration card.

Schull, also known as Basil Semotink, was taken to the Lake Forest police station last week after complaints had been made by neighbors living near his home at 686 Forest avenue, Lake Forest. Police said he told them "this country is no good" and tore up his draft card as they watched.

Schull was mute on his arraignment before Walker and a not guilty plea was entered. Assistant United States Attorney John Kelly was granted a continuance of the case to Aug. 16 to investigate Schull.

Policemen's Group to Buy $50,000 Worth of Bonds

The Policemen's Benevolent association will purchase $50,000 worth of war bonds Friday at 11:45 a. m. at Treasury corner, State and Van Buren streets from Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh, conductors of the W-G-N Rhymster Tyme program. recently emphasized the gravity of the Atlantic peril by announcing that sinkings in the week of July 12-18 were the highest since the war began and that allied losses "have greatly exceeded new construction."

On the other side of the ledger the government has extended its convoy system, opened anti-submarine schools, added escort vessels, and increased air patrols in an all-out effort to smash the underwater menace. Into production it has thrown the facilities of the world's greatest shipyards.

Following is a tabulation of allied and neutral monthly losses since Dec. 7, with actual sinking dates being used where officially announced:

Recently Rear Adm. H. L. Vickery, vice chairman of the Maritime commission, said United States shipyards were ahead of 1942 schedules by 2,000,000 tons and predicted the 1943 output would replace all losses. He also pointed to May and June figures which showed that 124 steel cargo ships aggregating 1,364,204 tons had been completed.

United States shipyards set a goal of 2,300 merchant vessels and 700 smaller craft by the end of next year. The yards expect to turn out 750 of the vessels before Jan. 1.

SHIPPING BOARD ASKS PRIORITY TO GET SEAMEN

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—The War Shipping administration urged the War Manpower commission today to give first priority to the merchant marine in the assignment of men.

The WSA said that between now and early October the need of seamen for the merchant marine and for foreign flag vessels operating to and from American ports would become the most urgent since the start of the war."

"There is an actual shortage of seagoing personnel at present and the prospect is that it will become more serious," the WSA said in a report directed to the manpower commission.

Approximately 90,000 seamen will be required under the maritime commission program calling for 2,000 freighters plus tanker vessels by the end of 1943, the WSA said.

Du Page County Designated a Health Defense Zone

The state public health department in Springfield yesterday designated Du Page county as a health defense zone because of its proximity to war plants in Cook and Will counties.

6 NATIONS TO AID U. S. RUSH SUPPLY ROAD TO PANAMA

Pioneer Highway Will Avoid Sub Menace.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Six Central American republics are joining with the United States in an emergency job of road building to bypass the submarine menace and provide an overland route from this country to the Panama canal.

Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, and Panama, the state department disclosed tonight, have agreed to coöperate in the immediate construction of pioneer roads to connect the already constructed segments of the inter-American highway between the Mexican-Guatemalan border and Panama City.

The expense of the emergency construction will be borne by the United States.

Build 625 Miles of Road.

The construction plans call for about 625 miles of quickly constructable pioneer road to fill the gaps in the inter-American highway, the completed segments of which now aggregate about 1,000 miles in length. The pioneer road will be from 10 to 16 feet wide with an eight-inch gravel surface and average maximum grades of 10 per cent.

This will permit opening of road traffic fairly soon between the end of the existing standard gauge railway in Mexico and the canal zone.

Goods and supplies of all kinds then can be shipped to the canal zone and to Central American cities by land instead of on ships which must run the gauntlet of axis submarines in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean.

Depend on Ships for Supplies.

Heretofore not only the canal zone but the Central American republics have depended largely on water transportation for all supplies.

The emphasis on completion of the pioneer road will not modify the plan to construct a permanent inter-American highway, for which congress authorized last December the expenditure of $20,000,000. The pioneer road will, however, permit thru traffic at a much earlier date and will, at the same time, facilitate construction of the permanent highway.

11 Condemned to Death for Sabotage in Serbia

BERNE, Switzerland, July 27 (AP).—A military court at Bitolj, Jugo-Slavia, has condemned to death 11 persons and sentenced 18 others to life imprisonment on sabotage charges, Balkan dispatches said tonight.

CHICAGO CHINESE CITIZENS HONOR 2 FLYING TIGERS

Hundreds of Chinatown's citizens turned out yesterday to cheer two Flying Tigers, who, for many months, fought Japanese air raiders over Burma and China. Headquarters of the Chinese Emergency Relief society at 216 West 22d place were jammed with those eager to get a glimpse of the heroes who helped bag 300 Jap planes, the total credited to the American Volunteer group.

The honored guests were Flight Leader Robert Brouk, 24 years old, of Cicero, who is credited with shooting down four Jap planes, and Sergt. Major Edwin Fobes, 24, who is here visiting his fianceé, Miss Betty Washburn of 8052 Bennett avenue. Fobes, not a pilot, served as head of a communications system used to detect the approach of enemy aircraft.

James Moy, president of the Chinese Emergency Relief society, said, "These men, as much as any other, are responsible for the unity that now exists between China and the United States."

Brouk and Fobes hope to become instructors in the army air force.

WAR BUNGLING DRAWS BLASTS IN BOTH HOUSES

Administration Must Take Blame, Congress Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—Newspapers and radio commentators who blame congress for war bungling and the nation's other ills were accused in senate debate today of aiding and abetting a concerted movement to undermine public confidence in representative government.

Half a dozen senators insisted that the executive branch of the government must be held accountable for the war effort, since congress has appropriated every dollar and authorized the exercise of virtually every war power requested by the Roosevelt administration.

In the house members also took the floor to denounce accusations in the smear press that congress is responsible for war bungling. For 90 minutes they put the blame where they said it belonged—squarely on the Roosevelt administration.

Prepare for Recesses.

The house, like the senate, made preparations for a series of informal recesses during the next few weeks to permit a majority of the members to go home and learn what the people are saying.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] called the senate's attention to a radio speech made last night by Rep. Lyndon Johnson [D., Tex.], an ardent New Dealer, who charged that the navy's combat aircraft is inferior to Japanese Zero fighting planes. Johnson, a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve, has just returned from active duty in the southwest Pacific.

"If it is a fact that we do not have airplanes comparable to Japanese Zero planes, the fault does not lie with congress," said Sen. O'Mahoney. "It lies with the departments which have not known how to spend the money which congress has provided for the defense of the people."

Chandler Hits Criticism.

Sen. A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.], member of the military affairs committee, denounced criticism by radio commentators of a proposed inspection by four senators of American defenses in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands.

According to the authoritative Army and Navy Journal, the armed services were greatly pleased when the senate's contingent fund committee, headed by Sen. Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] and dominated by the administration, allowed only $3,000 for the proposed inspection.

Chandler described as "revealing" the navy communique announcing that the Japs had landed on the "undefended" islands.

Questions Other Defenses.

"If they are undefended," said Chandler, "we are not certain that other places are not defended, and that we shall not be ousted from them until the situation becomes dangerous to the mainland and to the people of the United States."

Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] denounced an editorial in the Washington Post headed "Political Profiteers," which held congress primarily responsible for the country's difficulties. Taft pointed out that congress has given the administration full authority to cope with such problems as inflation, shortages of materials, and war profiteering.

Sen. Lucas assailed what he described as irresponsible talk by "radio strategists."

Assail State Department.

In the house the state department and the army were castigated for persistently turning a deaf ear to congressional pleas since 1935 for a national highway to Alaska. Rep.

Representatives Fulmer [left], Magnusen, and M. F. Smith [right].

Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.], who recently concluded a tour of active duty as a naval lieutenant commander, declared that early the Pearl Harbor attack and Japanese invasion of the Aleutians awoke the brass hats to the necessity of a supply route to Alaska.

The War Production board was assailed by Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart [R., Cal.] for bungling the production of synthetic rubber. He said the WPB refuses to admit the alcohol-rubber possibilities of 60,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat stored in the pacific northwest by the Surplus Commodity corporation.

OCD Draws Criticism.

The Office of Civilian Defense came in for criticism as Rep. Martin F. Smith [D., Wash.], quoted military experts as predicting that a west coast air raid could be expected and that gas probably would be used. He said the failure of the OCD to supply citizens with gas masks is inexcusable, if these predictions are true.

Magnuson said in his discussion of the Alaskan highway situation that the route chosen by the International Defense agency headed by Fiorello La Guardia was partly over quicksands.

"The Canadian government suggested that route and La Guardia, who has some 17 or 1,700 other jobs, and some of the other gentlemen who had never been out in the country involved thought it was a good idea," observed Magnuson. "It was good business for Canada because the route hooks up a series of airports which are intended for use in a British round the world route after the war which will be in competition with our commercial airlines."

BABY DRINKS VARNISH; DIES.

Plymouth, Ind., July 27 [Special].—Ridley E. Edel, 14 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edel of Bremen, died today after drinking varnish.

Abandonment Case

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. HAZEL PEELER.

The mother of two baby girls left in a west side home on Saturday and taken by Warren avenue police to St. Vincent's orphanage will be charged with child abandonment in Woman's court today. She is Mrs. Hazel Peeler, 22 years old, a waitress.

Mrs. Peeler was found by police in her brother's home at 447 North May street yesterday morning. "I just couldn't take care of the babies any longer," she told police. Mrs. Peeler said she and her husband quarreled a month ago and that he left and joined the army.

The children are Barbara Jean, 3 year olds, and Geraldine, 18 months old. Mrs. Peeler left them with Miss Joan Margolis, 22 years old, 1832 Warren boulevard, about 4 p. m. Saturday, saying she was going to make a phone call. When Mrs. Peeler did not return by Sunday morning Miss Margolis took the babies to the police station.

CAB COMPANIES FIGHT ORDER TO REDUCE MILEAGE

Chicago's cabs are an essential part of its transportation system and any curtailment in their operation will work a hardship upon the public, Michael Sokoll, president of the Checker Taxi company, said yesterday.

Sokoll and Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab company, were preparing reports on their tire use in response to a request from Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director.

Mulcahy has control over the rationing of tire recapping services for cabs. He has ordered the cab companies to cut their tire mileage below 1941 levels and to eliminate non-revenue producing mileage.

"Our job is to convince Mr. Mulcahy that cabs are essential," Sokoll said. "The nature of cab service involves so-called dead mileage. We can't eliminate dead mileage without curtailing service. We can't turn calls down merely because they involve long trips or a certain amount of inevitable dead mileage."

Sokoll emphasized the war functions of the cab industry. He said the 1,800 drivers who operate its 1,000 cabs know the city thoroly and, in event of a disaster, could evacuate rapidly the affected areas.

BEGIN REBUILDING OF 8 BRIDGES FOR NAVY THIS WEEK

Conversion of eight bridges between the mouth of the Chicago river and Lockport into movable spans is beginning this week, Lieut. Comm. H. L. Mathews, officer in charge of the project for the navy, said yesterday. The conversion will permit larger boats to move down the Illinois waterway, he said.

Stephen Michuda, engineer of bridges, said the navy has given the city contracts amounting to $845,000 to remodel the bridges at Western, California, Pulaski, Cicero, and Kedzie avenues. The sanitary district was awarded a contract of $105,000 to make movable spans of the bridges at Willow Springs, Harlem avenue, and the juncture of Summit and Lyons.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, received bids yesterday on the conversion of the Western avenue bridge. William J. Howard, Inc., was low bidder at $484,945 and Overland Construction company second at $494,315.

NEW SALES PUSH SERVICE KIN PIN TOTAL TO 71,383

Sales of service pins soared to 71,383 in The Tribune's public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower yesterday. More than 300 pins were sold over the counter and 116 by mail. All of the 25 combinations available in the pins continue to be popular with relatives and sweethearts of service men. The pins designate the relationship, father, son, brother, husband, or sweetheart, to men in the army, navy, marine corps coast guard and air services. Pins cost 10 cents, plus one cent jewelry tax, over the counter or 15 cents by mail. Profits go to the United Service Organizations.

Jury Returns No Verdict in Plunge Death of Widow

A coroner's jury yesterday was unable to determine whether Mrs. Margaret Miller, 65 years old, leaped or fell from the window of her room on the 21st floor of the Palmer House early yesterday. Her body, dressed in black, was found on the 6th floor courtway on the Wabash avenue side of the building. She was the widow of C. B. Miller, former credit manager for Carson Pirie Scott & Co. who died a year ago.

HITLER HAS CUT LINES TO EUROPE, SENATOR SAYS

Lee, New Dealer, Presses for Cargo Planes.

man, and Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, who said the contract was canceled because of a shortage of steel. The senator then read newspaper advertisments by the United States Steel corporation asserting that this one company alone, in addition to all its other war production, is making enough steel plates for 100 ships a month. There are at least four other large producers of steel ship plates, Ellender said.

Production Not that Big.

"While one company is making enough steel plates for 100 ships a month, we are not yet turning out two ships a day," Ellender said. "We may reach that point, but we are not there yet."

A subcommittee of the house merchant marine committee reported on Saturday that there was enough steel for the entire shipbuilding program but that the old standard yards, some of them subsidiaries of steel companies, had inventories far out of proportion to their normal needs.

Ellender failed to get action today on a motion to discharge the senate commerce committee from further consideration of his resolution to suspend cancelation of the Higgins contract pending the completion of congressional inquiries. The senate's Truman committee will begin hearings in the matter tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Higgins also lost a round in the house when that body's merchant marine committee tabled a resolution to "instruct" the Maritime commission to stay its cancellation order pending a committee investigation.

Higgins, lugging a batch of photographs showing big stock piles of ship construction material at his uncompleted yard, appeared before the house subcommittee and said the "buzzards and vultures" already were at work dismantling the plant.

Seek to Avoid "Interference."

He told of his plans to produce vessels with unprecedented speed, using rolling assembly line principles developed in the automobile industry and saving "at least" $300,000 a ship thru reduced labor costs alone.

Rep. S. O. Bland [D., Va.], chairman of the house committee, said that his group believed more good could be accomplished by proceeding with its independent investigation, without pressing for adoption of the instruction order.

He declared also the cancellation order already had become effective, and the committee did not want to be put in a position where responsibility for any errors could be laid to its "interference."

A PLEA: CONVERT WAR STAMPS TO WAR BONDS—NOW

Illinois may fall 8 million dollars short of its 85 million dollar war bond quota for July unless purchases rise sharply in the next few days, Norman B. Collins, state administrator of the treasury department's war savings staff, said yesterday.

Collins urged owners of war stamps to convert them immediately into war bonds and help the state meet its goal.

"Tens of millions of stamps in denominations of 10 cents, 25 cents, and $1 are lying idle in the hands of the public and earning no interest," he said. "By turning them into bonds, the owners will start realizing interest on their investment immediately."

Employés and executives of the Standard Oil Company [Ind.] this afternoon will be awarded a Minute Man flag and a citation from the treasury department. The ceremony will be held in front of the company building at 910 South Michigan avenue.

Approximately 93 per cent of the company's personnel has enrolled in the war savings pay roll allotment plan. They are devoting 8 per cent of their total pay to war bonds.

BRITAIN INAUGURATES 30 SCHOLARSHIPS IN JAPANESE LANGUAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 27.—For an hour today the vast machine of the ministry of information which took over London university's new buildings at Bloomsbury gave way before the inauguration of 74 scholarships in Oriental languages, 30 of which were to be allotted for Japanese, 20 for Turkish, 16 for Chinese, and eight for Persian.

It is felt that Japanese speaking Britons will be useful when the empire wins back its far eastern territories.

Prof. Frank Horton said the scholarship scheme had been first put forward by the war office and sponsored by the board of education, and was supported with enthusiasm by the school of Oriental and African studies. Leopold S. Amery, secretary of state for India, said that the scheme would be of great use in restoring the countries which have been under the British flag and which will come back under that flag.

FLYERS' RUBBER BOAT INFLATES IN TEN SECONDS

New York, July 27 [Special].—New one-man rubber parachute boats, which can be inflated in less than 10 seconds, are being supplied pilots in the nation's armed forces for emergency use in the event that their planes are forced down over water. It was announced today by the United States Rubber company, manufacturers of the boats.

The boat is attached as a seat peak to fighter pilots who also wear life vests. After hitting the water the pilot turns a valve on a small carbon dioxide cylinder on the seat peak, which is about 15 inches square and 4 inches wide, and in from 5 to 10 seconds the pack expands to become a boat 5 feet 4 inches long and 3 feet 4 inches wide. The total weight of the boat, including 11 items of equipment, is 12 pounds.

This equipment includes fabric paddles, a concertina hand pump to maintain the required pressure in the supporting tubes, special plugs to fill up holes made by bullets, a collapsible fabric bailing cup, a collapsible sea anchor, a can of water, and a sea marker.

U. S. FATE ROOTED IN HOME FRONT, ASSERTS PARKER

Salem, Ill., July 27 [Special].—The importance of strengthening the home front to increase the effectiveness of the country's actual fighting forces was emphasized here today by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director of the Illinois state council of defense. Gen. Parker, United States army, retired, spoke at the 59th annual Marion county soldiers' and sailors' reunion.

"The fighting force never can be stronger than the home front, for it represents the people and the people represent the government," he said.

"Today, in the organization of civilian defense, the state of Illinois provides the opportunity for war service which her civilian citizens so earnestly desire, and Illinois will meet the test of war in accord with her people and with her traditions."

Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, who spoke, said the armed forces "undoubtedly will need every able bodied man in America" before the war is won.

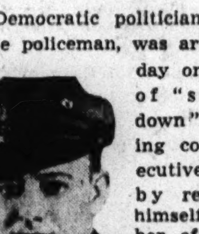
NAB POLITICIAN, EX-POLICEMAN, FOR SHAKEDOWN

Accused of Taking Cash from Trucker.

A Democratic politician, formerly a state policeman, was arrested yesterday on a charge of "shaking down" a trucking company executive for $150 by representing himself as a member of the state police force.



Herman Wolff.

The accused man is Herman Wolff, 2536 North Sawyer avenue, a Democratic precinct captain in the 37th ward. He resigned from the state police on Dec. 10, 1940.

Wolff was arrested by Capt. Wilbur Kennedy of the state police at Clark and Adams street, where he had gone to meet Israel Harrison, head of the Harrison Transportation company, 3333 Iron street, who brought the shakedown complaint.

Hunt Mystery Man.

Still sought in the inquiry is a mysterious figure who by telephone introduced himself to Harrison as "Red McWilliams of the secretary of state's office." Inquiry has shown there is no McWilliams connected with the office of the secretary of state either in Springfield or in Chicago. It was suspected that McWilliams might be none other than Wolff, who is known as a ventriloquist.

Both Harrison and his partner, Milton Sacks, signed warrants charging Wolff with obtaining money under false pretenses and posing as a state policeman.

Capt. Kennedy explained his investigation of Wolff as follows:

"On July 9, Sergt. Dominick Colucci, attached to district 4 of the state police at 139th street and Cicero avenue, arrested a truck driver of the Harrison company. The driver told Colucci, 'We're all set, the company has fixed things up.' Colucci said he didn't know anything about it, gave the driver a ticket for an overload, and the next day the driver was fined $25 by Justice of the Peace Joseph Catugno in Hillside.

Tells of Making Payment.

"This fine brought Israel Harrison to my office in a hurry. He was indignant, said he had paid to keep out of trouble. He then told me about Wolff and 'Red McWilliams.' He said the latter telephoned him on June 15, told him the heat was on for overloading, clearance lights, and other minor infractions, and that he had better get fixed up. If he didn't know anybody who could take care of him he'd better call Herman Wolff, and he gave him Wolff's unlisted telephone number.

"Harrison met Wolff at the United States courthouse. Wolff showed supposed credentials, said he was on the state force, showed a badge and said he had just changed from his uniform to civilian clothes. Harrison gave Wolff $75 and Wolff said something about giving this to some judges, but he added it would only take care of him in Cook county and he'd have to put up $75 more to get taken care of in Du Page county.

"Harrison then sent his partner, Milton Sacks, down to meet Wolff and gave him $75 more, supposedly to fix things in Du Page county."

Wolff, held in $5,000 bonds at the state police station at 147th street and Cicero avenue, Bremen township, said:

"Harrison called me up and asked me to take care of him. I did my best to do it and if I hadn't been on my vacation when this last case came up, it would have been taken care of. I'm taking care of a half a dozen trucking companies and I have a right to be paid for my work. That's all Harrison and Sacks did, was pay me for what I did for them, after they called me up and asked me to do it."

Capt. Kennedy said Wolff was trying to obtain $20 more from Harrison when he was arrested yesterday. He said Wolff didn't know the charge against Harrison's driver had been disposed of and he was offering to fix the case.

Wolff will be arraigned at 2:30 p. m. today before Justice of the Peace Clare Moore in the Bremen Township court.

REPORT INSURANCE MAN MISSING; SHORTAGE OF $100,000 IS LISTED

Monmouth, Ill., July 27 [Special].—Eldredge Henning, president of the Illinois Bankers' Life Assurance company, announced tonight that a department head of the company "apparently had disappeared," leaving a shortage in excess of $15,000. Company investigators later raised the figure to $100,000, and said their audit had not been completed.

Earlier in the day the insurance company filed suit in the Sangamon county Circuit court in Springfield attaching the suspect's property.

It was indicated that a warrant for the suspect's arrest would be asked today. Meanwhile, an unofficial search is being carried on for him in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan. The suspect was last seen Thursday afternoon when he left his office.

According to investigators, the department head forged policy loan applications, then forged the policy holders' names to the issued checks and deposited the checks to his own account in banks in Springfield and elsewhere. The scheme was discovered when an employé noticed the signature on an application did not correspond to the policy holder's genuine signature on other records.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt has signed a bill appropriating $1,800,000,000 for 18 federal war agencies, including $1,100,000,000 for the war shipping administration and $120,000,000 for the Office of Price Administration for the current fiscal year.

U. S. WILL FIGHT PETRILLO'S ORDER IN COURTS HERE

An injunction is expected to be sought in the Chicago federal court this week to restrain James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, from prohibiting union musicians from making recordings for nonprivate use.

This was indicated yesterday by Daniel Britt, special assistant attorney general in charge of the Chicago office of the anti-trust division. He said he is awaiting authorization from Washington, D. C., to start action, and that he expected the go-ahead order in a few days.

Meanwhile, the Federal Communications commission in Washington is holding a preliminary investigation to determine whether it has any jurisdiction in connection with the Petrillo ban. The commission also is looking into the circumstances under which Petrillo recently prevented a national high school orchestra broadcast from Interlochen, Mich.

PAINTERS' LOCAL PROTESTS FILLING OF WALLACE POST

Local 147 of the Painters' union refused last night to approve the election of Matthew Hartlein as secretary-treasurer of the Painters' District council.

The action was an echo of the gun fight July 17 in which Arthur W. Wallace, veteran secretary-treasurer of the council, was fatally wounded; Charles Youngblood, business agent of local 147, was shot in the arm, and Youngblood's wife, Loretta, was killed. Hartlein was elected in Wallace's place by council delegates last week.

Youngblood's union gave him a vote of confidence before acting on the Hartlein matter. The local indicated it had no objection to Hartlein personally, but announced it preferred a general referendum before naming a successor to Wallace. Hartlein, notified of the local's action, said "it had been anticipated."

SLOT PROBE GOES ON AND ON—SO DOES THE RACKET

All Sheriff's Men Can't Find Key Hoodlums.

The grand jury now investigating wide open slot machine gambling is the ninth to make such an inquiry since last Oct. 30, when THE TRIBUNE gave State's Attorney Courtney the secret records of the Vogel-Guzik-Nitti gambling syndicate.

Those records, for the month of July, 1941, showed gross income of $322,966 for the month from slot machines and other gambling enterprises in Cook county outside Chicago. They showed payments of $26,280 to police and other persons for protection. They indicated a gross income of $3,875,592 a year for the syndicate, which grew from the old Capone gang.

Courtney presented the secret records to the November grand jury. The grand jurors issued subpenas for Ed Vogel, Jack Guzik, and Frank Nitti, the heads of the syndicate, and for Lester Laird, ousted chief of Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien's county highway police, and Lieut. Fred Hager of the Willow Springs county highway police station.

Disclose Business Deals.

The grand jurors heard the sales manager of the Mills Novelty company testify that the syndicate had bought $55,000 worth of slot machines in the first seven months of 1941.

The grand jury was deep in its investigation when it discovered that its term was expiring. So the grand jurors issued a report denouncing slot machine and all other forms of gambling and recommended that the inquiry be carried on by succeeding grand juries.

The next grand jury resumed the investigation, and the next, and the next.

But Sheriff O'Brien's men did not serve the subpena on Vogel, altho he could easily have been found, investigators say, in his luxurious apartment at the 4300 Marine Drive building, just off the Outer drive. Guzik, Nitti, Laird, and Hager never were served.

Whirl of Raids.

Courtney assigned five assistants in addition to Wilbert F. Crowley, his first assistant, to track the gamblers down. The state's attorney put eight investigators to work.

Mayors and police chiefs of many suburban towns were called before the grand juries and ordered to halt gambling. The grand jurors began turning their attention to gambling within Chicago. Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman were summoned for questioning.

Courtney's men raided gambling establishments in the various police districts. The captains of most of the city's police stations were called by the grand juries.

The investigation turned to Capt. Martin E. McCormick and his police gambling detail. Charges of inefficiency, neglect of duty and making false reports on gambling raids brought against the detail. But the city civil service commission recently cleared the policemen.

The Trusting Saloonkeepers.

The grand jurors turned their attention to the saloons, summoning saloonkeepers to explain why they were operating slot machines. The saloonkeepers said they got the machines from strangers they knew only by their first names.

The grand jurors looked into the policy racket among the Negroes. Twenty-six men were indicted as operators of policy games, but they were acquitted when the state's witnesses refused to testify.

The grand jury action against gamblers declined to the summoning of a few minor gamblers at intervals.

Thus it is that nine grand juries have examined the written ledger sheets of Vogel, Guzik, Nitti, and their gang, ledger sheets obtained by THE TRIBUNE and turned over to the state's attorney's office.

It Boils Down to This.

The investigations, aided for one of the first times in history with the gang's own records, have accomplished:

The indictment of Bud Leiberman, a slot machine dealer with no connection with the syndicate, who was acquitted. The indictment of Mayor George E. Blameuser of Skokie on a charge of malfeasance in connection with gambling. The indictment and fining of Ed Brink of Harvey for possession of a few slot machines. And the indictment and fining of four gamblers on charges of malicious mischief because they tapped telephone wires to get race results.

The gambling investigations had been almost forgotten when Adolph S. Helquist of Blue Island, a member of the present grand jury, began a one man crusade. He found slot machines in four south side establishments and began the latest inquiry.

ARMY SEEKS 1,200 RADIO AMATEURS TO TEACH CADETS

Brig. Gen. Arnold Krogstad, head of the new army aviation radio school being established in the Stevens and Congress hotels, yesterday appealed to all licensed amateur radio station operators to enroll for training as instructors in the course.

Requirements for instructors, Gen. Krogstad said, are six hours of college physics, 20 hours of college mathematics, and either an operator's license or technical training. Four classifications, with salaries ranging between $1,620 and $3,200, are open to the prospective teachers.

Eventually 1,200 instructors will be required for the training of the 15,000 cadets who will be enrolled in the school. Applications should be made in room 430-A in the Stevens.

SYNDICATE'S SECRET LEDGER SHEET LISTS BRIBES AND BRIBED

When THE TRIBUNE came into possession of the slot machine syndicate's secret revenue and pay-off ledger sheets, they were turned over to the state's attorney's office for use by the grand jury. The syndicate's bookkeeper, secure in the belief that the records never would get out of the gang's possession, wrote the names of the individuals to whom the syndicate made "kickouts," hoodlum parlance for cash payment for political protection, and the names of various towns in which the gang had "connections."

The convict is Julius Goss, 56 years old, whose prison record started in 1915. After the 60 day sentence, Goss, who was said by police to have admitted stealing from four other church poor boxes, will be returned to Leavenworth, Kas., to serve the remaining 27 months of a three year federal term for robbing mail boxes.

JURORS QUESTION SHERIFF, CHIEF ON SLOT RACKET

O'Brien Tosses Buck, So Does Fleming.

rapher-reporter for THE TRIBUNE, whose news territory includes Evanston and several of the north shore suburbs. Nichols was threatened by members of the syndicate last Friday night after he had taken a picture of a slot machine in operation in Uncle Tom's tavern, on Waukegan road north of Northbrook.

Nichols is reported to have testified that after taking the picture he was approached in the Evanston police station by Tony Fragassi and another man Nichols later identified thru a photograph as Vogel. Fragassi told Nichols that his head would be bashed in and his wife and family molested unless he promised not to turn in the slot machine photo.

Gang Collector Faces Charges.

Fragassi was arrested shortly afterward by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's police. He was released yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus, but was turned over to Evanston authorities, who late in the day filed charges of disorderly conduct and conspiracy to obstruct justice. He was released on $2,200 bond.

Investigation revealed that Fragassi had made a sworn statement that he is employed as a bartender and handy man in the Silver Ballroom tavern on the Northwest highway in Fox River Grove.

Mrs. Peter S. Herbst, wife of the proprietor, denied this last night. She said that Fragassi is not employed there and that she had never heard of him before. Louis Cernocky, son of the former proprietor, was asked about Fragassi. Cernocky said his mother had owned the tavern for years before selling it to Herbst four months ago. Cernocky said he does not known Fragassi and that Fragassi never worked in the tavern.

The Nichols incident served as another link between Vogel, the syndicate and the slot machine racket. The current investigation into gambling was touched off last week when a member of the grand jury, Adolph S. Helquist of Blue Island, opened a one man crusade and uncovered four places on the south side where "one armed bandits" were operating. THE TRIBUNE instructed Nichols to learn whether the machines were running in the north suburbs also.

Slot King Lives Well.

Vogel lives in a luxurious apartment in the 4300 Marine Drive building, just off the Outer drive. A reporter who called there yesterday was told Vogel occupies apartment 804, that he was out at the moment, but certainly would be back later in the day.

Nine other persons also were heard by the grand jury yesterday after it had instructed Sheriff O'Brien to lay off the small fry and bring in the big shots. Those called included:

Frank Hutchins, owner of the Villa Moderne, Skokie road, near the county line; Arthur Thumel and his mother, Mrs. Valerie Thumel, owners of Uncle Tom's tavern; George Payne, owner of a tavern near Northbrook; Hugo Paoli, owner of a saloon near Northbrook; Joseph Link, owner of another place in that neighborhood; Agnes Siudzinski, employé of Stanley's tavern, near there; Arthur Lorenzen, owner of a filling station, whose phone number, Niles 9807, was called by Mrs. Thumel when she complained of Nichols' photographing of the slot machine in her place, and James Phemios, bartender at the Circus bar, 8105 Cicero avenue, who told prosecutors he knew Fragassi as collector for the syndicate.

It was indicated that in addition to the three highway police lieutenants, the grand jury today may call Sheriff O'Brien back to question him about additional information gathered yesterday afternoon.

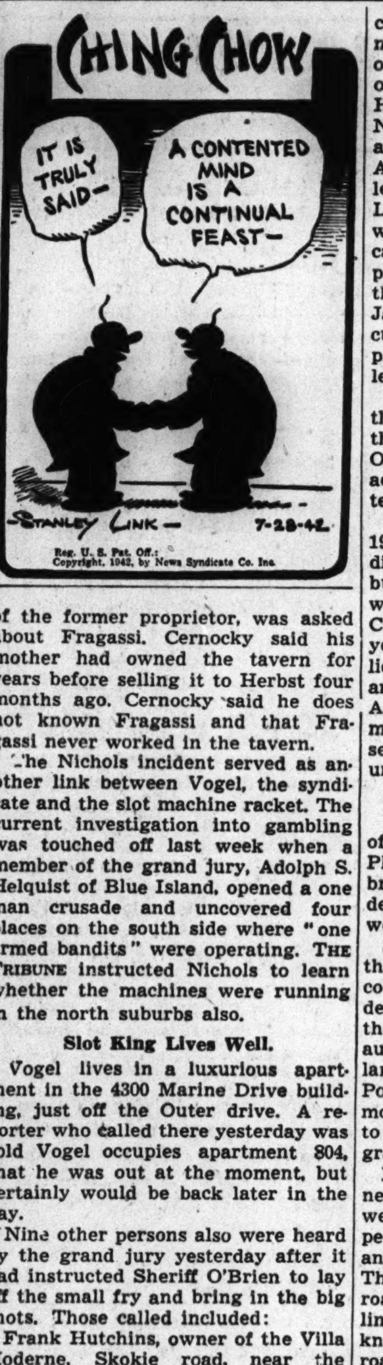
There was a sequel yesterday to the 1941 raid on the Guzik handbook syndicate's nerve center in the Blum building, 624 South Michigan avenue, when Judge Julius H. Miner in the Criminal court fined Louis Sachs, 45 years old, $300 on a charge of malicious mischief. Sachs pleaded guilty and the fine was recommended by Assistant State's Attorney Sam Freedman. A $1,000 fine and a year's jail sentence could have been imposed under the law.

Three Demand Jury Trial.

After Sachs' case had been disposed of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, Henry Phillips, and Thomas Stapleton were brought in on the same charge and demanded a jury trial. Their cases were continued to Sept. 6.

Stapleton was arrested as he left the courtroom by Sergt. Thomas Alcock of the detective bureau jewelry detail for questioning concerning the theft of $5,000 in jewelry from the automobile of Alvin Long, 5437 Maryland avenue, a salesman, last July 1. Police said the jewelry thieves' automobile license plates had been traced to Stapleton, who was charged with grand larceny.

Meanwhile, State's Attorney Courtney announced that in two raids on western night clubs, 13 female impersonators were taken into custody and are being held for investigation. The clubs are the Pow Wow, River road and Belmont avenue in Franklin Park, and the River Road inn, also known as The Stables, at 3940 River road, Schiller Park.



AIR FORCE SETS UP NEW RANK, FLIGHT OFFICER

Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, chief of army air force recruiting here, announced yesterday the creation of a new classification in air force personnel ranks. Henceforth, graduates of army air schools will become warrant flight officers, with the exception of a few outstanding men who will be commissioned second lieutenants as heretofore. The flight officer classification is an entirely new one, he said.

Pay for men in the new classificataion will remain at the level for second lieutenants which, with special allowances may total $325 a month for married men and $291 for single men. Air force personnel already commissioned second lieutenants will retain their ranks.

To accomodate an anticipated surge in the number of candidates applying for service in the army air force, recruiting facilities in the old postoffice have been tripled.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

O'DANIEL ON TOP.

Senator O'Daniel, running for renomination, was top man in the Democratic primary in Texas on Saturday. A late tabulation shows that he received almost as many votes as were cast for his two opponents together. With 90 per cent of the ballots counted, he had received almost 400,000 against 270,000 for former Gov. Allred, the New Deal favorite, who ran second. On this showing, it is believed that Mr. O'Daniel will have little difficulty in winning the run-off primary next month.

Mr. O'Daniel was against intervention before Pearl Harbor, and that fact was made the principal issue in the campaign. He was one of the members of congress whom the so-called Union for Democratic Action and its New Deal and communist allies were most determined to purge. In pursuit of this end, former Gov. Allred who had been rewarded by the New Deal with a federal judgeship resigned from the bench to make the race. Mr. O'Daniel finished so far ahead of the interventionists' fairhaired boy that it was scarcely a race.

Before the primary the purgers entertained high hopes of victory in Texas. They noted with satisfaction that what they called O'Daniel's "most vulnerable point" was his isolationist attitude before Pearl Harbor. This was heavily stressed in the campaign and it accomplished exactly nothing. The fact is the more noteworthy because Texas has made an enviable record since Pearl Harbor in contributing men and money to the war effort.

The purgers had allowed themselves to believe that the determination of the people of Texas to win the war was an evidence of their will to punish any of their representatives who had opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy before the war. The conclusion was not warranted in Texas or in any of the other states where the test has been made. As Mr. Henning reported the other day, in the 15 states where primaries have been held, not a single senator or representative specifically proscribed by the purgers because of isolationism has been denied a nomination.

It would be remarkable if the results had been otherwise. Numerous polls of public opinion taken before Pearl Harbor evidenced the desire of the great majority of the American people to avoid war if possible. To have defeated O'Daniel or any of his colleagues in the present primaries on the ground that they had opposed intervention would be to say that the American people do not desire their congressmen to represent them.

The success of O'Daniel is a victory for representative, republican government. It is evidence that the people of this country do not send men to congress to vote slavishly according to the dictates of the administration. It is evidence that America offers no welcome to one-party rule. The outcome invites the hope that the members of the new congress will not easily be cowed. They will insist upon effective prosecution of the war. Therein lies hope of a speedy victory over our enemies.

ILLINOIS' BOND QUOTA.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau called upon the people of Illinois to buy 85 million dollars' worth of war bonds in July. That was this state's fair share of a billion dollars' worth, he found it necessary for the people of this country to buy this month.

On Saturday, Norman B. Collins, state administrator of war bond sales for Illinois, announced that tho sales of the bonds had increased over June, the 85 million dollar objective would not be reached at the rate subscriptions came into his office in the first three weeks. Evidently some who have signed pledges to buy bonds in stated amounts each month have not yet met their undertaking for July. And some must have assumed that others would supply the money the government needs without making a personal contribution.

Washington officials are divided into two groups on the method to sell war bonds to the people. One group wants to force people to buy bonds whether they are able to do so or not. Officials of that persuasion desire to have all employers deduct 10 per cent of each pay check to be remitted to the government in payment for war bonds. They want to take the same amount out of each weekly check, without consideration for the convenience or obligations of the individual. Those of that group say that is the only way to sell the requisite amount of bonds.

The other group, headed by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, believes that the job can be done better on a voluntary basis. They assert that if people are compelled to buy an amount of bonds each month, even those who can afford to buy more will not do so. Mr. Morgenthau is confident that it is not necessary to take away any of the people's freedom in order to get people to lend to the government the money it needs to fight the enemy.

The American voluntary method of selling bonds and those who have advocated it are on the spot. If it and they fail to produce the amount of money from war bonds which must be supplied this month and next, we are no longer going to be asked to buy bonds. They will be forcibly sold to us. Because we are determined even in time of war, to retain every possible liberty, we are asking those who believe as we do to exert every possible effort to swell the volume of war bond sales in the next four days.

UNPROFITABLE BRANCH LINES.

The war emergency has given a welcome stimulus to the liquidation of unprofitable railroad branch lines. Because of the need for steel, they are being abandoned and their rails torn up for scrap or for relaying in munitions plants.

It is strange that it was necessary for a federal court to issue an injunction restraining the attorney general and commerce commission of Illinois from interfering with the abandonment of one such line, from Sycamore to Caledonia, Ill. The incident illustrates the tremendous pressure that is placed on public officials and agencies to hamper the economic operation of railroads in order to favor special groups.

The branch lines that are being abandoned are unprofitable. The communities which they serve do not give them enough business to pay expenses, yet those communities use every political device available to force the railroads to continue to give service at a loss. Railroad labor organizations use political pressure to prevent abandonment, on the theory that the purpose of a railroad is not to provide transportation, but to provide jobs. Both the communities and the employés are hitch-hikers, carried at the expense of those customers whose business does yield the railroad a profit.

It is curious that the only time a regulated enterprise, supposed to be operated under the profit system, can slough off an unprofitable operation is when war has suspended many of the rules of profit and loss.

BETTER TO LEARN IT THIS WAY.

It is to be hoped that Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas will take the floor of the house to put in specific terms the criticism he made generally in a radio broadcast to his home state upon his return from a four month tour of duty as a lieutenant commander with the Pacific fleet. Rep. Johnson cited grave shortcomings in some types of American aircraft, but reserved his heaviest fire for red tape in military organization and for incompetency in the direction of the war.

"We have nothing to fear from our men," he said. "If we get them the goods, they will deliver. We must get rid of the indecisive, stupid, selfish, and incompetent among our generals, admirals, and others in high military positions. We must make it clear that it is no longer a crime to cut red tape. . . . Management and man power are going to have to be closely woven into a smoothly functioning machine devoid of departmental squabbles and petty jealousies."

There are several reasons why this testimony carries weight. As a congressman on active duty with naval rank, Rep. Johnson was able to study the problems at first hand from the viewpoint of a man with a double duty to his country. He could evaluate them as a public servant whose legislative duty is to increase the effectiveness of the men actually carrying on war in the field, and he could also bring to bear the perspective of a qualified officer actually participating in the action, even to the extent of being shot down in a bombing raid against Japanese held territory.

Rep. Johnson cannot be accused of seeking to embarrass the administration, because he is not only a Democrat, but one of the administration's favorites, who ran for senator in the Texas primary last year with the President's indorsement. Had similar criticism come from the opposite side of the house there would undoubtedly have been heated outcries that the administration was being subjected to "sniping."

Rep. Johnson charged not only that men in high military position are at fault, but that our naval pursuit aircraft do not outclass the Japanese Zero fighter; that the navy PBY patrol flying boat is a "crate" that is easy game if it runs into Jap planes; and that army bombers were readily hit and put out of action against Zero opposition. These are disconcerting charges to be made when this country, with its unrivaled industrial facilities and its mechanical genius, might be thought capable of providing its airmen with aircraft that could not be matched. The American victories in the Coral sea and at Midway become even more astounding in view of the congressman's testimony.

The charges that Rep. Johnson made are disturbing, but it is better that the shortcomings have been brought to light now than kept buried by the censorship, perhaps to become known only after some damaging reverse. There is yet time to set the house in order. Rep. Johnson can serve his country well by hastening the process. Indeed, he is faced by the public duty of naming the men who are encumbering the conduct of the war. No good purpose will be served if he gives his information in private to those in the war or navy departments who may bear responsibility, direct or related, for mismanagement. He must speak out so that correction will be prompt.

IRON FENCE OVERTURE.

A description of the "Mayor La Guardia Waltzes," a tone poem composed by Virgil Thompson intended to give a musical portrait of the mayor of New York, records that drums pounded, horns roared, and clarinets shrieked to depict the usual La Guardia mood before a gentle melodic theme was introduced to represent the mayor in a "Little Flower" mood. We suppose that this theme depicts the mayor after he has gone to bed.

The New York Philharmonic orchestra, which played the composition, is limited to the standard instruments and for that reason may not be able to do justice to the La Guardia conception. It has timpani, of course, but has it some old aluminum pots, such as those the mayor assembled in his aluminum rodeo? It has cymbals, but has it any of those air raid warden hats ordered by the mayor which were described as suitable for midgets? No La Guardia tone poem would be complete without an anvil chorus played on these pots and hats.

The Philharmonic has also omitted another essential effect. It has overlooked the iron fence recently constructed around the mayor's official residence while New York was ostensibly engaged in a campaign to recover scrap iron. The orchestra ought to add about 50 feet of iron fence to its ensemble and let the harpist run back and forth dragging a stick over the pickets. It should also introduce some sirens and gongs out of deference to the mayor's penchant for hopping on the hook and ladder and riding to fires.

With these improvements in the orchestration, we think the Philharmonic will have something. Those in favor may signify their approval by sending a reasonable facsimile of the mayor and a box top to Bellevue hospital. The box needn't blow its top.

THE TIME IS LATE.

[Detroit News.]

President Roosevelt is planning a superstudy commission to examine the rubber problem in all of its confused and conflicting phases and to provide him with "the answer."

It is 7 months, 15 days since Pearl Harbor. It is 7 months, 14 days since the Japs landed at Kota Baru and began their march down the Asiatic peninsula whence came the bulk of our rubber supply. It is 5 months, 7 days since Singapore fell.

And it is a long time until 1944, when, according to at least one of several conflicting estimates, we may have enough synthetic rubber for our own and our allies' military needs.

The time seems a mite over-ripe for study of this problem, which was a problem and a pressing one at least five months ago. The time is late enough that there is little left for anything but making rubber, lots of rubber, by any means available and in a hurry.

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE.

You can call this sultry, dopey spell of weather midsummer if you like, but it is not the official midsummer of folklore and literature. [See Shakespeare's play.] That period in Merrie England was the week around June 21, the longest day in the year. In many parts of Europe it was celebrated with remnants of pagan festivals, but these heathen tricks never succeeded in crossing the Atlantic.

"A good old fighting metal," we said as we squashed a tin can according to the rules and regulations of civilian defense. "When some ancient Cretan or Egyptian or Assyrian discovered that a little tin added to copper gave a weapon a fine cutting edge, the period of bigger and better wars began." Somebody ought to write the full story of tin.

The reopening of the prehistoric tin mines in Cornwall recalls England's first contacts with the civilized world, when Phoenician and Greek galleys are supposed to have gone there to buy tin ore. Their trading may have been done on the Scilly Islands, off the nose of Cornwall, known in classical geography as the Cassiterides—the Tin Islands.

Somebody ought to write the story of the allanthus or Chinese tree of heaven. It is running rampant among Chicago's vegetation, but it is a fairly recent immigrant. When did this allanthus epidemic start? The tree of heaven has a genius for planting itself, chiefly against walls and fences, and it dearly loves a slum.

HICKORY CREEK.

The creek said, "Here I began,
"Back in the brush where a sweet spring ran;
"Part the dead leaves and cup your hands,
"It's the coldest water on any man's lands.
"Green ferns droop from the rocky ledge
"And violets carpet the shelving edge;
"This is a secret and hidden ground
"Where all day long you may hear the sound
"Of water dripping over the shelf
"And a man may sit and enjoy himself."

It's a name to conjure with, this creek,
And a sightlier water were hard to seek;
It riffles over the stepping stones
Below the pasture that Willard owns;
It slips under the bridge by Matthew's place
Where the teams rumble over with slackened trace
And the willows growing on either side
Screen the waters where minnows dart and hide.
Back of the school it twists and turns
Past a ravine knee deep in ferns,
And clear and cool in the swimming hole
It fills an amber, gold-flecked bowl,
Under the bank by Jim's line fence
The mirrored bittersweet vine commence.

The men who loved it are scattered and gone,
But the spring that fed it flows on and on.
Thru cool green leaves it glimpses the sky,
And the beauty it mirrors shall never die.

The Stevens Has Its Legends, Too.

Traditions begin to stalk like ghosts thru a hotel as soon as the first guests enter. Therefore it was not strange that legends should have haunted the Stevens since its earliest days. As the "world's largest hotel," it was destined to be the locale of some of the "world's tallest stories."

One of these had to do with a carpenter who became confused among the hotel's 3,000 rooms, lost his way at quitting time, and is still supposed to be trying to get out. It seems that he manages to locate the first floor and even starts for the street door, but he makes a wrong turn, descends to the lowest sub-basement, wanders into an elevator, and is shot to the top floor, where he begins all over again.

Of greater plausibility is the legend of the young woman guest who broke in upon a gathering of gentlemen to complain that a fixture had broken and threatened to flood her room. The group happened to be the plumbers' district council, and a plumber she wanted. But all of them had forgotten to bring their tools! Newcomer.

Vignette in Invisible Rhymes.

The footpath to the train is walled Waist-high with summer growth Of mullen, peppergrass, and weeds, That all good gardeners loathe. Yet as I walk along each morn, The leaves adrip with dew, Sweet clover in its blossoming With fragrance spicy, new, I feel a secret kinship with Its tangled, twisted way, For little yellow butterflies And white come there to play, And once in summer's brightness A tiny black one, too, From leaf to leaf it fluttered In the early morning hue. So if they find my footpath a haven for their play Most surely I can tread it and Enjoy its vagrant way.

"I WORRY AND I CANNOT SLEEP."

NONE of our experts has been able to explain fully what happens when we sleep. Altho exhaustion is important it is but a part of the process. One can be "dead on his feet" and yet be unable to doze. Apparently there are scores of factors—not the least of which is habit.

The old theory that the brain receives less nourishment during this period of unconsciousness has been exploded. In other words, the situation cannot be compared accurately to a fainting attack, in which cerebral anemia is present. Altho the blood pressure falls the decline is not great enough to retard the circulation appreciably.

Following exercise, the wastes of muscle activity accumulate in the vital fluid and serve as chemical sedatives. There comes a time, however, when these products may actually act as stimulants. Thus we understand that natural fatigue is conducive to sleep, while unusual or prolonged weariness may defeat it.

When we go to bed the very act of undressing, the donning of a loose garment, the assumption of a comfortable position, with eyes closed and lights out—all banish the world and the things which make for alertness. Even raucous noises to which one has become accustomed may have the effect of a lullaby. People slumber on rattling trains, and weary soldiers will drop off in the midst of a barrage. But let anything unusual occur—an unfamiliar noise—and attention will be resumed almost instantly.

The causes of insomnia are both physical and emotional. With racing thoughts embodying anger, fear, anxiety, or despair wakefulness is almost certain. A few will actually remain open-eyed worrying about the fact that they cannot snooze. The best remedy for such sufferers is an understanding of the fact that some persons can get along very well on 4 to 5 hours—or even less if complete relaxation can be practiced. The normal interval [eight hours] may be broken into several instalments and possess the same restorative value. The reason so many of us arise haggard after a restless night is because we have actually indulged in what is equivalent to violent activity—twisting, squirming, and rolling about. A day of hard work could not be more depleting.

Few worthwhile decisions are ever made in the wee small hours. The conclusions arrived at are generally useless, ill considered, and biased. Business moves, the solution of personal and family problems are so warped that they cannot be relied upon. Thus, judgment is altered by the emotions. In the light of a new day, mountainous obstacles vanish.

A hot night is an abomination. But a small electric fan can keep the air in circulation [avoiding a direct draft]. The sheets may be sprinkled with cold water, extract of witch hazel, or dilute alcohol. Cold cloths may be applied to the head. A tepid bath will aid elimination and hence relaxation.

Is the use of drugs ever justified? Yes, if the patient is under careful supervision and if no harm comes to the cells of the circulation. High blood pressure and certain other disorders are conducive to insomnia. As one element in treatment we may well employ compounds known to be effective provided no injury to vital tissues ensues.

ADVICE OF A BROTHER IN ARMS.

Chicago, July 22.—The following letter was written by one of my nephews, an ensign in the navy, to his brother, now enrolled in the midshipmen's school in New York. I think it illustrates the spirit of our young men. The letter:

"Dear Pete: Here are a few words from the big brother to go away with into the navy, for what they may or may not be worth. Remember that it is a new and strangely different life, one that at times is hard to live and take. Get into the habit of blowing off steam among your fellowmen, not to those higher up, and it will help matters a lot.

"They are training you to assume command, so get all that you possibly can stored up in your brain for future use and reference. You never can tell when it will come in handy, for if you can't keep the respect of those under you by your knowledge, your appearance, your method, or your will, you are lost and are licked before you start.

"Learn to relax at odd moments and store up energy for the hours or minutes just ahead. Be alert, positive, and direct in your actions and commands. Above all be an officer and a gentleman. Be particular about posture, for it has a great deal to do with the impression you make on others above as well as below you. Loyalty above you and loyalty below you is a cardinal rule for success in the navy, for if you have it, they'll not let you down. If at any time you want any help that I can give you write to me and I'll be only too glad to do what I can.

"We represent our country, yes, but behind it all is the family and our home. See that it is maintained as we know and want it to be in a world of good will, not hate. Our efforts, I think, are directed toward this end and must and will be successful in the end." H. B. G.

SEGREGATING NEGRO BLOOD.

Guilford College, N. C., July 21.—Last year I read about the wounded Nazi aviator in England who protested against having his life saved with a transfusion of Jewish blood. Knowing the verdict of science that human blood is human blood, the same in Jews as in Aryans, Turks, or Fiji Islanders, I laughed at the stupid extremes to which Nazi race prejudice could go.

This morning I read that the American Red Cross, acting on orders from the war and navy departments, is segregating the Negro blood that has been donated for soldiers wounded in our war against Nazism. As a white man—and a southerner—I read that news with a sense of guilt and shame. I wonder how I would have read it if I had been a Negro. WILLIAM EDGERTON.

PUBLIC BATHING BEACHES.

Chicago, July 21.—No one can envy the service men their center at Fullerton parkway and the beach. But it is amazing that while seldom more than 200 uniformed men are using the beach at the center at one time, yet they are equipped with far better facilities, far more lockers, and a proportionately greater number of lifeguards than are supplied the 200,000 and more who have crowded the North avenue beach on sweltering days. And the civilians have been using the beaches for decades, while the service men only began a year or so ago.

At North avenue today—and perhaps the same is true of the whole city—two lifeguards in boats held together a crowd of perhaps 40,000 within an area 1-3 the size of a city block, while a half dozen lifeguards patroled the beautiful clean beaches for a half mile north to keep people off the beaches.

Residents pay enough taxes for the use of the beaches. The city can at least provide them with lockers and swimming space. The army has set the example with the service men's center. Now let the city do likewise with civilian centers of health. F. Y.

NAVY ASKS JOHNSTON STORIES AS MORALE BUILDER.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—A few weeks ago a series of articles written by Stanley Johnston regarding the Coral sea battle were released thru your syndicate. The accuracy of Mr. Johnston's account has created a great deal of favorable comment among naval aviators. Personally I consider it the finest war story which has come out of the present conflict.

It has been suggested that the Johnston articles would be excellent preparatory reading for prospective naval aviators and might be of considerable assistance to the naval recruiting program. Are these articles available in book or pamphlet form, and if so, what would be the price per hundred copies for official navy distribution? A copy for review purposes would help considerably in making distribution estimates. R. A. WINSTON,

TROUBLE MAKING CHANGE.

Chicago, Ill., July 23.—In all my 15 years as a laundry man, I have never experienced so much difficulty in making change on deliveries as I have now. If the housewife would break her large bills while out doing her shopping instead of spending all her change, she would save us laundry men the extra effort of back calls, plus mileage, gas, and tires, so vital to the war effort.

Our theft insurance is limited to a few dollars and we can't risk carrying but a few dollars in change. Seven customers in succession this morning, with nothing less than a $10 bill drove me to this letter.

PLACES HIS COUNTRY FIRST.

Chicago, July 24.—I listened to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's speech last night on the plans for the world after the war. I believe the majority of the American people would agree to and indorse the policing of the axis countries after war for such a period of time as was necessary. However, when Secretary Hull or any other American puts internationalism above Americanism and clearly indicates by his speech that in the future we will be asked and expected to think of the world first and America second, he needs a good lesson in American patriotism.

I wonder what Washington, Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and several others would have thought had they heard this speech? As for me, and I believe I will always be in the great majority, it will always be America first.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION.

Peoria, Ill., July 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I would like to know the law on "unemployment compensation."

2. My sister fell and broke her leg and will be in the hospital about eight weeks.

3. She signed for her compensation on the 23d of May receiving her first check the 15th of June. She has 14 more checks she should receive.

4. Can you tell if there is anything I can do to help, as she needs the money?

1. See attached résumé of the unemployment compensation act.

2. The unemployment compensation is for persons who are ready to take a job if available. It would not cover your sister's case. The question whether she is entitled to workmen's compensation would depend on whether the accident arose out of and in the course of her employment.

3. We do not understand whether this was obtained by concealment.

OFFICER ON TRIAL IN 'SALE' OF JOB FOR TONY MARTIN

Accused of Taking Auto as Fee for Navy Post.

San Francisco, Cal., July 27 [Special].—Lieut. Comm. Maurice N. Aroff, U. S. N. R., went on trial before a general court martial today on a charge of virtually selling a special rating in the navy to Tony Martin, radio singer and movie actor.

The detailed charges accused him of accepting a $950 car from Martin as a fee and reward for facilitating the enlistment of the singer as a chief specialist in the navy, a designation corresponding to chief petty officer.

Martin, 28 years old, flew here from Chicago, where he was appearing in a night club, to enlist in the navy Jan. 2 when he faced imminent induction into the army. For the last three months he has been manager of the navy's theater on Treasure Island in San Francisco bay.

Aroff a Former Athlete.

Altho naval courts martial usually are secret, the trial was made public at the defendant's own request. Aroff formerly was an amateur boxer, an athlete at the University of Southern California, and an Olympic games weight lifter.

Commander Aroff was relieved from duty in the 12th district naval procurement office on April 17 and his superior, Capt. Robert A. White, who formerly had been his partner in a Los Angeles plumbing contracting business, was subsequently removed as director of the office and both were placed on the inactive list.

In addition to the charge involving the car, Aroff was accused of accepting a pair of studs and cuff links from Lawrence Stromberg and a pair of gold cuff links from Irving Cummings Jr., to facilitate granting ensign commissions to the two. The studs were valued at $25 to $40 each.

Aroff also was charged with listing San Francisco addresses for two Los Angeles men when they applied for commissions as ensigns. The cities are in different naval districts. The men were Cummings and Ernest J. Friedman. Cummings was a Stanford university football player and is the son of a Hollywood movie director.

Four Lawyers for Defense.

Aroff is defended at the trial by two naval officers and two civilian attorneys. Virtually the entire opening day of the hearing was taken up with reading the detailed charges and defense objections.

Civilian Attorney Donald Marlin objected to the charge of "falsehood" placed against Aroff as a result of his interrogation by naval officers to whom he contended he had purchased the automobile from Martin.

"That charge has no place in naval law and this court has no right to pass on it," Marlin told the court of six high naval and marine officers.

The chief prosecuting attorney, Lieut. Irving N. Klein, and Marlin argued the matter for some time, after which the court held the charges properly drawn.

Aroff then formally entered his plea of not guilty.

MOTHER GRANTED SHARE IN PROXY BABY'S CUSTODY

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 27 [Special].—Patricia Hoge, 3 year old proxy baby, will divide her time for the next 3 years between the Detroit home of her father and the Cleveland home of her natural mother, a younger sister of her father's childless wife.

Mrs. Alice Horvath.

This arrangement for Patricia's future was sanctioned today by Circuit Judge James E. Spier in signing a decree terminating a custody battle which drew widespread attention when it was tried here early this month. The decree provides for the child to spend alternate six month periods with her respective parents, beginning Aug. 1 with her mother.

The mother is Mrs. Alice Horvath, 19, who was unmarried when she gave birth to Patricia on Sept. 29, 1939, in a Detroit hospital under her sister's name. The sister is Mrs. Catherine Hoge, 30, wife of the baby's father, Carmel Hoge, 35, a Detroit machinist.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

R. E. J. writes: "I have been rejected at the induction center because of my eyesight being 20/500 without glasses but correctible to 20/30 with glasses. I have been placed in 4-F. Can't I apply somewhere and get into the fight, even if not in the front lines?"

ANSWER: Young men unable to join the armed forces but who are anxious to serve are being sought to train for army teaching posts. High school graduates with some college background or technical experience as radio engineers, technicians, and operators; aircraft and auto mechanics, sheet metal workers, welders, or machinists should apply at Civil Service commission, room 1107, New Postoffice, 433 West Van Buren street, Chicago.

Mrs. E. A. A. asks: "If the wife of a man who is now in 3-A should go to work, will it affect his classification? There is a child who is also dependent upon him and a $3,500 mortgage on his home. Should he notify his draft board if such a change should take place?"

ANSWER: If the man has received his classification on the basis of being married with one or more dependents, the draft board might consider the employment of the wife to have relieved the dependency sufficiently to enable the board to reclassify the registrant. Any changes likely to affect the registrant's classification must be reported to the draft board at once.

S. Z. K. writes: "My husband has an operable hernia. He was recently classified 1-AR. Could you tell me what that could mean?"

ANSWER: The "R" in the classification 1-AR stands for "remediable," which means that the condition could be corrected by an operation.

D. G. N. writes: "My husband had an allotment made out to me in May and said I would receive my first check July 1, and I haven't received it yet. Could you please tell me why I haven't received it or where I can find out why?"

ANSWER: You do not make clear what kind of an allotment your husband intended to make for you. If he meant that he would voluntarily send you what he could spare from his pay, the chances are that you haven't received it because the new allotment and allowance act requires the paymaster to deduct $22 a month from his pay to cover your husband's share of the $50 a month receivable by wives of men in service on or after Nov. 1. He would have to pay his insurance premiums, plus this $22 and still keep $10 a month standing to his account. There wouldn't be much left to send you.

CHARGES 4 UNION AIDS ASSAULTED HIM IN TAVERN

A suit charging four business agents of the Bartenders and Dispensers' union [AFL] with assault in a tavern brawl and seeking to collect $25,000 damages was filed in Superior court yesterday for Glenn Hand, 55 years old, a newspaper vendor. Those accused are Joseph McElligott, John A. Schoonover, Walter Bergen, and John Collins, representatives of the bartenders' local 278.

Hand, thru his attorney, Thurston Lundberg, charged that he was employed as a newspaper salesman by the owner of a tavern at 4004 Broadway last Nov. 8 when the four accused men entered the tavern and started beating the bartender and wrecking equipment. Hand went in the tavern, he said, whereupon the four attacked him, causing scalp injuries, an eye cut, and a wound in the left hand.

Attorney Lundberg said that after the alleged assault, Hand had learned the union agents were seeking to "discipline" the tavern owner, who was not named in the suit, but discovered they had invaded the wrong tavern.

GRANT PAROLES TO 113 OUT OF 317 JULY CASES

Of the 317 parole cases considered on the July docket by the division of correction in Springfield, 113 prisoners were ordered paroled, it was announced yesterday.

Among those to be turned loose was Max Berman, a notorious burglar and bail jumper who has served 12 years of a one year to life sentence.

When arrested on a burglary charge, Berman and his pals would post bond and then commit other crimes. They never bothered to appear in court. When finally sentenced in 1930 on a plea of guilty, Berman had faced 15 judges, served three months in the county jail, and been put on probation once during a 10 year crime career. His parole will be effective Sept. 11.

Also to be released is Miss Justine LeBlanc, now 25 years old, who in 1937 was sentenced to from 1 to 20 years for robbery. She was a gun-girl with a gang of hoodlums. Her parole will begin Aug. 6.

HARRY K. ALLEN NAMED STATE PRICE OFFICER

Appointment of Harry K. Allen, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, as state price officer was announced late yesterday by John C. Weigel, regional administrator for the Office of Price Administration. Weigel said the appointment has the approval of the United States civil service commission and added that Allen, who has been granted a year's leave of absence by the university, will begin his duties as soon as his office is established in Springfield.

As state price officer, Allen will have complete charge of administering all matters of price control in Illinois outside of the Chicago metropolitan area. He will have a staff of price specialists, Weigel said, drawn from various fields of business, to counsel with retailers and wholesalers on maintenance of price schedules, posting of the costs of items, and other details of price control.

OTHER VITAL MATERIALS NEEDED AND HOW TO DISPOSE OF THEM

Waste Fats

To help relieve shortage of fats and oils. Needed for glycerine to make explosives. Save pan and broiler drippings and deep fats after you've got all the cooking good from them. Strain into wide-mouthed tin can, that is spotlessly clean. Keep in refrigerator or cool, dark place until you have collected a pound or more. Then sell to your meat dealer.

TIN TUBES

Tooth paste, cosmetic and shaving cream tubes. Turn in at drug store when you purchase new supply.

WASTE PAPER

Needed only when announced by Local Salvage Committee.

NOT NEEDED (at this time)—Razor blades and glass.

Tin Cans

1. After emptying contents, wash the can thoroughly.
2. Cut off top and bottom completely; or cut open as illustrated, so can may be flattened.
3. Step heavily on can, to flatten. But do not flatten by hammering. Now tear off paper label. Labels printed on can need not be removed.
4. Prepared can looks like this. Thoroughly clean. Paper label removed. Both ends are saved.

Tin cans are made of steel with a coating of tin. The tin is used to make bearings in airplane engines, for solder, and for new cans to ship food to our fighting forces. Steel is used for all machines of war.

Save all food and coffee cans, except those with cone-shaped tops or with special rims (such as evaporated milk cans) which cannot be opened easily at both ends. No oil, paint, or grease cans wanted.

Opening can at both ends is essential for proper detinning.

Flattening cans is essential for economical collection and shipment. Watch local papers for time and details of collection in your community.

Do not save any cans that have not been washed, opened at both ends, flattened, and stripped of paper label.

COUNTY'S UNPAID BILLS GREATEST SINCE TAX STRIKE

9 Million Total Largest for Last Decade.

Cook county owed $9,034,167 in bills, judgments and salaries as of June 30, the highest figure since the depression and tax strike of a decade ago forced Chicago's various local governments to resort to payless paydays.

This figure was shown yesterday in a compilation of statements for the year ended June 30. The county's current debts were up $2,580,000 from June 30, 1941, according to the statements.

The increase in the county's unpaid bills results, according to financial officials, from the adoption despite public protests of a 1942 budget of 21½ million dollars, or 4½ millions in excess of prospective revenues.

As a result, the county has not paid any bills to merchandise creditors this year except a few emergency payments and $365,000 to clean up old bills incurred before Jan. 1, 1941.

The following table compares the total debts of each of the six governments on June 30, 1942, with their debts a year earlier:

TOTAL DEBT.

TOMAN TO FIGHT WRITS STOPPING TAX COLLECTIONS

County Treasurer John Toman said yesterday he will oppose attempts by delinquent taxpayers to get court injunctions restraining the treasurer from collecting personal property taxes. He said the courts have no right to hold that personal property tax bills are excessive, as this is the function of the board of tax appeals.

Toman has asked the state's attorney's office to seek to have lifted a recent temporary injunction in Superior court restraining the treasurer from collecting $554 in personal taxes billed for 1941 against Roth, Inc., operating the Blackhawk restaurant, 139 North Wabash avenue.

Toman's squads in the last six weeks have collected $342,186 in overdue 1941 personal property taxes from 1,051 companies, he reported. The squads called on 3,03 companies owing $2,065,490, and the collections represent 11.5 per cent of the total owed.

RAINS IN CHICAGO BOOST AVERAGE ABOVE NORMAL

Thundershowers during which .53 of an inch of rain fell in a period of about six hours and within a radius of 100 to 120 miles from the Chicago metropolitan area, yesterday brought precipitation for July up to .27 of an inch above normal.

"It was a good rainfall," said Forecaster R. C. Schmidt, "for it wiped out a deficiency and left us .27 of an inch to the good."

One forecaster hailed yesterday's rain as having saved the farmers in Indiana and northeastern Illinois from possible drouth conditions.

Forecaster Schmidt said he could promise no further showers after late last night. He said none are in sight for today and that temperatures will remain generally the same with light to moderate winds.

Police reported the prisoners threw away two revolvers before being arrested, and that Karl said the guns belong to his uncle, Wilfred Julian, a former Chicago policeman. The boys told police they were headed for the west to get jobs on ranches.

Relatives said that Karl had not been home for several days. They said that Milton had visited him a short time ago.

PELLEY FAILS TO BEGIN TERM; NAMED IN WRIT

Asheville, N. C., July 27 [Special]. — William Dudley Pelley, former leader of the Silver Shirts of America, scheduled to go on trial in Indianapolis tomorrow on a federal indictment charging criminal sedition and conspiracy, was named in a capias when he failed to appear today in Buncombe county Superior court.

Pelley was due to surrender to begin a two to three year sentence for violating the state security law. Superior Court Judge H. Noyle Sink issued the capias despite representations by counsel for Pelley's bondsmen that Pelley is held in Indianapolis. He also ordered the bondsmen to show cause why Pelley's $10,000 bond should not be forfeited.

Solicitor T. L. Johnson told the court that Attorney General Francis Biddle has advised him Pelley will be returned to North Carolina following his federal trial.

Women of USO to Aid Tribune Fashion Shows

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. CHARLES C. WELLS, chairman of the women's division of the United Service Organizations, Inc., has asked some of the women most active in the organization to assist her in making plans for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S American Fashion Shows on Aug. 7 and 8 that will benefit the USO. The show on Friday, Aug. 7, will be given at 8:15 o'clock in the evening in W-G-N's beautiful studio theater.

"The most beautiful place I've ever seen for a fashion showing," one of the members of the St. Luke's fashion show committee described the studio the other day, adding that she and the others of the committee wished the studio seated about four times as many as it does—600—so that the St. Luke's show could be held in it. The grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel, in which the St. Luke's show has been held every autumn for 14 years, will be a mess hall for the army by the date of this year's show, Oct. 28, so Mrs. John W. Gary, chairman, and the others of her committee are busy now trying to find another place for the show.

Reservations for Shows Must Be Made by Mail.

The second of THE TRIBUNE'S shows for the benefit of the USO will be given on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 8, at 2 o'clock. Tickets for both shows may be obtained from The Chicago Tribune Fashion Show ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. The tickets for the Friday evening show are $2.50 each and for the Saturday afternoon show $1 each. Reservations must be made by mail and accompanied by the price of the tickets.

Mrs. Holman D. Pettibone, whose husband is chairman for the USO war fund campaign, is on Mrs. Wells' committee, and so are Mrs. Jeffrey R. Short, wife of the president of the Chicago board of directors of the USO; Mrs. Preston L. Wettaw, Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Samuel G. Taylor III., Mrs. Reid Bennett, Mrs. Joseph W. Kehoe, Mrs. Joseph F. Ross, Miss Clara Lawrence, Mrs. Harold P. Dunton, Mrs. Samuel E. Hirsch, Mrs. Arthur Oppenheimer, and Mrs. Ericsson McLaughlin.

The clothes that will be on display in the two fashion shows to benefit the USO will be the 30 designs that were chosen as the best of several thousand submitted in the third annual American Fashions Contest sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. There will be a preview on Friday afternoon to which Chicago merchants and buyers and visiting wearing apparel manufacturers and shop owners, who will be here next week for Chicago Market week, will be invited. These guests and those who attend the Friday evening show will vote to decide which three of the costumes will win the grand prizes of $3,000, $2,000, and $1,000. An award of $50 has been given to each designer of the 30 costumes which have been made for the fashion shows, under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Pickering of New York.

USO Benefit to Be Given at Arlington Jockey Club.

Another USO benefit is a dinner the board of directors of the Arlington Park Jockey club, the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective association, and the Jockeys' Community Fund and Guild are giving at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night at the Jockey club. The party will be held in the Egyptian room, with a cabaret presented by the jockeys themselves as the pièce de résistance of the evening. John D. Allen is president of the club.

Artur Rodzinski's first appearance this season as a Ravinia conductor is expected to draw a large crowd to the wooded park this evening. The Percy B. Eckharts, the Harold O. McLains, and the Charles H. Morses are entertaining in their boxes. Mrs. Rodzinski will be among Mrs. Louis Eckstein's guests.

Mr. and Mrs. André Kostelanetz, who are en route from Milwaukee to Chicago, will be spending tomorrow night in Lake Forest with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Byron Smith. Mrs. Kostelanetz, who is better known as Lily Pons, the opera star, and her husband, the well known conductor, will come into Chicago on Thursday to rehearse for Miss Pons' concert on Friday night at Soldiers' field. Mr. Kostelanetz will conduct. The concert is the first of two outdoor events planned by the Chicago Opera company. The second will be the production of "Carmen" on Aug. 8.

William W. Darrows Parents of Son in East.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Darrow [Anita Straub] are being congratulated on the birth of a son on July 18 in Cambridge, Mass., where the baby's father is completing his studies at Harvard. The baby is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Straub of Winnetka and of Mrs. Darrow Sr., who took back the late Mr. Darrow's name following her divorce from Theodore C. Butz. Mrs. Straub and Mrs. Darrow have gone east to see their grandchild.

As soon as Maj. Cyrus McCormick leaves for active service in the army, Mrs. McCormick, who is with him in Washington, D. C., will go to Phoenix, Ariz., to see her new grandson, the infant born to Mr. and Mrs. William Davey of Santa Fe, N. M., on July 21 in St. Joseph's hospital, Phoenix. The baby has been named Robert Tinsley after his maternal great-grandfather. Mrs. Davey's mother, Mrs. E. Hill Leith, and Mr. Leith, have closed their ranch at Rimrock, Ariz., and have taken a house in Phoenix for the duration, just as Mrs. Davey has. The baby's father is in training with the army. Mrs. Leith expects to return to Chicago for a visit within a few weeks. Mrs. Davey is the former Roberta Storms Runyon. North Storms of Chicago and Randall Davey of Santa Fe are the baby's grandfathers.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

Those Chicagoans who have been wanting to join the American Women's Voluntary Services and have regretted that Chicago has not yet started a unit of the organization will be interested in the return home of Miss Jane Morton of Lake Forest, who is taking a month's vacation from her strenuous duties with the AWVS in New York. Miss Morton arrived yesterday to spend two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Mark Morton, in Lake Forest. The last half of her vacation will be spent at Desbarats, Ont., Canada, where she has been going for many summers. At the end of the month Miss Morton plans to return to her desk in the War Shop at 14 East 52d street, New York, altho the Chicago women interested in starting a branch of the AWVS here are hoping that it will be possible to have Miss Morton stay here and help in organizing this branch.

Miss Morton's work in New York has been in the uniform department, of which she is the vice chairman. For the last nine months she has been at her desk in the shop for eight hours daily, working as hard and as conscientiously as any paid worker, altho she and all the thousands of other women all over the country who are members of the AWVS are volunteers, as the name of the organization would indicate.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, her daughter, Mrs. Watson McLallen; Miss Mary Lou Laird, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mrs. Constance Amberg are among the Chicago women interested in opening an AWVS unit here. The organization was founded in 1940 by Mrs. Alice Throckmorton McLean of New York and now has 450 units in 31 of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, and Alaska. The services aim to supplement and not to duplicate the work of other war agencies, and each unit adapts its training and work to local needs.

Nutrition workers now come under the heading war workers, for it becomes more apparent every day that good nutrition is necessary for the soldier and sailor, the defense and home workers. All the dietitians completing their interneship in hospital dietetics at the Cook County School of Nursing this week will be employed in either government or civilian hospitals immediately. Several are joining the staff of the hospital in which they were trained to replace some of the more experienced dietitians who have joined Chicago's base hospital units.

The graduation exercises will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Millie E. Kalsem is director of the training program for the Cook County School of Nursing, as well as chief executive dietitian at the hospital. The graduates are the Misses Jean Grace Ebbe, Margaret Findlay, Violet Honoroff, Fritzi Jane Lyons, Mildred June Mahoney, Joyce Anita Silver, Emilie Mae Turner, and Helen Genevieve Warnack.

To enter the 12 months' interneship it is necessary to have a college degree in home economics.

Emrie Ann Lincoln, who at the age of 13 was a child singing star on W-G-N, soon will be starring in the theater of war, for she is taking a 10 week intensive engineering drafting course for women at the Illinois Institute of Technology. Miss Lincoln, now 21, thinks she will get more out of being a draftsman than a singer, but this may be because her father and four brothers all are engineers.

EMRIE ANN LINCOLN.

Have you ever ridden in a jeep? If you haven't and if you want to, today is your chance. All you will have to do is to go to Winnetka and buy a war savings bond. A jeep from Fort Sheridan has been lent to the Winnetka Rotary club, whose members will man the Victory Booth on Elm street in the north shore town today. A soldier will take every bond buyer for a short tour of the village in this vehicle of modern warfare. Winnetka is proud of its bond record and the women's division takes and deserves part of the credit for the success of the sale of bonds in the village. Thirteen organizations take turns manning the Victory Booth. Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Affleck is chairman of the women's division of the Winnetka Defense Savings staff.

Housewives, as well as working women, are being asked to take part in the "share your car" campaign that the Office of Defense Transportation is sponsoring as a means of saving rubber. In some communities women have been appointed chairmen of the campaign, but whether a woman or a man heads the committee in a community, every woman in it is expected to do her share to save her own and her neighbors' tires Women are asked to group together for shopping and for taking the children to beaches, parks, movies, etc. It is suggested that neighbor mothers in outlying districts plan to take their youngsters for the regular monthly visit to the pediatrician on the same morning or afternoon, thus making one trip serve for several families. There is much that can be done with a little thought and planning to make tires last longer, and every patriotic man, woman, and child will do all he or she can to further the "share your car" campaign. Philip Harrington heads the ODT in the Chicago area.

Sally's Guests to See Tarzan in a Big City

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

The boys and girls who come with me to see "Tarzan's New York Adventure" will have many good laughs at the troubles of the poor ape-man in the big city. He's far more terrified of a bus than he would be of a man-eating tiger in his jungle home, and because he doesn't trust elevators he simply climbs up the side of a 50 story skyscraper. When traffic gets too congested on Broadway, Tarzan simply swings from building to building by means of a rope just as he leaped from tree to tree in his other films.

Johnny Weissmuller is at his best in this film, and Maureen O'Sullivan, as Jane, accompanies him on his thrilling adventure. You'll also see their son, Boy, a wicked kidnaper, a real circus, and an exciting lion hunt.

I'm sure any boy or girl would like to see this picture, soon to be shown at Roosevelt theater, and if you can win an invitation to my party, you'll surely see it on Thursday, Aug. 6.

I have invitations for 100 boys and girls, and if you can convince me that you really deserve one of them, maybe you'll see your name listed with the winners in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. The best way to win a chance to attend this party is to write a letter, telling me in your own words just why you think you'd enjoy this picture. If you can prove that this movie would be a real treat for you, and if you remember to tell me your full name, address, and age when you write, maybe you'll be a winner.

All mail must be on my desk by next Thursday morning—so don't wait too long to send that letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

USO Campaign 3 Days to Go, $300,000 Short

With only three more days to go, the Chicago total for the United Service Organizations war fund campaign stands at $1,447,962, or $300,000 short of the goal of $1,749,432, Holman D. Pettibone, general chairman, announced yesterday. The Chicago campaign will close on Friday.

Altho the American Legion's USO drive ended yesterday, reports on the returns will not be compiled until next week. Frank Bloom, Legion Poppy day chairman, and Mrs. Ann McManus, Legion auxiliary chairman, announced that the 15,000 volunteers who have been canvassing the city will continue their work until the end of the general campaign. Bloom said several thousand dollars was contributed last week at booths thruout the city.

Yesterday's largest contribution was $15,000 from the Illinois Bell Telephone company. Pettibone said this amount was from the company itself and did not include donations by its employés. Campaign workers are reporting subscriptions to headquarters as received and no more regular division meetings will be held.

Letters received by friends and relatives of Chicago men in the service prove that the touch of home which USO centers bring to camps and bases thruout the United States are appreciated by officers and enlisted men alike.

A letter from Lieut. Philip Cochran of Hinsdale, written from San Diego, Cal., described the officers' attitude toward the USO.

"I couldn't express in words the appreciation our men and officers themselves have for the marvelous work of the USO," Lieut. Cochran wrote. "It means more to the men than you could imagine and because of that fact, the officers are deeply appreciative, for our lives are wrapped up in our men—believe me! And anything which helps them—which makes their lives that much happier—which aids in keeping their morale at such a high standard, certainly makes us happy."

Altho the post itself has recreation rooms, athletic facilities, and free movies, the officers feel that it is beneficial for the men often to get away from the post, Lieut. Cochran said. "Besides the centers themselves, the USO shows that come out to camp are thoroly enjoyed by a packed audience," he wrote.

Just a few weeks after he wrote out the $10,000 check Armour & Co. contributed to the USO campaign, Richard Murphy, an Armour employé, found himself in the army and enjoying USO facilities at Rockford.

"Another fellow and I spent a very enjoyable evening in town last night," Murphy wrote. "We went to the big USO center in Rockford and, believe me, it is the most a man or soldier could ask for. Beautiful four story building and equipped with every facility. They had mixed swimming last night so we went splashing. They furnished us with trunks, towel, and locker for 5 cents. We had a 45 minute swim and had a lot of fun."

Another Chicago man, Philip Piper, writing on USO stationery, praised the USO facilities for men stationed at Scott field, Jefferson barracks, and Fort Leonard Wood.

"Take, for instance, the facilities here in Belleville, from where I am writing," Piper said. "There are two USO buildings; one a converted garage, and the other a new building erected specifically for the purpose. This building has all the characteristics of a good country club! There is a fine dance floor where dances are held nightly—the girls being local Belleville 'talent,' generally quite attractive, and lots of fun."

White Collar GIRL

Ag-riculture.

Apropos of the ag-itation over the spelling of ag-eratum, and "floral spelling," Olga Grebe recalls the incident of the Barrington woman who entered a seed store and knew exactly what she wanted: a package of "sweet asylum."

Friends and Relatives.

Ellen was the big sister in the family. The boys depended on her while the little sister, so cute and winning, twisted Ellen around her finger. Right from the start Ellen earned a good salary. It came easy, they said. Why shouldn't a good share of it go towards educating the younger children? Especially the little sister. She was a Dresden doll. All she had to do was ask in that coaxing way and Ellen gave to her.

No one noticed the marriageable years were scurrying past. The mother and father became ill and who should take care of them but Ellen? She loved looking after people. Ellen quit her job—the young sister married [and well]—and the boys married, too.

For several years Ellen carried trays, nursed and tended two elderly people till they died. Back to work she went, but the depression had set in. Besides, her savings were gone. Tho formerly a smart dresser, she looked a bit tacky when she began to hunt for a job. She got a "fair-to-middling" position . . . then another one . . . and then another. There were long lapses of unemployment between jobs. Did the brothers and the pampered young sister come to the rescue? No.

Last week Ellen wrote a letter. She is living in New York with her oldest and best friends, and need never worry about finances again. Looking back on the years of the fat pay check she wonders ruefully if it is worthwhile to release other persons from their responsibilities; she wonders if her experience doesn't carry a warning to the woman wage earner. Yet, she bears no ill will. With unconscious irony she speaks of her friends as being "almost like my own family."

Draft Board Volunteers.

From Virginia Griffith: "Thank you for the article some weeks ago with respect to business girls volunteering their services evenings at draft boards. Several girls—married and single—have spent many hours of volunteer work at local board No. 15, even during the sweltering heat. Thru their cooperation my week's vacation was made possible."

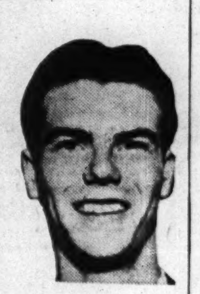
Bows and Beaux.

The hair-bow-flower-in-the-hair discussion still wages. Says Nedra: "So far as lessening the attractiveness when worn in the evening to add allure and glamor, how many W. C. G.s take their co-workers along for an "alluring and glamorous" evening? And, how many W. C. G.'s have alluring and glamorous evenings in these days of all-out service? We need all the brightness and color we can get to keep up our courage . . . a single flower or a neat, bright bow in any girl's hair isn't going to throw the office into a state of ecstasy . . . or inefficiency."

44 Vie Tonight in Contest for Music Festival

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Forty-four singers will compete tonight in the first sectional voice competition of the 13th annual Chicago Music Festival. The north side auditions will be held in the grand ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The contests will begin at 7 p. m. The public is invited and admission will be 30 cents, including federal tax.



Richard W. Ortner.

Chicago and Cook county are divided into three sections for the preliminary contests. Tonight auditions will be held for tenors, contraltos, and baritones.

Tomorrow night sopranos, mezzos, bass-baritones, and basses will be heard in the hotel. The judges tonight will be Emma Roe, Ralph Niehaus, and Edward Clark, and tomorrow night, Elaine De Sellem, Pietro Marchi, and Raymond Koch. The accompanists will be Cathryne Bennett and Rhea Shelters.

Contestants to be heard on the north side include Miss Kay North, 22 years old, lyric soprano, of 741 Melrose street, and Richard W. Ortner, 18, 6109 Winthrop avenue.

Miss North won the north side contest last year for dramatic sopranos. Young Ortner is president of the a cappella choir at Senn High school. Incidentally, he is 6 feet 5½ inches tall. During the summer he is employed as a shipping clerk.

On Thursday and Friday of this week singers living on the west and northwest sides of the city and in Cook county will compete in the Graemere hotel, 113 North Homan avenue. The south and southwest side vocalists will be judged on next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Chicago Woman's club theater, 72 East 11th street.

Good-by Gardens.

Having missed his Rock Island commutation train the other morning, Henry Barber taxied over to the Kensington station of the Illinois Central. Opposite the station platform he first noticed a large plot of ground, overgrown with weeds, but which obviously had been beautifully kept up a short while before. In the center of the plot was a large sign that read: "These lots are for sale by individual owners, and are known as the Tin Can Gardens. They were beautified by an admirer of flowers who recently acquired army shoes. So good-by, dear gardens, I now protect the public."

The more we thought about the sign, the more we wanted to learn the name of the nature lover turned soldier. So we called up H. M. Groves Jr., stationmaster at Kensington, and he kindly scouted around, to learn that it was John A. Strom, formerly of South Park avenue, telephone disconnected. Our good wishes go with you, Soldier Strom, and we hope your neighbors will carry on in the beautification of the gardens you so lovingly tended.

A Large Order.

Helen Jeanne Beaubien, in town for the day from Whiting, Ind., noticed a bewildered little girl, apparently lost, in the lobby of the Capitol theater. Miss B. was about to try and help her when the moppet approached an usher and asked timidly, "Would you know where my cousin is sitting?"

Memory.

Rich? No, nor Impoverished.
For something sweet I hold
In my trite heart
I would not change
For either wealth or gold.
'Tis memory
On which I muse,
Indelibly impressed;
And what returns
It conjures up
Upon such slight request.

Summer Theater Notes.

From Ruth Dickinson of Charlevoix, Mich.:

"A sign outside the local theatrical stock company theater announces: 'Ladies free under usual conditions.' Your guess is as good as mine."

Tanker Tales.

"The loading period of a cargo ship is hectic, what with rattling deck winches, noisy dock tractors. Sailing day is hustle and bustle, securing the ship for sea and setting the watches. But soon everything clicks like clockwork, with a time and place for every one. . . . The split work day and two 7 hour sleeps possible out of every 24 conserve energy and keep one fresh. The salt air and walking exercise stimulate the appetite and induce sleep; abundant food and comfortable bunks take care of both. . . . Custom requires 'coffee and' to be available at all times to men coming on or off watches and tricks, but it awaits any one caring to indulge. . . . Picture book ports, wonderful until the novelty wears off, then off to the next port, and finally one is headed back to the dear old incomparable United States. . . . The charm of the maritime service, always coming or going some place. No uniform, glamor or brass hats, but the satisfaction of knowing that you are doing your bit at the front. Dangerous? So is crossing Michigan avenue against the light, or an absent minded left turn. —Cyril F. Martinique.

"Too Many Loves"

SYNOPSIS.

When Juliet Johnson, New York dancer, goes to Mexico to visit Elaine, former London showgirl, now married to Sir James Lynn, British oil magnate, she finds herself soon involved in the murder of Harold, earl of Festone. The principal suspects include: Elaine, who was having an illicit romance with Lord Festone; Sir James, who had threatened to kill both his wife and her lover; Mrs. Sharon Lathrop, much married divorcee, whose first marriage Festone broke up; Philip Rankin, with whom Juliet has fallen in love, and who is an old friend of Sharon's; Maria, Elaine's maid, and even Juliet. Juliet sees Sir James burning letters and recovers enough of the charred fragments to discover they are warnings to him about Elaine's and Harold's affair. Juliet copies the notes to make out the missing parts and hides the originals. The copy disappears and police find it in Sir James' room. Juliet at first denies she wrote the copy, but afterward admits she wrote it. But they fail to find the original fragments where she hid them, and Sir James denies ever having burned or received any such notes. The gun used to murder Festone has not been found, but two of Sir James' guns and his cigaret case are missing. Juliet finds the cigaret case wrapped in a handkerchief initialed "S. L." in Festone's home when she, Philip, and Sharon sneak in the house to recover some jade elephants belonging to Sharon. As they leave the house, Juliet sees Maria in the courtyard. Morelos, head of the investigating police, questions Elaine about money he thinks she gave Harold, but Elaine claims she never gave him money. Juliet searches Maria's room and finds $2,000 in currency and a bankbook in the name of Mary Anderson. She learns that Maria has a son in a Mexican orphanage, but that Elaine knows nothing about it. Philip asks Juliet to marry him, and that night, after he leaves her, some one shoots at her. The next night some one knocks her out with a rock as she is waiting for Philip outside the Lynn residence. Philip insists she go to a hotel and not stay at the Lynns' any longer. She learns that Maria has taken her child out of the orphanage and has disappeared. She goes to a hotel, but when she finds that Philip lied to her about being with a man when she was shot at, she quarrels with him and tells Elaine about his deception. Elaine persuades her it is best for her to take the evening plane back home and promises to pack Juliet's clothes and drive her to the airport. Sharon calls on Juliet and convinces her that Philip is in love with no one except Juliet. She is relieved, but is still determined to go back home on the evening plane. Elaine drives her to the airport, but before she boards the plane Morelos and Philip drive up and tell the girls that Sharon has killed herself. It seems she left a note confessing the murder of Harold and saying she couldn't live without him. The four drive back to the Lynn residence, where Sir James tells them his guns were found in Sharon's house. He then admits to Morelos that he did try to burn the letters, but was afraid to say so before.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

MARIA'S ARREST.

"We knew about your second attempt to burn the letters with your sock, Sir James." Morelos smiled thru his narrowed eyes. "You were surprised by my man Collaodo—and left before you had completed the job. You didn't know it, but one piece of those letters blew out on a bush. It's in my office now."

"Well, if you'd told me that four hours ago I'd have been scared to death. Now I don't care. But there's one thing I can't explain. That letter transcript. How did that get into my room? Juliet, can you explain that?"

"Sir James, I wrote that copy to see if the notes had been written on my typewriter. I don't know how the transcript got into your room. I've already told you that," Juliet answered indignantly.

Sir James interrupted.

"Let me finish my story, child. I was called down to the police station. Juliet said she'd had the charred fragments. Then said they'd been stolen. Well, don't you see, I had to deny I'd ever received them. Sorry to have put you in the middle, Juliet, but it was dog eat dog."

"Well, there are still a number of things to be answered as far as I'm concerned," Juliet said, tossing her long bob about her shoulders. "Whose face was that I saw at the window? Yours, Sir James?" He shook his head. "Who shot at me? Who hit me on the head with a stone?"

"Señorita Johnson is right," Morelos declared, nodding affirmatively. "There are many questions still to be answered. For example, did Señora Lathrop drop that cigaret case wrapped in her handkerchief at Lord Festone's house?"

Juliet looked startled. He smiled.

"O, I know about your little visit, Señorita, and about seeing Maria there. Señor Rankin told me. But I'm not surprised that you lied."

A phone call for him interrupted his words.

He returned briskly.

"You must excuse me. I must hurry to my office. Maria has just been arrested. Now we will have some answers."

The next 36 hours marked a long day and night of relaxation for the Lynns, for Juliet, and for Philip. Morelos, busy questioning Maria at the station, whence she had been brought from the border near El Paso where she was arrested, saw little of them.

Elaine and her husband went to the club for the day and had dinner that evening at the Bellavista. Juliet and Philip went for a walk in the afternoon and then joined them.

"I wonder how Maria is mixed up in this?" Juliet asked.

"Why do you say that?" Elaine said quickly.

"Well, in the first place she knew more than one would expect a servant to know about the affairs of Sharon and Lord Festone."

"Don't know. She was Mrs. Lathrop's personal maid before she came to us."

"Why, James. You never told me that before!" Elaine exclaimed.

"Didn't? Don't know why not."

"Of course," Juliet went on, "that might be how she happened to know so much, altho that sensational story of Mrs. Lathrop's shooting Harold two years ago was in all the papers. But maybe Maria knew the actual cause of their quarrel."

"Sharon shot Harold! I didn't know that!" Elaine exclaimed excitedly. There was no mistaking her genuine surprise. "Did you know that, James?"

"Yes," he answered. "In fact, I was in Mexico at the time on another oil business trip. There was a great stir."

"That's right!" Philip answered. "I remember Sharon got a great deal of comfort out of your loyalty to her at that time. All the police know about that shooting, including Morelos. And by the way, Juliet, I told him everything about Maria—everything you told me," he added significantly.

Then he told Elaine and Sir James about Juliet's search of Maria's room, about the finding of the 2,000 dollars, the bankbook for Mary Anderson, even about going to Harold's to get the jade elephants, and seeing Maria there.

"Really?" Elaine was curious. "Isn't it funny servants can have private lives right under our noses and we don't know a thing about them, altho they know everything about us!"

The Lynns tried to persuade Juliet to return with them, but she said she would spend the night at the hotel where she had been the last two nights. After they had gone she and Philip, arms about each other, strolled thru the hotel garden.

"You know, darling," Juliet said, "I'm sorry in a way that the police have Maria. I'm not so sure she had anything to do with the Festone case, after all. And the baby was her secret. She didn't want anybody to know about it—not even Elaine."

Juliet continued:

"Maybe it's better this way, tho," she said, trying to find the missing pieces for the jig-saw. "Maybe whatever she's telling them will help clear Sharon's name. Confession or no confession—I have a feeling Sharon did not kill Harold, even tho she took her own life."

"You're letting your imagination run wild, little girl." Philip squeezed her hand.

"No!" Juliet was emphatic. "You'll find out I'm right. You said Sharon was always doing good things for somebody and I wouldn't be surprised if this—the last act of her life—was the best of all. She made up her mind to die—and she tried to cover up for somebody else—wrote a confession so that the secret of Harold's death might die with her."

"Do you think she was really in love with him? Her wanting to be buried beside him and all that?"

"I can't believe it," Philip answered. "But she might have thought he was in love with her. And maybe she felt that being with him in death would repay him for what she could not—or wouldn't—do for him in life."

"That man in love! Not with anybody but himself, Philip!"

Then she confessed, for the first time, Harold's ardent attentions to her, attentions that persisted until she was so frightened that she had to skitter off every time she saw him, particularly if there were moonlight.

"There's moonlight right now, darling," Philip said, taking her into his arms. For the next few minutes Juliet knew where heaven was. The world disappeared as she floated away with Philip on a woolly Mexican cloud up—up—up to the stars.

"Julie, have you told your people about us?"

"Not yet."

"Well, I want you to write to them tomorrow. As soon as this is cleared up we'll go to New York—I'll go with you. Then, if they like me—we'll be married there. You know this is what Sharon wanted, Juliet. Wherever she is she's happy for us."

"Yes, I know."

"I've made all arrangements for her funeral. Now I have to check the whereabouts of her daughters. All her possessions will go to them after the war. I wonder if they're still in Rumania?"

They returned to the bar to find Morelos waiting for them.

"I knew you were in the garden," the investigator said. "I was watching you. And I thought it was no time to interrupt."

"Very gentlemanly of you," Philip said shortly. "Well, what now?"

"I want both of you to be at the police station tomorrow morning."

"Why?"

"I think each one of you can help check Maria's story—a very strange story. I have asked Sir James and Lady Lynn to help me, too."

Going Dancing? Be Sure You're Crisp and Clean

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Girls, if you are among those present at community centers, helping to entertain the men in uniform, don't believe that, because you can do the rhumba to perfection, you're a girl after the masculine heart. To dance well is an asset, of course, as nobody will deny, but it counts a lot more when the girl partner smells sweet as a flower and whose appearance from head to foot suggests a wholesome acquaintance with soap and water. In army and navy life you know, girls, the men quickly develop a deep respect for cleanliness which makes them critical of any one whose standard is not high.

Especially during the hot summer months, when it is hardest, perhaps, to maintain that crisp, clean appearance, as a dance partner the demands are even more severe. Somehow you have to manage it. In every little detail you must suggest you've stepped from the band box.

Think of your opinion of a soldier who would come to a dance straight from maneuvers without a shower and change. You'd probably wish he'd asked some other girl to dance before you were on the floor very long.

Even tho she goes directly from work, the girl should arrange for a bath and a change of clothes. She will be sure, too, that the little details of grooming are all attended. Her slip won't show; her nails will be spotless; the polish won't be chipped; her hair will be fresh and clean, as well as prettily dressed; her dress will be spotless, and accessories, down to her hankie, will be in order. Along with her freshly applied makeup, she'll be good to look at and better to dance with, as will be proved by her increased popularity if she hasn't been in the habit of following the foregoing prescribed routine.

Cleanliness Is Vital in Baby Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Proper feeding.

Cleanliness.

I'd like to make those into big black headlines, because they are two points that are absolute essentials in keeping your baby well in summer.

A stray fly and an uncapped milk bottle on the kitchen table may sound like an innocent combination, but they are not. You may be a normally fastidious person, but if you have a baby in the family you must be clean in the many small, as well as big, ways that are a protection to him. Once you get such an idea well fixed in your mind, and more important still, once you are convinced that these cleanliness measures are vital, you will acquire a habit of meticulousness.

Washing your hands, for example, before handling food or the baby's things, will become an automatic rite. Mild soap and a nongreasy hand lotion always nearby will keep the skin of your hands from being rough from this constant washing, provided you don't use too hot water for the purpose. You don't have to scald your hands to get them safely clean, especially if you keep a nail brush available.

This cleanliness in the home where the baby is and, in fact, our present day generally high standards in sanitation, have reduced baby sickness and death in recent years. That, added to the simply marvelous precautions that are taken with milk before it comes to you. The inspection of cows reaches into the smallest of individual farms, as well as prevailing in the supervision of the great dairies. Everything, really, is made easy for you to protect your baby from the diseases that are carried by germs.

For that is the chief reason for the accent on cleanliness. That is the reason why everything that goes into, or on, or near a baby must be absolutely clean. That means your baby's supplementary foods, and if he is on a formula, the equipment used in preparing it and the bottles. It means, if he is a nursing baby, your own person in detail; it means his drinking water; it includes his clothing, his bedding, and anything he plays with.

This cleanliness extends still farther. We know that a baby, with his tender skin, can be made miserable and restless by the bites of flies and mosquitoes. But the thing goes deeper, literally, than that. Flies and some mosquitoes are disease carriers and the baby must be protected from them.

Jewish Big Sisters Taking 60 Guests on Outing Today

The Jewish Big Sisters have an outing planned for today for 60 young guests. The girls will be taken to the Jackson park beach by Miss Frances Hoffman, Miss Dorothy Hoffman, Mrs. Philip Cohen, and an assisting committee for games, a picnic lunch, and a hot supper. The summer outings committee is headed by Mrs. Herbert Levy and Mrs. Philip Brall.

On the House

Questions often are asked about what to do for aluminum tea kettles that get heavily crusted with hard water deposits. . . . One can try mashing a few potatoes in the bottom of the kettle with a little water and letting them stand for a few hours. Then add more water and bring to a boil. . . . Or fill the kettle with a mixture of cider vinegar and water; one cup vinegar to a quart of water. Bring this to a boil and let stand for the night. . . . Some people say a flat stone kept in the bottom of the kettle will prevent the scaly deposits.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WOMAN'S ART

Go Get Your Man, Doris Tells a Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Over a year ago one Regina decided to take up nursing as a career. A young interne who came into her hospital life has left an indelible impression. Before the romance had a chance to ripen Regina's family met a bitter reverse, necessitating that the girl take an office job offered by a friend of the family.

This change of position to a part of the town far from the hospital cut off any opportunity to meet the young man again. Being a quiet, serious minded type and, Regina thinks, as slow with girls as she is with boys, he would not pursue, especially, the girl feels, when she made such a hasty exit from the hospital work, without a chance to explain the reason.

Of course, Regina's question is whether she can make the move now to attempt to recover or revive the interne's interest. She has reason to believe that, in their brief association, his interest in her was influenced by more than strict attention to his duties. She thinks he definitely liked her.

"What I want to know," Regina asks, "is whether you think there is hope. I should tell you that this is no childish infatuation, nor did I fall for the starched white uniform. Neither did the atmosphere of the place influence me. The truth is, I haven't thought of another man since."

Our answer is, why not go get your man, or try your best to get him when you feel strongly that none will better answer your prayer? We see no reason on earth why a woman hasn't as much right to maneuver [with subtlety and cleverness] to achieve her love ambition as she would exercise were another career in mind. We also have reason to believe that many a married woman today wouldn't be basking in the love of the man she wanted if she hadn't made up her mind that that man was fated to be hers, and none other's, not leaving it to fate entirely when a little initiative and some aggression on her part better insured fate playing the man into her hands.

Yes, we are all for young women, who deeply feel attachment for a certain man, doing everything in their power, and within their legitimate technique, to acquire his name and his lifelong companionship.

The Housewife

In these hot days when long, cool drinks are as welcome as a lake breeze you might like to fit your tall beverage glasses with mitts made especially for the purpose. They make a cold tumbler easier to hold. In white material like bath towelling, these protectors have black numbers on their sides. Or you can get them in six assorted colors, if you prefer. They cost very little.

When you serve fresh fruit for dessert, you probably leave the berries and cherries whole, and cut the larger fruits into good sized slices or pieces. The variety in shape and size, as well as variety in color and flavor, make the arrangement more appealing.

But when you put fresh fruit into an ice cream or frozen salad, you either put it thru a sieve or cut it into very small pieces. Large pieces of fruit freeze too hard and cold to make pleasant eating.

Fresh Peach Ice Cream.
[Serves six]

20 marshmallows
2 tablespoons water
1 cup crushed fresh peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ pint whipping cream

Heat marshmallows and water in the top part of a double boiler. Stir with a folding motion and remove from heat when marshmallows are nearly melted. Add lemon juice to peaches. Cool marshmallow mixture, fold in peach pulp and whipped cream. Freeze without stirring, in refrigerator tray, using coldest temperature.

Fresh Raspberry Ice Cream.

1 pint fresh raspberries
⅓ cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅓ cup cream, whipped

Combine berries and sugar. Mash fruit and let stand for an hour. Strain out seeds and add milk, lemon juice, corn sirup. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze until firm, stirring once during freezing.

Frozen Fruit Salad.
[Serves eight]

2 packages [3 ounce] cream cheese
⅓ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup finely cut sweet cherries
1 cup peaches or apricots, cut in small pieces
¾ cup toasted nuts, cut fine
1 cup cream, whipped

Blend cream cheese, mayonnaise, and lemon juice until smooth. Add fruit, nuts, and fold in whipped cream. Freeze without stirring in refrigerator tray. Slice and serve on crisp greens. No dressing is needed.

Vary this salad by omitting nuts and substituting another fruit. Finely cut orange sections, shredded pineapple, sliced strawberries, other fresh berries may be used. You can cut down the cream cheese by half, if you like. In fact, you can do a good deal of playing around with this recipe without sacrificing any of the goodness of the salad.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Lime Sherbet.

½ package lime flavored gelatin
½ cup boiling water
¾ cup sugar
1 lemon, grated rind and juice
1 pint milk

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, stirring well. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add rind and juice of lemon. Pour this mixture very slowly into the milk, stirring constantly. [Too rapid addition of the lime mixture will cause curdling.] Place in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze rapidly. Remove to chilled bowl when mushy, and beat well. Return to freezing compartment and freeze until firm.

Looking at Hollywood
By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 27.—When Howard Hawks and Ernest Hemingway were vacationing at Sun Valley last January, Hemingway outlined a story of the Chinese people's magnificent struggle in this war that had Hawks biting chunks out of his skis. Now Hemingway's got the first draft whipped up, and Hawks is going ahead with plans to produce it in China, under auspices of the Chinese government. The story is told thru the observations of four Americans living there, and pictures a peace loving and agrarian people, caught unprepared, and building, literally with their bare hands, the Burma road, the underground munitions factories, moving universities and whole cities into the interior, underfed, underarmed, understaffed, fighting the Japanese war machine for five long years. Hawks, who is making "Air Force" in Florida, has one picture to do for Universal, after which he'll take off for the orient. James Wong Howe [soon to be commissioned in the Chinese army] goes along as photographer.

We're a-Waitin'.

I don't know why Mary Rogers, Will's daughter, doesn't settle down and have a career. She's made some fine acting tests, notably the one for "Lost Horizon," by Frank Capra. Mary has a lovely voice. . . . While lunching with her the other day, I asked what she thought about her brother Will's chances, now that he's running for congress, and she said, "Well, our friends love him, but I'm afraid most of them are going to vote for Leland Ford." . . . Susana Foster will be 18 in December but looks much older. She's been under contract to Paramount two years. They're picking up her option and yet they haven't given her anything to do since "There's Magic in Music," made more than a year ago with Allen Jones. Wonder why? The kid's got talent—if she hadn't any, they wouldn't keep her. Since she has, why waste her?

False Alarm.

The clamor boys are barking up the wrong tree about Virginia Simms' and Bill Hawks' wedding. 'Cause why? He hasn't yet been divorced. . . . Buddy De Sylva tried persuading Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire to do a dancing skit in "Star Spangled Rhythm," which they vetoed. Come on, you two! Stop being coy and tell us when you're going to do a picture together, while your public still clamors for you. . . . Abbot and Costello have offered a war bond to anybody suggesting a typically American word to use in place of "blitz." That will take some doing. Alan Ladd and Fred MacMurray will be co-starred in "Decoy," story of a tramp steamer. At least, they hope the Germans will think it is. It turns out to be a submarine chaser.

Full of Plans and News.

Producer David Rose, who came from London to Coronado, Cal., in three days, with a 30 hour stop-off in New York, wants to remake "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" when he returns to England, with Ray Milland starred in the part Gary Cooper did before. Rose will give the picture a different background, making the hero a flyer instead of a soldier. He brought a new film with him—"The Day Will Dawn." It's the first commando picture made in England of actual raids. It stars Ralph Richardson, who was so good in "The Citadel," and shows many scenes of Norway. He tells me the west end of London is filled with American officers. He lunched a couple of times with Douglas Fairbanks. Rose expects to be here only two weeks.

He's Earned It.

It's nice to know that after all these years Twentieth has put Reginald Gardiner under long term contract. Reggie [who was Hedy Lamarr's first beau here] is one of the most amusing comedians in town. He hasn't gotten screen parts he's deserved, because at all parties, the hostess or a guest would say, "Come on, Reggie, entertain—will you?" and being a good egg, he did. Then, when he'd come up for a part, the producers who'd been to the party would say, "Sure he's funny, but I've seen him do his stuff,"—forgetting completely that while they'd enjoyed it free, the public hadn't been so privileged. Reggie has promised me that from now on he'll confine his antics to the screen, where he'll get paid for it.

Like Old Times.

That dance Charlotte Greenwood did at Eddie Horton's party was so good I suggested to Director Irving Cummings he film it. He did. It'll be in "Springtime in the Rockies." It's about a dizzy dame in a crowded ballroom [but she thinks she's alone]. She starts doing a monologue about love, while waving her hands, feet, and what have you—then exits backward on all fours. It's a riot! . . . Thomas Gomez, Universal actor who was with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne for eight years, tells about the time they sent the butler to the local library to get every cook book available for Alfred, who's working these days with the stage door canteen in New York. The butler returned with a car full, including the Somerset Maugham Tragedy, "Cakes and Ale." . . . Louise Allbritton, on the set of "On the Beam," tells me there are so many pretty gals in Texas that it forced her to Hollywood. "I had an inferiority complex there," she says. But after the picture, she's going back to see her dad in Wichita Falls, Tex. . . . Claire Trevor, the lucky girl, is down to 106 pounds. . . . Oliver Hardy gave up his bicycling, because of bendage, breakage, and bruises. Mrs. Hardy has bought him a brand new motor scooter and says she's darned glad she has her first air certificate. . . . Walter Byron, bit player, decided to join the army. He went down, enlisted, and was told he'd be called in a month or so. He went back to work in "Once Upon a Honeymoon." It's the rôle of a Nazi general!

Thru the Looking Glass

The working girls and the lilies of the field alike give us excellent reports of a brand new deodorant cream, one that's smooth as silk in texture and works with the speed of lightning.

It's an antiseptic cream, so beautifully blended that it's as smooth as the finest face cream, without a tendency to crumble or be gritty. It's to be dabbed on after the bath, of course [never use a deodorant or an anti-perspirant without cleansing and drying the surface first], and you'll be able to forget about it instantly. You may dress immediately; it won't harm fabrics in the least. Perspiration and perspiration odor, on the other hand, can play the very dickens with your clothes. Dresses of some materials which are perspiration soaked seem never to regain their freshness, we've noticed, no matter how carefully or expensively they're cleaned.

This cream has been carefully tested for efficiency under all circumstances. It's been found nonirritating to the normal skin and a perfect neutralizer of perspiration odor for periods of one to three days. The average woman will find it effective for the latter time. If you have a tendency to perspire excessively or if you exercise vigorously you might have to use it more frequently, which you can do quite safely and conveniently, since its application doesn't delay you a moment in your dressing routine. You'll find that it checks perspiration, too.

Nowadays, when every one is working hard and under tension, the need for deodorants is increased. Jitters and exertion promote perspiration. Using a product that checks its offensiveness and its ill effects on clothing is a must for men as well as women.

Good Morning!

The principal character is an ex-convict racketeer of the old days who, loosed on society, thinks he sees an easy future ahead thru the medium of bootleg rubber. . . . He finds unexpected resistance in strange quarters. . . . His girl, Nikki, for instance, double crosses him. . . . Then, there is his house boy, Tom, who joins the army. . . . And one Dumbo, a former dumb ally, whose brother has joined the aviation corps. . . . To say nothing of an army of young men employed in defense work—and the pretty girl who's engaged to one of them. . . .

Unfashionable — and unhealthy, racketeering today, the man named Gilin discovers.

Ricardo Cortez plays ably the unpleasing rôle of a skunk. . . . Rochelle Hudson and Barbara Reade are charming leading ladies. . . . Bill Henry is an up and coming young fellow as Gilin's chief menace, and Chinese Kam Tong is fine in the quiet rôle of Tom.

See you tomorrow.

Corduroy Gets College Girls' Vote for Fall

BY REA SEEGER.

New fall fashions are off to an exceptionally early start. The college fashion shows always hint of many new and important trends in colors, in tricky new color combinations, in daring and sometimes amusing new accessories, and particularly in new materials or time tested materials used in a new way. Corduroy is the pet this year. Cotton corduroy appears in dozens of fascinating new shades and colors, in narrow wales, medium, and the extremely wide ribs so smart for casual sports coats and long daytime coats to wear at the first hint of snappy weather.

Most of the longer coats are belted and boast unusual sleeves graciously curved and fitted softly over the shoulder lines wide and loose way down to the wrists. The shorter coats are boxy or the snappy flared swaggers. All models, short or long, are cut with narrow snug fitted collars, and nearly every corduroy coat has deep swankily designed pockets. Most of them are patched on, minus the extra flap tops.

There's a new trench coat model of corduroy this fall designed for the college collections. It's cut in a military manner, complete to shoulder straps, deep pockets and seaming.

There are the new knee length sports shorts [or slacks], also of corduroy, matched to waistcoats as well as little boy type topcoats to complete the costume. Bright red leads the color choice poll, green, brown, and navy follow. And, of course, you'll see all kinds of corduroy scarfs, bags, hats, and gloves with cuffs of the same ribbed stuff.

Weddings

The marriage of Miss Marilyn Goehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Goehler of Kingston avenue, to Ensign James Sharon Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hale of Arkansas, will take place on Friday in the Thorndike Hilton chapel, with a wedding breakfast following at the Windermere East hotel. After a wedding trip to the west coast, Ensign Hale and his bride will live in Alameda, Cal. Miss Goehler attended Stephens college. Her financé attended the University of Missouri.

Announcement is made of the marriage on July 25 of Miss Dorothy Huntington Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Huntington Babcock of New York, to James Armstrong Chapin of Chicago, son of Mrs. Cornelius King Chapin of Grosse Pointe, Mich. Mr. Chapin is on duty here with the navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Michael of North Winchester avenue announce the marriage on July 25 of their daughter, Gertrude Ellabelle, to Lieut. James W. McGough, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McGough of Chicago. The wedding took place in the chapel at Camp Bowie in Texas.

At rubber bridge, the declarer who can see that his contract is "on ice" is likely to relax a bit, and who can blame him. But at duplicate it is quite another matter. The contract itself, of course, still is the paramount issue, but possible overtricks are scarcely less important. Note today's hand.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made his normal opening lead of the diamond three. Declarer properly ducked in dummy and captured East's jack with the king. He then cashed the king and queen of clubs and, hoping for a three-three club break, led the ten to the ace. The failure of the jack to drop was a bit disappointing, but not serious. The heart jack was led next; East covered, and declarer ran off his four heart tricks, discarding a spade from dummy. West had let go a heart on the third club, hence had to discard a diamond on the fourth round of hearts. His discard of the diamond deuce told declarer he had started with five diamonds, and now his original distribution was easy to count. He had shown two clubs and four hearts; these, with five diamonds, made it obvious that he held only two spades. If one of these was the ace, a "cute" play for extra tricks was available.

Of course, at this point declarer could have led a diamond and assured one extra trick for himself, but he was more ambitious. He led a low spade from the queen and, when West properly ducked, went right up with dummy's king. Then, on a low spade return from dummy, declarer ducked, certain that West's ace would be driven out. Naturally, this figuring was correct, and when West could do nothing better than cash the diamond ace, declarer took the last two tricks, both overtricks.

TOO MUCH CANDY BRINGS QUINTS TO DENTIST AND DIET

Girls' Teeth Suffer When They Choose Food.

Toronto, Ont., July 27 [Special].—The Dionne quintuplets of Callander, Ont., are now on a strict diet because their fondness for candy and other sweets had begun to affect their teeth.

The 8 year old sisters had strayed from the menus prescribed for them their first seven years by Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the country doctor who attended their birth. He resigned last February. Their former dietician, Miss Grace Demers, also left the nursery staff.

Dentist Prepares Diet.

The results of the deviation from their former balanced diet became apparent during a recent periodic examination by the children's dentist, Dr. Leonard H. McCool of North Bay, Ont., president of the Northern Ontario Dental association. He expressed concern over the children's recent fare and with the approval of the Dionne family physician, Dr. I. Joyal, prepared a new diet.

Now the sisters' daily menu includes the following:

One and a half pints of whole milk; one to two eggs; one serving of meat or fish; two cooked vegetables [½ cup serving]; an apple, or an orange, or a tomato and an additional fresh fruit; green, leafy and raw vegetables; six teaspoonfuls of butter; whole wheat or vitamin enriched bread; cod liver oil during winter months and in reduced doses in the summer.

Not Too Much Candy.

Concerning sweets the dentist said: "The intake of highly refined carbohydrate foods, such as refined sugar, candy, jelly, pastry, and other highly sweetened food should be kept at a minimum. It is quite possible our high sugar consumption accounts for many of our national dental ills."

Despite the difficulty with their teeth, the quintuplets have been free of most childhood ailments. An exception which received most public attention was the leg ailment of the smallest, Marie. While her sisters, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, and Emilie figeted outside the door of their nursery last Jan. 25, Marie's leg was examined by orthopedic specialists appointed by the provincial government. They detected a "wasting of the right thigh and calf."

LIGHTNING, FIRE RUIN $15,000 BARN ON SWIFT ESTATE

Fire caused by lightning destroyed a barn yesterday on the Louis F. Swift estate in Lake Forest, causing a loss estimated at $15,000. The Swift home and six other buildings were saved by the Lake Forest fire department under Chief George Bauman.

The farm is on East Westleigh road and is operated by Steve Danko, tenant. His brother, John Danko, 47 years old, who was nearby when the lightning struck, suffered shock. Workmen led 30 head of cattle, 100 pigs, and 10 calves out of the barn. One horse was destroyed and 13 tons of hay burned.

The fire department used 1,200 feet of hose to pump water from a nearby creek. Volunteer firemen assisted in the work.

Bill to Raise Pay of U. S. Workers Sent to Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—The senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill raising the pay of 150,000 government employés in the lower brackets. Among other things, the bill fixes $1,200 per year as the minimum for full time adult employment, instead of $1,020.

THE QUESTION.

What is your pet peeve in the kitchen?

WHERE ASKED.

State and Lake streets.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Vernon Ingraham, housewife, 6720 Jeffrey avenue.—Nothing seems as messy to me as a stopped up drain in the kitchen sink. It is particularly embarrassing when I have visitors who on occasions will come into the kitchen to kelp me wash the dishes after a meal. The drain always clogs when I am in a hurry to finish the dishes.

Goldie Sokolov, clerk, 1363 South California avenue.—When I'm in a hurry to leave the house after dinner I'll stack the dishes in the sink. It's an easy way out then, but when I come back and find the stack of cold, dirty dishes still waiting for me I start wishing I had washed them before I left.

Sarah Kominsky, saleslady, 1242 South Fairfield avenue.—There isn't any particular thing in the kitchen that's my pet peeve. It's the whole place, because I can't cook. I've made so many serious attempts and each was a failure. Kitchens have a disheartening affect on me.

Mrs. Helen Kalter, receptionist, 3745 Nordica avenue.—There's no limit to the extra work I'll do to remove every trace of spilled sugar on the floor. I can't stand the sound it makes when I walk on it, and more than once I've brushed off the bottoms of my shoes and mopped the floor so I wouldn't have to endure it.

Art Rosenfeld, furrier, 4200 Gladys avenue.—I like fresh, cold water as it comes from the faucet. Sometimes I spend many minutes patiently waiting for the water to get colder. Just about that time some one else decides they want hot water.

Daniel Lavorini, milkman, 2743 Seminary avenue.—There isn't any noise that can annoy me like the monotonous drip of a leaky faucet in the kitchen sink. The sink seems to make a perfect sounding drum for the drip and amplifies it to a point where I'll get out of bed to shut it off.

SEIZED ON GIRL'S CHARGE OF RAPE AT LAKE FRONT

Berthel Berry, 23 years old, 1032 East 43d street, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of a girl, 15, who said that Berry had raped her Sunday evening on the lake front at 43d street. Berry denied the accusation.

Police yesterday were searching for a rapist who assaulted a widow near 21st and Loomis streets. She said that she met him in a tavern and that afterwards he slugged and raped her.

Safe Crackers Get $4,300 in Raid on Loop Office

Samuel Ballis, manager of Pacelli and Ballis, insurance brokers at 166 West Jackson boulevard, reported to police yesterday that thieves had opened a safe in the office over the week-end and stolen $4,300 in cash, $3,000 in nonnegotiable checks, and $15 in postage stamps.

PANTANO'S PALS PROTEST LONG PRISON TERMS

Assert Police Promised Them Leniency.

Two companions of John Pantano, 20 years old, sentenced to die for the slaying of a policeman during a robbery, were sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary for their part in the crime when they pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Harold G. Ward in the Criminal court.

The two, Charles Theos, 17, and Joseph Moreale, 20, objected to the sentences, asserting that they had been promised lighter penalties for testifying against Pantano. Judge Ward followed the recommendations made for the state by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash.

14 Years for Murder.

Theos was sentenced to 14 years in prison on the murder charge and one year to life, with a minimum of 10 years and a maximum of 15 years, on the robbery count. Moreale was sentenced to 20 years on the murder charge and one year to life, with a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 20 years, on the robbery charge.

Attorney Herman Aschin, representing Theos, objected. Theos then said he had been promised five to seven years on the robbery charge. Moreale also said he had been promised a lighter sentence. Both said the promises were made by policemen.

Moves to Free Pantano.

Assistant Public Defender Frank Ferlic informed the court that he had been appointed to represent Pantano and asked leave to file a petition to set aside Pantano's conviction.

"It now appears that Pantano was convicted on perjured testimony," he said. "Both these defendants testified during the trial of Pantano that they had not been promised anything for taking the stand against him."

Judge Ward said he remembered their testimony and announced that he would hold a hearing on the petition Monday.

The three held up a tavern at 4301 North Western avenue last Dec. 10. Policeman Charles Williams was slain. Theos and Moreale said Pantano did the shooting.

JURY COMMENDS POLICEMAN FOR SLAYING ROBBER

A coroner's jury investigating the killing of a robber by a policeman returned a verdict of justifiable homicide yesterday and commended the officer.

George Karch, 26 years old, 4714 North Albany avenue, was slain by Policeman Carl Pablowski of the Cragin station after a $78 robbery in a market at 4103 Elston avenue Friday night.

Pablowski testified that he had commanded Karch to halt. The robber, he said, fired two shots, one of which wounded Michael Tarasiuk, 32, of Glenview, who also had been pursuing Karch. Then Pablowski said he fired one shot, killing the thief.

Another coroner's jury found yesterday that the fatal shooting of Richard Schallmo, 19, of 2855 Normal avenue, by Park Policeman Anton Grisz was justifiable homicide. Schallmo was shot while attempting to flee after Grisz sought to question him about riding in a stolen car.

RAPIST IN PRISON QUITS NIETZSCHE, TURNS TO BIBLE

David Reese Steffey III., 18 year old former Wright college student who is serving a life term for rape, has abandoned the teachings of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche and is studying the Bible, Warden C. F. Becker of the Menard prison for the insane, said yesterday.

Steffey, who confessed having assaulted 23 women to convince himself that he was not abnormal, was sentenced last February. He was removed to Menard from Stateville for psychiatric observation and treatment.

His behavior at Menard, Warden Becker asserted, improved so rapidly that a contemplated course of shock treatments was considered unnecessary. When his condition improves sufficiently, Warden Becker said, Steffey will be returned to Stateville.

NELSON SHOOTS 67; RETAINS TAM O' SHANTER TITLE

HEAFNER GETS 71 IN PLAYOFF FOR $2,500 AWARD

Champion Finishes 5 Under Par.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Byron Nelson's golf game yesterday was discharged from the sanitarium known as the $15,000 Tam o'Shanter open golf tournament, and pronounced completely cured.

The restoration of the Nelson game's health was accomplished at 5:40 p. m. last evening, when attending physicians looked at the 67—five under par—with which he had defeated large Clayton Heafner of Durham, N. C., in their 18 hole playoff for first prize of $2,500.

They informed the patient that everything was fine if he would keep watching his irons, and then told Heafner, after administering the second place application of $1,750, that he also had recovered. A 71, one under par effected Clayton's release from his five-day stay in the happy asylum created last Monday morning, when the maddest eight days of golf in this zone began with the opening of the All-American amateur tournament.

Case History of Byron's Game.

Mr. Nelson, you will recall, had been coming along nicely with his game right thru Saturday's third round. A glance at the chart for 54 holes showed that it was 203, five shots in front of Heafner, and eight ahead of the rest of the field. Then it came down with that Sunday relapse of 77, five over par, and it was decided to hold him over yesterday.

That 77 nearly sent the Nelson game to the violent ward. It did send him into the same wing with Heafner, who also finished the regular 72 holes with a 280. But it's all right now, thank you. It's the same, sound play that has won Byron nearly all the 4-H prizes in golf these last few years.

The 2,000 visitors to the grounds yesterday witnessed one of the happiest recoveries a golf game ever has undergone, after the start of Nelson's efforts was delayed 51 minutes by the weather. The crisis was reached at the first hole, where a bogey five added to the pallor of the patient. But from there on, it bloomed constantly, particularly at the fourth, fifth, and sixth. Here it was that Nelson himself applied the cure, having been his own diagnostician.

Plays Golf in His Sleep.

Yesterday, while waiting for the weather to improve, Byron confessed that he had awakened at 3 a. m. fidgeting over his hole by hole career thru the regular tournament. He realized he had scored birdies on only

MOON MULLINS—DOLLAR DAY

WHITE SOX FIX UP TWILIGHT, NIGHT DOUBLE HEADER

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox have joined up with the big league magnates who thus far have been able to shake off the time honored "You can't do that" shackles. Postponement of yesterday's opener with the maurauding Yankees opened the way for the local major league introduction for twilight ball tomorrow evening. And that isn't all. The twilight meeting with the Yanks, who incidentally also will play in Comiskey park this afternoon, will be the front half of a double header. The second half will be played under the lights.

This program, already tried in other cities, will start at 5:15 p. m. and all for the price of one admission. With a normal first game there will be a long pause between acts because of a desire to hold off starting the night battle until 8:30 p. m. as originally scheduled. But as time killers for the fans there will be music of one kind or another and no priorities on the purchases of hot dogs.

Edgar Smith will pitch against Atley Donald today and will try to evade his 17th defeat.

Reversed Decision Angers Dykes.

James Dykes, who as Sox manager, is more or less of a nonstop heckler of the league's umpires, didn't receive any bad news yesterday as aftermath of his Sunday bounce, which was issued by Jack Quinn.

On this occasion Dykes didn't question the correctness of Quinn's calling Don Kolloway out because he kicked his own batted ball in front of the plate. The Sox boss was irritated because Quinn first ruled it a foul ball. When the verdict was reversed Dykes raced up and bellowed at least a hundred times, "You called it a foul ball."

Mr. Quinn knew he was wrong and took a verbal beating, but Dykes overplayed his opportunity. Quinn apparently didn't recommend fine or suspension, which is at least a moral victory for the Sox leader. However, Quinn did report about young Charley Comiskey running up to the plate and politely asking, "What did you call it?" Under the rules the Comiskey heir, who wears a No. 13 on his uniform, cannot sit on the bench, being neither a signed player nor a duly accredited bat boy. So President William Harridge will issue orders accordingly.

Three Brothers in Service.

Word reached the Yankees yesterday that Tom Henrich, one of their numerous star outfielders, probably will be called for army service next month. Henrich, who was married last summer, originally was classed in 3A, but was moved into 1A several months ago. He asked deferment on a dependency plea. The draft appeal board voted unanimously against the plea. Three of Henrich's brothers—Charles, Arthur, and Edmund—are already in the armed forces.

Another Yankee development was release on option of Tuck Stainback, ex-Cub outfielder, to the Newark farm team. The move reduced the champions' roster to 24 players.

UMPIRES TOLD TO CRACK DOWN ON BENCH JOCKEYS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 27.—Manager Jim Wilson of the Cubs spent this afternoon on the carpet before President Ford Frick of the National league. The hearing was one of a series Mr. Frick has been conducting as a result of the bean ball duel between the Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers in Chicago on July 16. Postponement of the scheduled Cub-Giant opener made it possible for Frick to conduct the session today.

The league president announced after his two hour session with Wilson that the purpose of the hearings, said to have been instituted after President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers had made formal charges that the Cubs had tried to injure his boys, was to formulate new rules of conduct. Frick added that he would not discipline Wilson or any one else for past bean ball incidents, but that he had told Wilson and Leo Durocher, Dodger manager, that severe measures would be taken in the event of similar outbreaks in the future. The Cubs and Dodgers will open a four game series in Brooklyn next Thursday evening.

Inspired by Bench Jockeying.

"I told Wilson today I had told Durocher and will tell all other managers that they must do everything to discourage use of the bean ball and that bench jockeying is one of the first inspirations of such outbreaks," Frick said after dismissing Wilson.

"The bean ball long has been baseball's toughest offense to regulate. It is about the only offense for which there is no yardstick. The pitcher, unless he makes angry throws, always can claim his control was wild, etc.

"So-called bench jockeying, the voicing of insults from the dugouts and the coaching lines, is more easily detected and I have instructed all umpires to be more rigorous than ever before in their handling of vocal misbehavior. Benches will be cleared if necessary to curb the insult practice, which not only is unsportsmanlike as it pertains to the game but more often than not is offensive to boxholders in earshot of sometimes profane repartee."

Wilson Ordered Dusters.

On returning from the hearing, Manager Wilson said he readily had admitted ordering his pitchers to throw at Dodger batsmen, but not until the Dodgers had introduced rowdy tactics.

Because of today's postponement, the Cubs are scheduled to play a double header tomorrow, as well as a previously arranged double header for Wednesday. Tomorrow Vern Olsen and Johnny Schmitz, both southpaws, will be sent against Mel Ott's fellows. Ott has indicated he will employ Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher.

The Cubs and Giants thus far have played 14 games and each team has won seven. Both teams lost double headers Sunday.

Play Bears Aug. 28 in Soldiers' Field.

BY ARCH WARD.

Intercollegiate football's All-Stars have been chosen, not by a few sports writers or radio commentators but by 4,928,083 fans.

The eleven winners in the coast to coast poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 200 associated newspapers and radio stations in 38 states and the District of Columbia will comprise the All-Stars' starting lineup against the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football league, in Chicago's ninth annual charity game at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28.

The All-Star coaching staff is obliged to respect the voice of the fans unless a player is unable to accept election to the starting lineup or is physicially unfit the night of the game. In that event the man next in line in the national standings must be moved into the vacancy at the kickoff.

SHUT EYE SCORES IN OMAHA PURSE; 1ST '42 VICTORY

Takes Lead in Last Strides to Beat Bolus.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Shut Eye, a consistent campaigner of last season which had been performing indifferently this year, finally put over a winning effort yesterday at Arlington Park. Frankie Grill brought him up in the stretch to catch the leaders in the late stages of the six furlong Omaha purse. He beat Bolus by a length while Sis Baker was taking third place.

Meanwhile the 2 to 1 favorite, Topic, was delivering a dull performance after a sluggish getaway to wind up far out of the money. Shut Eye was held at better than 7 to 1 in the betting, his mutuel pay-off being $16.60, $9.60, and $6. He ran the six furlongs in the sharp time of 1:10 3-5.

Bolus Makes Pace.

This was Shut Eye's ninth start of the season. In his earlier efforts he had been able to get only one second place.

Bolus, a 6 to 1 shot, went out to make the pace, with The Gob forcing him, All Lizzie running third, and Lum's Pride fourth. Meanwhile Shut Eye was galloping along with the trailers.

Bolus led the way into the stretch, with The Gob and All Lizzie still in close pursuit. Shut Eye had encountered quite a bit of interference when he tried to move up on the curve.

In the stretch Grill took Shut Eye to the outside, put him to a hard drive, and gradually got to the leaders. In the last few yards he was drawing away rapidly.

Wins Two of Three.

George Woolf, who came here from the east to ride King's Abbey in the Classic, remained over for the last week of the meeting and rode two winners out of three mounts yesterday. He brought in Liberator, a first starter, in the first race, and then scored with Martian in the fifth. His other mount, Results, wound up third in the fourth race.

Martian's victory was scored against a field of seven rivals of the $3,500 class. In this 7 furlong dash Kansas City made the early pace with Cash Basis and Aureole close up. Meanwhile Woolf was taking it easy with Martian when it became apparent that the horse couldn't keep up with the early pace.

Martian Pays $11.20.

In the stretch Woolf took Martian to the outside, sent him up swiftly and landed him in front in the last 50 yards. He beat Aureole by a length and a quarter, Captain Caution taking third place. The prices on the winner were $11.20, $5, and $3.60.

Five Classic Horses to Run in Handicap

Five of the horses which ran in the Classic have been nominated for the $7,500 Victory handicap, one of the three stake events on the closing day of the Arlington meeting next Saturday. These are Valdina Orphan, Rounders, With Regards, King's Abbey, and Anticlimax. The Orphan and With Regards finished second and third, respectively, behind Shut Out.

Alsab is among the nominees for this race and he also is eligible to run against Whirlaway in the $25,000 Arlington handicap, which will head the program. It is generally believed that his handlers will choose to send him into the Victory handicap against horses of his own age.

The Cleopatra handicap, the other $7,500 event which was added to the closing day's program, has drawn the nominations of 13 fillies and mares, including Blue Delight, winner of the recent Matron stakes.

The two midweek events will be the Glencoe handicap at seven furlongs on Wednesday and the Hyde Park stakes for juveniles on Thursday. The latter event is expected to bring out Littletown, which has two victories over Occupation to his credit.

The Arlington Park Jockey club, the Jockeys' community fund and Guild and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective association will sponsor a dinner and dance for the benefit of the USO Thursday evening in the Egyptian room of the track. Tickets are $5 per person. All proceeds go to the USO.

SCOTLAND LIGHT, BREEZING HOME WIN AT SARATOGA

Track Opens Its Fourth War Period Meeting.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 27 (AP).—Venerable Saratoga Springs opened its fourth period of wartime racing today with Thomas M. Howell's Scotland Light winning the American Legion handicap and William Ziegler Jr.'s Breezing Home taking the 68th running of the Flash stakes.

Located far from the densely populated areas of metropolitan New York, the track still attracted 5,158 spectators today in spite of gas and tire shortages and weather conditions that were far from ideal. Taxis, regular run buses, horse drawn vehicles, good old shoe leather, and even bicycles were used as means of transportation.

Leads All the Way.

In taking the Flash, Breezing Home set the pace all the way and finished the 5½ furlongs for juveniles a length in front of W. E. Boeing's Devil's Thumb. The Christiana stable's Quillon was another half length to the rear. Breezing Home splashed the distance in 1:06 1-5 and was worth $16.80 in the mutuels.

Conn McCreary rode Scotland Light, a 9 to 1 shot, in the American Legion and his triumph there gave him a triple. He made it four winners later in the day. C. V. Whitney's favored Parasang was second by a head and Brandywine stable's Pompion was third.

Start Is Delayed.

Not only did the weather and the transportation difficulties mitigate against equaling the 6,296 opening attendance of a year ago but the start of the program was held up 17 minutes while a dispute over jockey insurance was settled.

Despite all these handicaps the crowd poured $243,009 into the betting machines, compared with $252,386 a year ago.

MRS. KRAUSS' 78 CAPTURES MEDAL IN COUNTY GOLF

Tam o' Shanter Star Wins by One Stroke.

Mrs. Lillian Zech Krauss of Tam o' Shanter, returning to the scene of her earlier golfing endeavors after an absence of 12 years, posted a 39—39—78, four strokes over par to win medal honors in the 28th annual women's Cook County Victory tournament yesterday in Jackson park.

Mrs. Krauss, who has a 22 year old son in the army, decided to aid the "save your tires" program by staying in Chicago instead of going to Peoria to compete in the state meet. She was one of the early finishers and her card of 78 stood up.

Weather failed to halt most of the qualifying field of 78. Each was hopeful her score might be low enough for the championship match play bracket which opens today.

One stroke behind the medalist was Miss Elaine Sorenson of Twin Orchard who carded 37—42—79. Mrs. Bernie Sick, representing the Crystal Lawn course in Joliet, finished with a 41—40—81, while Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Navajo Fields, defending champion, was eight strokes over women's par with an 82.

In her opening match today Mrs. Krauss encounters Mildred Wright of the home club who yesterday turned in a medal card of 91. Evelyn Moore, the defending champion, pairs off with Evelyn Hime of Lincoln Park.

Today's, with yesterday's scores in bracket:

Miss Cline's 76 Wins State Medal Honors

Peoria, Ill., July 27 (AP).—Jeanne Cline, the 18 year old golfing miss from Bloomington who is the favorite to win the state women's golf championship, today won medal honors with a 36—40—76 in the 18 hole qualifying round.

Miss Cline, runner-up last year to Ellamae Williams, formerly of Chicago, who is not competing this year, was three over women's par for the Peoria Country club course. She went out in standard figures.

She finished two strokes ahead of Virginia Ingram of Winnetka, who had a 78. Next came Dorothy Foster of Springfield, who won the first state championship in 1934 with a 79.

Miss Foster was the only former titleholder among the 46 starters. Two other previous winners, Virginia Vilas Norton and Eleanor Dudley, both of Chicago, were expected to start but failed to appear.

Match Play Begins Today.

Three players tied with 93s for the last two places in the championship field of 16. To break the deadlock officials used the back nine scores turned in by the three. This placed Grace Stone of Peoria and Mrs. D. C. Dodds of Champaign in the title flight, the former having a 44 on the last nine and Mrs. Dodds a 46. Mrs. O. D. Mann of Danville, the third player, had a 50.

Match play will begin tomorrow with Miss Cline paired against Betty Mackemer of Peoria, who had an 85 today. The finals will be held Friday.

Miss Cline was the only player to equal par on either round today.

Rockford Youth Leads Qualifiers in Junior Golf

Harry Forbes, 17, of Rockford, led a field of 121 qualifiers in the Chicago District Junior golf tournament at Edgewood Valley course yesterday with a 74 for the 18 holes, putting together two nines of 37. Forbes is from the same club as Bob Rosecrance, the defending champion, who was exempt from the qualifying round.

Forbes' 74 topped, by one stroke, Jack Duers, who last week won the Midwest Public Links championship at the Waveland Golf club. Duers posted a 38—37—75, three over par. Tied for third were Jim Lamb of Oregon, 39—37—76; Bob Judson of Indian Hill, 38—38—76, and Emil Weser of Tam o' Shanter, 37—39—76.

WORST ENEMY IN PUBLIC WOODS? IT'S THE VANDAL

He'll Build Fires Against Trees, Wreck Shelters.

BY BOB BECKER.

After visiting many forest preserves in all parts of Cook county it's not difficult to figure out the most destructive enemy threatening the natural beauty and the man-made improvements in those recreational areas. It's vandalism. Politics always has been a threat to the preserves but the men who direct the policy of developing and conserving the resources of the preserves obviously are pursuing a straight course toward efficiency, despite almost constant political pressure.

Fortunately only a small percentage of the people who go to the preserves are destructive. Another ray of hope in the picture is the fact that the public is annually making a better record in outdoor manners. Nevertheless the vandals are a destructive, active minority leaving disfiguring scars upon the preserves.

Build Fires Against Trees.

There are some typical examples of how a few people damage preserve property. Altho there are hundreds of fireplaces available in the picnic areas, some people will build fires against big trees and kill them. At Deer Grove we saw how picnickers even had started fires inside a large wood and stone shelter. [How the shelter was not burned down is a puzzle.] Chopping up large numbers of picnic tables formerly was a popular week-end sport among a few preserve visitors. Today these tables are riveted and bolted so they can't be torn apart very easily. But the preserve superintendent of maintenance of the preserves says that he still must set aside from $6,000 to $7,000 per year for table repairs due to the wood chopping activity of a few picnickers.

Hand hewn shingles on top of the artistic wayside shelters have a way of disappearing. In some of the areas it's been necessary to string barbed wire over the shingles to keep them on a roof. Not even the copper flashing inside the shelter chimneys is safe from the light fingered group. And the big cut stones in the walls around the shelters even have been loaded into cars and taken from the preserves.

They Even Steal Fireplaces.

The small steel fireplaces set up for the convenience of picnickers have to be chained to concrete blocks to keep people from carrying them away. Even with this precaution around 50 are stolen each year by people who bring big cutters or torches with them so they can sever the heavy steel chains on the fireplaces and carry them home. Boys with handy little axes are a constant threat to the trees in the preserves. Many trees have been mutilated and killed in this way.

But the public is behaving better, say the forest preserve officials who have figured that about 10 per cent of the vandals take preserve property for profit. Most of the people who inflict damage on the woods and the equipment are either careless or do not know how to behave outdoors. But despite the hard usage given the 35,000 acres in the Cook county preserves by millions of people they remain well kept and are conserving some priceless tracts of Illinois outdoors.

CHRISTOFORIDIS BEATS BROWN IN PITTSBURGH BOUT

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 27 (AP).—Anton Christoforidis of Cleveland, former NBA light heavyweight champion, won a decision tonight over Mose Brown of McKeesport, Pa., in the main bout of a charity boxing card featuring five 10 round bouts before 15,000 fans. Brown weighed 171 and Christoforidis 167. Results of the four other matches:

Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati, 163, knocked out Booker Beckwith, 171, of Chicago, in 2 minutes and 19 seconds of the ninth round.

Fritzie Zivic, Pittsburgh, former welterweight champion, stopped Norman Rubio of Albany, N. Y., when a Pennsylvania boxing commission physician ordered their scheduled 10 round bout halted at the end of the eighth round because Rubio's eyes were badly cut. Zivic weighed 148 and Rubio 147½.

Joey Maxim of Cleveland beat Curtis Sheppard, Pittsburgh Negro, in 10 rounds, and Harry Bobo, Pittsburgh Negro heavyweight, stopped Claudio Villar of Spain in the fifth.

FIRKINS, GARTH LEAD IN IOWA MASTERS GOLF

Ames, Ia., July 27 (AP).—B. J. Firkins, Iowa State professor, and Tyrell Garth Jr., Beaumont, Tex., faced a field of 85 thru the first 18 holes of the fifth annual Iowa masters golf tournament on the Iowa State college course today, but the two leaders could only card 76's over the tough course which has seen only one par round in the five years of the meet.

Garth shot a subpar 35 on the out nine, but went five over coming in to match Firkins. Joe Brown, Des Moines pro, making his first bid for the crown, shot 77 to gain a runner-up berth, while Jack Hall, another Des Moines pro, Art Bartlett, Ottumwa veteran, and Brob Brown of Eldora counted 78's.

The contenders will shoot 36 holes tomorrow to climax the two-day event.

The annual propresident's golf tournament, scheduled for yesterday at the Hinsdale Golf club, was postponed late yesterday afternoon because of weather. The event will be held Aug. 31, according to Alex Cunningham, president of the Illinois section of the P. G. A.

THE GUMPS—TROUBLE 'ROUND THE BEND

Nelson Shoots 67; Captures Open Play-Off

2 of Tam o' Shanter's 10 par four holes. The 3 a. m. awakening was typical of the intensity with which this crisp-spoken Texan plays golf. That early morning analysis revealed he had extracted threes on the par-four first and fourth holes of his opening round. For the next 68 holes of his confinement at Tam o' Shanter he couldn't get a three on the remaining 38 par fours.

Byron adjusted this in yesterday's dismal setting, and with almost a vengeful treatment of the case. Three putts from the edge of the first wasn't an auspicious start, but the fourth, fifth, and sixth were another story.

He Smacks a No. 1.

Nelson, even with Heafner after the third, lathered a No. 1 iron second onto the green at the 445 yard fourth, 14 feet past the pin, which it had struck en route. It was the first time he had called upon that valuable weapon in the entire tournament, and most of the visitors had forgotten that it was with a No. 1 iron on the fourth hole at Philadelphia's Spring Mill course that Byron had scored an eagle two for the shot that ultimately won him the 1939 National Open championship.

Heafner, in the meantime, was getting well himself. Of course, he couldn't duplicate Nelson's three at the par 4 fourth, and there was the 275 yard fifth. Byron drove hole high to the right of the green, about 35 feet from the hole. Heafner sagged with a tee shot that landed in the sand back of the trees at the left, and all of 70 yards from the flag.

An Eagle for Nelson.

The 28 year old Carolinian whose birdie at the 18th on Sunday had moved him into the ultimate tie with Nelson, surveyed the lie and then fired the shot that struck the flag and stopped inches away for a certain three. Nelson, still conducting his feud with the par four holes, whipped out a dynamiter and flipped it on and in for an eagle two.

Both leveled good putts at the 405 yard sixth for a pair of threes, and Heafner regained a stroke at the long ninth, where Byron didn't allow for water on the green, between the hole and his chip shot. That left Heafner, who got his birdie there, only a shot behind. Both drew birds at the long 10th, and pars at the 11th, after which they bartered shots for three holes, Nelson going to the 15th tee two strokes on the good. Nelson got a handy par with a 10 footer at the 16th and then followed with a fine birdie putt at the par four 17th.

Earnings Reach $9,601.06.

Nelson gained another final stroke at the home green, which Heafner three putted in haste.

Nelson's first prize of $2,500 increased his winnings for 1942 to $9,601, giving him second place back of Ben Hogan's $11,993. Heafner's $1,750 projected him into the first 10 cash collectors with a total of $3,250.

MAJOR TEAMS TO OPEN ENLARGED BOWLING CENTER

A match involving the Monarch Beers of the Classic league and the Chapin & Gores of the Randolph and North End leagues will be the major number on the program attending the formal opening of the enlarged Faetz & Son bowling center Thursday night. Four new alleys have been installed in the center at 5961 Ridge avenue, thereby enlarging it 50 per cent. It is operated by Matt Faetz Sr., former champion, and Corp. Matt Faetz Jr., who is now in the army.

The Classic league lineup will include its four holdovers from last season, Capt. Bill Flesch, Harry Ledene Jr., Dick Winsberg, and George Eland, plus Anthony Slanina. Capt. Leo Faetz and Rudy Boedecker are holdovers on the Chapin & Gore team, which has added Les Fuller, Bill Lenzen, and Lee Hoerstmann. Completing the bowling program will be a match between two teams of the center's major league, the Monarch Encores, captained by Tom Bushold, and the Old Pogues, led by Lee Keely. Hal Totten will be master of ceremonies.

HAL NEWHOUSER IS REJECTED FOR ARMY SERVICE

Detroit, Mich., July 27 (AP).—Hal Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers' 21 year old southpaw pitcher, was rejected for army service by examining physicians today when he reported for induction. The physicians declined to disclose the grounds on which Newhouser failed to pass the physical tests.

Newhouser, graduate of Detroit sandlots, has a record of four victories and eight defeats this season. He was a member of the American league All-Star squad. He registered for selective service last fall when youths 20 years old were enrolled. He was 21 last May 20.

Joyce Beats Harvey Dubs at Marigold

Willie Joyce, former Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, convinced Harvey Dubs and 2,026 spectators that he is the Detroit welterweight's master by dealing him a sound beating in 12 rounds in Marigold outdoor arena last night. The accomplishment gave the Gary boxer his third straight decision over Dubs. The unanimous decision handed down by Referee Tommy Gilmore and Judges Rube Metz and Henry Froula was just a formality.

As Dubs' backers predicted, Joyce slowed down in the last two rounds, but Willie's early margin was sufficient to insure him of his eighth straight triumph.

Rizzo Draws with Spencer.

The 20 year old Canadian fighter started in the first round as if he meant to end matters in a hurry. He drove lefts and rights to the head and body with considerable effect until the third round. Joyce then began to find the range with a body offensive which Dubs had difficulty blocking and which cost him every round after the third except the ninth, which was scored even.

Vito Rizzo, promising west side lightweight prospect, held Gene Spencer, seasoned South Chicago boxer, to a draw in a six round slugging match which preceded the main event. Al Jordan, erstwhile Kansas City, Mo., sectional Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, pounded out a verdict over Jesse Jackson in a four round opener.

Gross receipts were $2,862.

Eagle to Meet Petersen.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald yesterday arranged two bouts for shows in Marigold outdoor arena next Monday and Aug. 10. Charley Eagle, Syracuse, N. Y., light heavyweight, who scored a surprise victory over Altus Allen recently, will meet Bill Petersen of Indiana Harbor Monday, while Allen will be given a chance to redeem himself in a 10 round event against Joe Maxin Aug. 10. The latter show is topped by Anton Christoforidis, former light heavyweight title holder, and Nate Bolden.

FEDEROVITCH IN STATE HOSPITAL; CONDITION 'POOR'

John L. Federovitch, giant tackle of the Chicago Bears, is in the Chicago State hospital at Dunning, it was learned yesterday. Physicians at the hospital described the condition of the 25 year old athlete as poor.

Federovitch was transferred to Dunning last week from a Chicago sanitarium where he had been confined for a short time after becoming irrational. His wife, who lives at the Sheridan Plaza hotel, told physicians Federovitch had been struck by a piece of concrete at Wrigley field six weeks ago while watching a baseball game. Whether this was responsible for his condition has not been determined.

Federovitch is 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 245 pounds. He came to the Bears last fall after playing for three years at Davis-Elkins college. His home town is in Allison, Pa.

squad. There are 45 from this area. The south placed 12 and the far west and east nine each.

Ohio State, Minnesota, and Notre Dame share honors on the starting lineup with two representatives apiece. Northwestern's Dick Erdlitz led all candidates in the poll with a total of 562,942 votes. Erdlitz got tremendous support from his home state of Wisconsin and his organization worked effectively in metropolitan centers in the east and middle west.

The best newspaper job was turned in by the Columbus, O., Dispatch, which succeeded in placing four men on the All-Star squad. Russ Needham, the paper's sports editor, yesterday wired: "Columbus is spending its wildest football July in history. The response of Ohio State fans has been almost unbelievable."

Players Get Heavy Support.

Notre Dame's national alumni association did more efficient work than ever before in the All-Star poll and Minnesota players again rode high on the support of three Minneapolis papers—the Star-Journal, Tribune, and Times.

The Washington Times-Herald, which enjoyed robust backing by the Georgetown Alumni association, again has sent a starting player to the All-Star game. Last year it was Augie Lio, a guard. This time it is Al Blozis, national A. A. U. shot put champion, a tackle. The Times-Herald received 397 votes for Blozis from American soldiers in Ireland and 430 from Honolulu. Vince Flaherty, who conducted the Washington poll, reported votes from 27 states. University of Missouri, winner of the Big Six conference championship last fall, placed three on the All-Star squad.

Thirty-four universities and colleges are represented in the 75 invitations which were wired yesterday to the successful candidates. All nine Western conference universities are included.

MATCHES BEAT GARDEN CITY IN NINTH, 1 TO 0

The Match corporation defeated the Garden City Maids, 1 to 0, last night in the only game played in the girls major softball league. The winning run was scored in the ninth inning on a triple and a single. The Rockola-Rheingold game was postponed because of the weather.

Tonight's schedule: Garden City vs. Parichy in Parichy stadium, Harlem avenue and Harrison street; Match Corporation vs. Rockola in Rockola stadium, 4200 North Central avenue; Elmhurst vs. Rheingold at 75th street and Euclid avenue.

INDIANS LOSE TO RED SOX, 8 TO 5, IN SERIES OPENER

Cleveland, O., July 27 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox clung to second place in the American league today, tallying four runs in the last two innings to turn back the threatening Cleveland Indians, 8 to 5, in the opener of a four game series.

Tex Hughson notched his 11th victory against three defeats, but was clubbed for 12 hits while Boston collected 11—nine off Al Milnar and two off Joe Heving.

In an effort to halt the Red Sox slump that has lost them 15 of their 24 games, Manager Joe Cronin took over the cleanup spot in the batting order and moved Slugger Ted Williams into the No. 3 position. Cronin went in at third, later relinquishing the job to Jim Tabor.

The Red Sox clinched the game in the ninth with three runs as Heving walked Hughson and DiMaggio, Pesky tripled, and Williams singled.

ATHLETICS BEAT GREAT LAKES IN 11 INNINGS, 6 TO 5

Loss Is 10th for Sailors in 57 Games.

A case of jitters in the 11th inning cost the Great Lakes baseball team its second loss in a row against major league competition at Constitution field, Great Lakes, yesterday afternoon before more than 8,000 sailors.

It was the Philadelphia Athletics this time who pushed across two runs in the 11th on one hit, an error, and a double steal to defeat the Bluejackets, 6 to 5.

The loss was the 10th in 57 starts for the sailor nine, and Seaman John Rigney was the loser this time, just as he was two weeks ago when the New York Giants took a 10 inning, 5 to 3, verdict.

Athletics Win in 11th.

It was hardly Rigney's fault tho. He entered the game in the eighth with two on base as a result of passes issued by Fred Shaffer, and he did not allow a hit until the 11th. Then Elmer Valo led off with a double, went to third on Suder's sacrifice, and scored when McCoy muffed Miles' grounder. A walk to Besse put Miles on second and an infield out sent him to third. Blair, who had reached first on a fielder's choice, then pulled a double steal with Miles, the latter scoring.

The Bluejackets came back with a run in the last of the 11th as Basso singled home Hajduk who had reached first on a fielder's choice, but McCoy flied out to end the game.

Harris Winning Pitcher.

The Athletics had scored their other four runs in the fourth innings off Shaffer. Great Lakes tallied once in the first inning and three more in the last of the fourth off Jack Knott, then Bob Harris came in in the eighth to get credit for the victory. Score:

Soliloquy on a Street Car.

There are 57 passengers on a car, they say. That means every car has 57 going their own way. There's the laborer, the steno and the "big boss," sans his car, riding on the public tram and going near or roaming far. There are 57 people all with troubles, joys and tears, 57 human beings with a million thoughts and fears, 57 souls a seeking for a Shangri-La, so say, can't you be a little patient then and help them on their way? You have your faults and errors, too, don't push and shove and curse [a crowded car is awful, but a prison camp's much worse.] There are those in yonder countries who would think that it was heaven to be crowded, but FREE people, in a car of 57.

—Helen La Monte.

Home on Furlough.

Strong and bronzed he stood before me
As I grasped his manly hand.
What a picture of true manhood,
What a credit to this land!
Nowhere on this maddened earth-globe
Could you find a nobler soul—
One whose thoughts will always cherish
Freedom for each mortal's goal?

O, may God protect him always,
Him we knew when but a boy.
Boy Scout, athlete, and scholar
And his parents' pride and joy.
Keep him safe O, Gracious Master,
And may he the victor be,
Victor over hate and chaos
That besets humanity!

—G. Gordon Carter.

Keep His Spirit High.

There's a soldier in the army, any young man it might be,
He's in a camp and ready to be sent across the sea.
His love for God and country and for all the folks back home
Makes him feel it worthy of the fact he has to roam.
His routine drills are many and he's learning mighty fast
And he's willing, more than willing to stick right to the last.
He's away from wife, or sweetheart, and he's giving all he can
To make it mighty certain freedom rings for every man.

Take time to think about it. He would think it mighty fine
If you thought enough about him that you'd care to drop a line.
Write about the weather, or just anything at all,
And let him know you're with him when he answers bugle call.
Then the Japs and all the Nazis, as they never have before,
Will feel his fighting spirit and will know that they're at war.
So keep in mind the soldier who, for your sake, now must roam,
And give him reassurance that we think of him back home.

—John "Bud" Packham.

RAILS AND STEEL SHARES BOLSTER RAGGED MARKET

Volume Continues at Low Ebb; Index Steady.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Selective buying in rails, steels, motors, and specialties again provided the main recovery prop in today's stock market but demand even in these groups was far from urgent.

The list, ragged at the start, improved after midday and, at the best, gains ranged from fractions to a point or more. These were reduced or canceled in many cases at the close.

Dealings never attained any real momentum and transfers amounted to 259,530 shares, compared with 261,840 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 36.70.

Buying Incentives Few.

Few purchasing incentives were found in the war news, the tax outlook and generally confusing inflation sentiment. The opinion persisted, tho, that growing idle cash thruout the nation soon or late would be diverted, at least partially, to securities.

Rails continued to benefit from revenue statements showing sharp gains in net income for most roads during the first six months.

Santa Fe established its highest quotation since 1938. Southern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line went into new high ground for 1942, altho the former ended with a net loss of ⅛.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Chicago Stock exchange prices were irregular yesterday, with advances by 27 issues and declines by 28. Transactions totaled 9,000 shares, and included 750 shares of Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, which closed unchanged. Illinois Central advanced ⅜ and Swift was up ¼. In the last half hour Commonwealth Edison and General Motors each rose ⅛, and Montgomery Ward, ¼.

6 MONTH PEAK PAID FOR CAR OF ILLINOIS WHEAT

No. 2 Red Grade Brings $1.28½ Per Bushel.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

A mill paid $1.28½ a bushel for a car of Illinois No. 2 red wheat in Chicago yesterday, the highest price paid in the cash market for the grain since January. The price was 9 cents over the September wheat future on the Board of Trade, widest premium paid for this type wheat in relation to the futures in a decade, dealers said.

Meanwhile, processors bid actively for oats and corn. Oats sold at a new peak since late May as reports of disappointing yields reached the market. September oats moved up to 50½ cents. The new oats movement has been small and grain men look for a large portion of the crop to be held for feed.

Corn Bookings Not Heavy.

Altho bookings of corn were not large, late reports indicated they would be close to 100,000 bushels. Prices dealers were willing to pay for corn and oats in the cash markets in relation to futures prices recorded new gains.

Wheat futures closed ¾ cent lower after dipping as much as 1 cent during the session, the September delivery closing at $1.19. Corn futures were ⅜ cent lower; oats, ½ cent higher; rye, unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, and soy beans, ⅞ to 1 cent lower.

Market Undertone Firm.

Possibility that legislative developments may be delayed for a week or longer while members of congress visit their home sections to line up votes was believed to have accounted for some of the selling of wheat futures. Little hedge selling was in evidence and the light receipts of new crop grain gave the market a firm undertone.

The government sold more than a million bushels of its wheat last week, most of it presumably for food purposes. Market observers commented that efforts to provide farm storage facilities so that producers could take advantage of the high government loans apparently had been more effective than the trade realized. This is believed to account for the light wheat movement.

OPA TO PREVAIL OVER INFLATION, CONGRESS TOLD

Henderson Gives Quarterly Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 27.—In the face of widespread evidence that price ceilings are cracking wide open, Leon Henderson in his first report to congress on Office of Price administration operations, today insisted that "the President's program will prevail and the battle against inflation will be won decisively."

Leon Henderson.

The lengthy 237 page report, required by congress every three months under the emergency price control act, is devoted mainly to tracing the history of price control from May, 1940, thru issuance of the general maximum price regulation late in April, 1942.

Calls Subsidies Essential.

There was little new in the report in addition to Henderson's prediction that inflation would not wreck the nation's economic system. Separate chapters told the story of rent control and the various rationing programs. Henderson stressed his belief that subsidies are "an essential mechanism of wartime price control."

"It is an obvious point and one that has been labored," he said in a letter of transmittal to the speaker and president of the senate, "but I wish to make it again: The President's program against inflation will succeed only as its every element is made fully effective. Without price control the other elements cannot be put into play; and only as the other elements are made effective can we count on continuing to hold the line on prices.

Hesitation Dangerous.

"Hesitation on any of the major fronts imperils the entire campaign. It has been a difficult task to hold ceiling prices in the face of hesitation of each group to take its battle station until assured that other groups were taking theirs. The story of price control under these difficulties is necessarily reserved for the next of these reports.

"Fortunately, in recent weeks recognition has grown that this is a major theater of the war. The initial hesitation to follow the President's lead on the economic front is disappearing under the spreading awareness of the facts with which we must deal."

After the Office of Price administration and Civilian Supply was established by executive order in April, 1941, its first major action was control of the price of war's most basic material—steel. There followed a succession of "maximum price schedules" that brought under OPA controls most of the basic raw materials and many semimanufactured goods by late summer of 1941.

Full Authority Necessary.

In spite of these measures, the report states, "by the summer of 1941 there could be no doubt but that the American defense economy was facing an inflation problem of wartime proportions and that it would be necessary to strengthen the apparatus of price control with full and explicit statutory authority."

With the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor and the launching of a gigantic armament program, civilian purchasing power was due to be swollen and production of civilian goods drastically curtailed, the report concluded. These "explosive forces" could and would wreck the price structure, the report declared. So, on April 28, 1942, general maximum price regulations were issued.

American Bridge Sets New Record in Construction

The erecting department of the American Bridge company established an all-time monthly record in June by putting up 41,837 tons of structural steel, mostly on war projects, L. A. Paddock, president of the United States Steel corporation subsidiary, announced yesterday. The new record represents a 47 per cent increase over the department's best previous mark established during October, 1930.

53 MILES OF ROAD'S TRACKS AND BRIDGES REQUISITIONED BY WPB

Louisville, Ky., July 27 (AP).—James B. Hill, president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad announced today that the government had requisitioned all steel rails and bridges in a 53 mile line between Winchester and Maloney, Ky. The road had asked to abandon the line.

L. J. Gilmore, assistant engineer of the salvage division of the WPB, gave the company a receipt for the property, but the price was not announced.

Fix Scrap Quotas.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—The WPB today set a six month goal of 27 million tons of scrap iron and steel to be collected under the nation-wide salvage program.

The quota was broken down by states on estimates provided by the bureau of mines. The region including Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and the district of Columbia has the largest quota at 3,422,000 tons. The next largest—3,125,000 tons—is for Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

That Sizzling Steak May Be Near Its Doom

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

The prime beef steak—the pride of American agriculture and the hit of the American dinner table—is threatened by artificial price control measures enforced by the Office of Price Administration, cattle dealers at Chicago's stockyards said yesterday. Further, the tonnage of available beef is likely to be reduced sharply as a result of cattle being sold before their full weight is attained.

Farmers who have made a business of buying stock off the range and building it into prime steers say they cannot continue under present conditions to produce the extra fine beef to which the American public has become accustomed. They explain that unless production costs are lowered or price ceilings on prime beef increased there will be a decided lowering in the quality of beef in the butcher shops.

Warn of Prime Steak Lack.

Live stock experts warned the housewife not to be astonished a few months hence when she is told she can't get a two inch thick prime steak for broiling—the kind she buys when "special company" is expected for dinner.

That prime steak is the finished product of an animal that has been two years growing to reach top quality.

Here is the story of that prime steak:

Two years ago it was a small loin in a calf weighing 100 pounds and nursing on the western ranges. The calf's parents were probably of pedigree stock, descendants of thorobreds that won ribbons in live stock shows. With thousands of others, our calf romped on the range for about six months, reaching a weight of about 400 pounds.

Sent to Midwest to Feed.

Then came the day when it was sold for about $44 and loaded onto a train headed for the midwestern corn belt. Previously its diet was milk and grass. Its new owner was to be a midwestern farmer who bought it to build it up by feeding it grain, hoping to sell it at a profit after the expense of feeding and labor from the calf stage.

It was October and the farmer had just harvested his corn. Over the winter the calf was fed roughage and some grain to keep it growing. Later its ration consisted mostly of grain and commercial feeds. Then in about 18 months after the farmer bought the calf it reached the prime stage and was "ripe" for butchering.

Fails to Bring Needed Profit.

The weight of the prime steer is from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds, for which the present average market price is about $15 a hundred pounds. This, the farmers who buy the animals for feeding say, doesn't give them an adequate profit. Costs of adding the weight which makes a prime steer vary among farmers. One estimate was that it costs the farmer about 10 cents a pound to bring a calf from 400 to 800 pounds by feeding it roughage and grain. Starting at 800 pounds the cost of adding a pound thru grain and commercial feed was estimated at 16 cents.

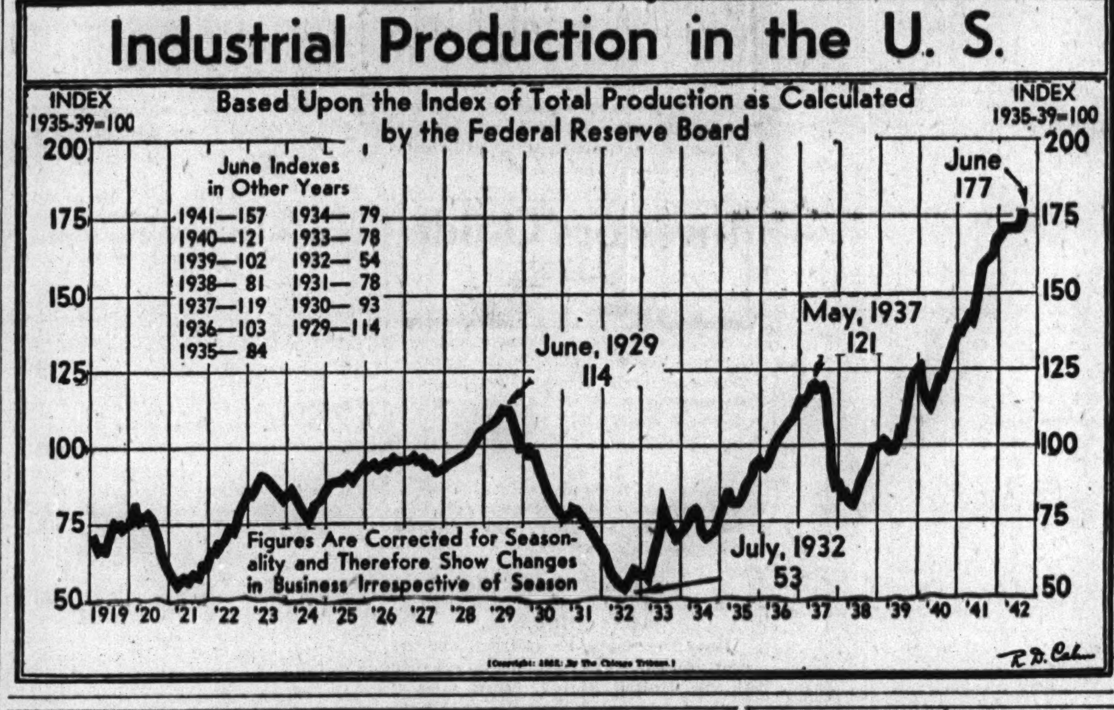
In order to save the added cost of putting on the additional weight—the weight and finish which makes a prime steer—farmers are selling their steers at 800 to 1,100 pounds. Such animals are of medium quality and bring a price of about $13 to $13.25 a hundred pounds.

Meantime there is a big demand from the army, navy, and lend-lease for cattle of medium quality. This also helps to stimulate the marketing of cattle before reaching the prime stage. Live stock men say it is difficult to estimate the tonnage of meat lost to the nation as a result of the early marketing of cattle.

TREASURY PLANS 'SOME' FINANCING IN EARLY AUGUST

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today that the treasury would do "some financing" early next month. Because of the high rate of war expenditures the treasury has been borrowing large sums nearly every month.

One of the first steps in August financing is expected to be a reopening of the treasury's May offering of 2½ per cent 20-25 year bonds for subscription in whatever amounts investors are interested. When this offer was held open for about two weeks previously 880 million dollars of these securities were purchased.



Hogs Break on U. S. Price Cut; Wickard Meets Packers Today

Off 15 to 50 Cents

The steepest Monday decline of the year swept the nation's hog markets yesterday. Reductions ranged from 15 cents to 50 cents per 100 pounds, with the general level of prices the lowest in 10 weeks. The break was attributed to the recent government announcement that lend-lease pork would be purchased at lower prices.

Last week's late price setback loosened the supplies of hogs from some sections that had been holding for higher prices, but the increase was not sufficient to relieve the meat shortage, members of the trade said. Farmers shipped 22,500 hogs, including stock sold direct to packers, but it was estimated about 9,000 of these were "earmarked" to fill the lend-lease contracts.

Supply Above Year Ago.

The aggregate supply appeared ample at 83,000 head at the 11 principal points, compared with 58,000 the same day last year, but after government orders were taken into consideration domestic trade had less to consume than in 1941.

Chicago hog prices were cut 25 to 40 cents. The average fell to $13.90, the first time the price has been under $14 since May 19. Top loads sold off 30 cents, at $14.60, compared with a recent 22 year peak of $15.15.

Prime long fed steers were scarce despite the largest cattle receipts in seven weeks. Few were good enough to reach $15, with prices steady to 15 cents lower. Beef cows were weak. Sheep and lambs sold steady.

Retail Outlook 'Bad'

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard will confer with representatives of the meat packing industry in the Morrison hotel today in an effort to relieve the nation-wide meat shortage and halt the closing of small packing plants, spokesmen for the department of agriculture announced last night. Meeting agricultural representatives later, he will discuss butter and cheese prices, wheat storage and corn borer problems.

After a visit to the Chicago stockyards yesterday George Dressler, president of the Central Retail Meat Dealers' association, asserted the retail outlook for meat in Chicago is "bad." The association is composed of the owners of many of the retail butcher shops in the Chicago area.

"The new government regulations on prices and meat grading have curtailed packers' operations to such an extent there just isn't enough meat available to fill consumer, lend-lease, and army requirements," Dressler said. "We found the packers believed there were more than ample supplies of meat animals on the farms but that they weren't getting them.

"We also found that the newly adopted government grades are unfair to the consumer. Under them the consumer does not get a fair picture of the product he is buying. I believe the government should call a conference of competent men in the meat industry and reach a solution to some of our problems."

POTATOES AT HIGHEST LATE JULY PRICES FOR TEN YEARS IN CHICAGO

Potatoes and cantaloupes sold at the highest late July wholesale prices in more than a decade in Chicago yesterday, the agricultural marketing service reported. A carload of California long white potatoes sold for $4.50 a hundred pounds while cantaloupes from California brought $6.75 to $7 a crate.

Light supplies, the poor quality of potatoes from major midwestern sections supplying the market now, and the record army, lend-lease and consumer demand account for the higher markets, the department of agriculture's news service said.

On the Chicago Mercantile exchange, potato futures climbed in the most active market of the year. The November Idaho contract closed 8 cents higher at $2.85.

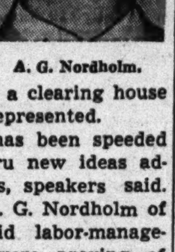
Butter futures closed about unchanged on the Mercantile exchange with the November contract at 40 cents a pound. Egg futures also closed unchanged with the October delivery at 34.50 cents a dozen.

Hearing on Peoples Gas Rate Cut Is Postponed

Start of a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission to determine new rates for gas sold by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was postponed yesterday to tomorrow. The company has filed a schedule of reduced rates which were to have become effective June 15 saving customers about $1,200,000 annually.

GROUP IS FORMED TO SPUR USE OF WORKERS' IDEAS

An organization to encourage the use of employé suggestions in speeding up the war program was formed yesterday at a conference in United Air Lines headquarters of officials of 28 industrial companies representing 400,000 workers. The group will be known as the National Association of Suggestion Systems, and act as a clearing house for the companies represented.



A. G. Nordholm.

War production has been speeded in many plants thru new ideas advanced by employés, speakers said. Among them was A. G. Nordholm of the WPB who said labor-management committees were proving of much value in war work.

E. S. Taylor of the Pullman company was named chairman of a temporary committee named to draft by-laws. Other members are F. A. Denz of United Air Lines, secretary; J. D. Fraser, International Business Machine company; H. C. Marmaduke, Illinois Central railroad; F. R. Evers, Public Service company of Northern Illinois, and H. W. Seinwerth, Swift & Co.

COMPLAINS BILLS OF GOVERNMENT PAID TOO SLOWLY

Altho it has restricted credit of all types and shortened terms for private transactions, the government takes four to six months too long to pay its own bills, Henry H. Heimann, New York, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, said yesterday. Also, he added, it asks for discounts long after the discount period has passed.

Speaking on war credit before the Chicago Association of Credit Men, Heimann said delays are understandable in special cases or for certain periods. But, he said, the number of complaints on overdue bills is continually growing.

"More prompt payment of government obligations would aid materially in alleviating working capital shortages and thereby expedite the war production program," said Heimann.

First Corporation Official Exchange Seat Deal Posted

A membership in the Chicago Stock exchange was posted for transfer yesterday to George F. Noyes, vice president and secretary of the Illinois Company of Chicago. Noyes is the first applicant under new exchange rules permitting membership by officers of corporations dealing in securities and the registration of corporations as member firms. Memberships formerly were restricted to partnerships.

State Income Taxes Viewed as Surest Source of Revenue

State income taxes promise to become the sole major source of state revenue to produce increased yields during the war, the Federation of Tax Administrators said yesterday in a report on income tax collections in 12 of the 34 states making this levy. Rising with the national income, the federation reported, increases for 1942 fiscal year state income tax collections over 1941 ranged from 20 per cent in Colorado to 146 per cent in Arkansas. Eight of the 12 states had gains of more than 30 per cent.

"Comparison of state income tax figures with tax revenue returns from other sources indicates the income tax will be the only major state revenue source to continue increasing its yield," the federation said.

Other Tax Bases Shrink.

"The income tax base has continued to grow rapidly as military needs cut the bases of the motor fuel, sales and alcoholic beverage taxes—levies accounting for almost half of state revenues for the 1941 fiscal year. Only one factor, the increased federal income taxes on corporations, appears to have possibilities of an adverse effect on income tax yields of states allowing deductions for federal taxes paid."

According to the report, the reason for the expansion of the income tax base as other bases shrink is that the war economy constantly is paying out larger amounts to a growing work force, while curtailing taxable goods civilians may purchase.

Hits Many Formerly Exempt.

The sharp rise in money payments not only has increased the average income tax liability of state taxpayers, but also has brought thousands into taxpaying brackets who previously were not liable, the federation said.

The study found that the volume of income payments in the war economy also has increased the speed with which tax liabilities are liquidated. The federation said that in New York only 11 per cent of the taxpayers chose to pay the installment method this year against 22 per cent last year.

TRIBUNE VESSEL IN EPOCHAL TRIP

Will Haul Midwest Coal to Canadian Port.

The Chicago Tribune paper ship bearing that name will start an epochal trip Aug. 7 when it leaves its Chicago docks loaded with 4,000 tons of coal for a Canadian user.

This will mark the practical opening of the Canadian markets to midwestern mines. Last year the eastern coal fields exported 49 million tons to Canada thru the Lake Erie ports of Cleveland and Toledo. As soon as Chicago loading facilities can be improved sufficiently, midwestern mines can step in and claim at least several million tons of this business, according to coal company executives.

When the Canadian shipping board called for boats to carry midwestern coal, the Tribune company's subsidiary, the Quebec and Ontario Transportation company, was the first to respond. The board indicated its view of the importance of the coal traffic by requesting Canadian bulk freighter operators to load this cargo whenever possible.

Another Will Follow.

Following the M. S. Chicago Tribune's initial coal run, another Q. and O. paper boat, the Heron Bay, will load 5,000 tons of coal destined for Fort William, Ont., on the upper shore of Lake Superior. Formerly these boats came to Chicago with paper and then headed for Heron Bay on Lake Superior to load pulpwood for the paper mills.

The shipper is the Southern Coal company, 307 North Michigan avenue, which has a contract for 150,000 tons with the Canadian Pacific railway. This is the equivalent of 3,000 rail cars of coal.

"This is entirely a new market for midwestern coal," said S. L. Jewel, company manager here. "From our knowledge of Canadian heating equipment and needs we know that we can become increasingly successful competitors of the eastern fields."

I. C. C. Suspends Tariffs.

Railroad freight rate differentials have kept midwestern coal out of the Canadian markets. In 1939 railroads entering the Chicago district attempted to establish rates to remedy the situation, but eastern railroads complained to the Interstate Commerce commission, which suspended the tariffs.

After lengthy hearings rail rates to fit in with the combination rail-water route became effective April 5, 1941—too late in the season for the establishment of sales contracts and shipping arrangements.

The new rail rate to Chicago from the western Kentucky mines of the Southern Coal company is 50 cents a ton lower than on coal destined for consumption here.

Loading facilities in South Chicago are not as good as those in Cleveland and Toledo but will be improved before the opening of next year's lake season, Jewel said.

WPB ANNOUNCES 70,000 TON RISE IN RUBBER PLAN

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—The WPB today formally announced approval of an increase in the synthetic rubber program from 800,000 to 870,000 tons a year as a result of improved engineering practices in production of butyl rubber. The expansion was disclosed by the Standard Oil company [New Jersey] last week.

The WPB said new techniques would increase the capacity of plants already under construction. No additional critical materials will be required for construction.

The WPB said the expansion was not expected to alter the anticipated production of 300 tons of butyl rubber this year, did not change the current rubber situation, and that "there is no rubber to spare for nonessential purposes."

Acme Reopens Riverdale Steel Plant After Repairs

The Acme Steel company's Riverdale plant resumed operations yesterday after a two weeks' shutdown for repairs. During the period employés of more than three years received vacation pay for one or two weeks.

June Electricity Output Tops Year Ago by 11 Pct.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—The Federal Power commission announced today that electric energy produced last month totaled 14,940,553,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 11.2 per cent over June, 1941.

QUARTER'S G. M. PROFITS CUT TO HALF 1941 LEVEL

Six Month Income Dips; Sales Rise.

New York, July 27 (AP).—The General Motors corporation reported today its net income for the second quarter of 1942 was $24,613,218, less than half the $53,579,568 earned in the three months ended June 30, 1941. After preferred dividend requirements the amount applicable to common stock was equivalent to 51 cents a share, compared with $1.18 a year ago.

Net profit for the first six months amounted to $47,843,209 equal to 99 cents a common share, against $118,177,905, or $2.62 a share in the first half of 1941.

War material deliveries for the first half of this year were nearly five times as large as a year ago and sales of commercial products were only one-fifth as large.

War Output Increasing.

The trend of war output continues upward, Chairman Alfred P. Sloan Jr. indicated in his report to stockholders, with second quarter deliveries 45 per cent larger than in the first three months of the year, which included a month of passenger car production.

Military censorship permitted Sloan to reveal these statistics on the six months' production:

	1942.	1941.
War deliveries..	$628,439,152	$ 131,800,082
Commercial sales	248,888,596	1,217,290,778

Sloan said the average number of employés during the second quarter was 281,464, compared with 318,726 in the 1941 period, reflecting a drop in commercial output. He said he anticipated an increase during the rest of the year.

Pay Rolls Increase.

Despite the drop in employment, second quarter pay rolls amounted to $192,047,280, against $187,230,843 a year ago. Hours worked rose to 45.8 per week from 42.1 a year ago.

Explaining the decline in net earnings, Sloan called attention to the factors that "make the determination of true earnings in any single period an extremely difficult matter."

Sloan listed increased taxes, federal policies designed to avoid inflation, the establishment of reserves, effects of renegotiation of war material contracts and the "difficulties of properly allocating the true cost of operations."

"Obviously, under these varying conditions it is of the utmost importance that reserves be established to meet such contingencies as can be foreseen," Sloan said. "Later adjustments may necessarily result in substantial modifications—in either direction."

Adjustments Are Made.

He said second quarter net income reflected such adjustments as:

Provision of $4,910,927 for postwar contingencies and rehabilitation, bringing to $8,792,208 such provision for the first half of 1942.

A provision of $11,500,000 made in the first quarter against profits on cars produced and sold to dealers, and monthly carrying charges, "has been returned to earnings in the second quarter."

A reserve of 10 million dollars provided against possible additional losses incident to cessation of commercial operations in January.

A reserve of $14,448,000 "on account of possible retroactive price and other adjustments arising out of the renegotiation of war contracts."

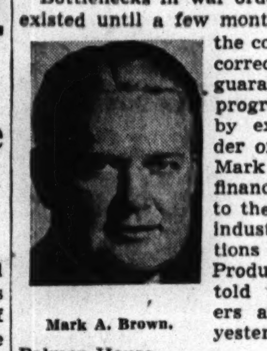
RAILROADS BOOST AVERAGE LOADS OF LCL FREIGHT

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman reported today that 115 major railroads set an average loading record of nearly nine tons per car of less-than-carload freight during May.

Eastman said the class I roads reporting under ODT orders, which set a less-than-carload weight minimum of six tons, loaded 417,855 cars in May with an average of 17,858 pounds to the car. This average compared with about 10,600 pounds for the same railroads last year. Short line railroads average more than 7¼ tons a car.

Reports Loans Available for All War Work

Bottlenecks in war order financing existed until a few months ago, but the condition was corrected by the guaranteed loan program created by executive order on March 26, Mark A. Brown, financial advisor to the director of industry operations of the War Production board, told manufacturers and bankers yesterday in the Palmer House.



Mark A. Brown.

"There is nothing in the world which the armed services and the Maritime commission want which cannot be financed now, insofar as the credit needs of a war contractor are concerned," Brown asserted. He spoke at the first of two meetings, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, at which Arthur Olson, assistant vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, and others discussed guaranteed war production loans.

Will Guarantee Loans.

Under regulation V of the federal reserve board, issued as a result of the March 26 executive order, the government, thru the federal reserve banks as fiscal agents, will guarantee a loan to a war goods maker if he cannot get a loan otherwise and if the army, navy, or the Maritime commission certify that his production is necessary to the war effort.

Brown, who is vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, said the banks welcomed the regulation V loan program, because it enabled them to do war work financing which they could not do "prudently" otherwise.

Situation Brings Action.

He said the executive order of March 26 grew out of difficulties encountered by a manufacturer of manifolds for aircraft engines in getting credit to handle huge orders which the company had tried in vain to subcontract. The company had exhausted all its regular bank credit and had received all the financial aid it could from government under laws then existing, Brown said, but still needed funds to break a manifold production bottleneck that was hindering warplane output. The case was taken to President Roosevelt and the executive order was the result, Brown said.

War production work is fanning out among the smaller subcontractors now, after a period in which it was concentrated in big companies, Brown reported. He said 21 per cent of all prime contracts of more than $50,000 let between June, 1940, and February, 1942, were placed with four companies. Ten companies held 35 per cent, he said.

Outlines Regulation's Provisions.

Olson was the principal commentator at the second meeting, at which representatives of various federal agencies and procurement divisions answered questions asked by manufacturers and credit officials of banks. Olson outlined the provisions and purposes of regulation V, and the procedures to be followed by war contract holders in getting guaranteed loans.

A. H. Mellinger, president of the association and of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, presiding, said at the first meeting that 85 per cent of the working capital needed in war production has been provided by banks.

PROPERTY GROUP CHARGES OPA AIM IS DICTATORSHIP

The OPA is attempting to broaden its powers into "an unlimited dictatorship," the recently formed National Federation of Property Owner Associations, 105 West Madison street, charged yesterday in a telegram to President Roosevelt.

The federation asserted that the OPA has not yet used its present powers to administer price control effectively and should not be granted further authority.

"Coöperation of organizations of industry as provided in title 1, section 5 of the price control act would do more to effectuate inflation control than any new grant of powers," the federation said. "Overwhelming public support thus secured would both reduce the cost of administration and assure the effectiveness of the legislation."

INLAND AND CIO RESUME TALKS OVER CONTRACT

Negotiations Broken Off in January.

Refuse Full Hike

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—Applying its wage stabilization formula for the first time since it was propounded in the "Little Steel" decision, the War Labor board refused today to grant a general increase to 1,200 employés of the Remington-Rand company plants at Tonowanda, N. Y. The CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers had demanded a flat raise of 10 cents an hour but the board approved only a 2½ cent increase for women hired on an incentive basis. This brought their starting pay to 50 cents, which the board said reduced inequalities between the wages of men and women.

The WLB formula is based on a general rule that workers need 15 per cent more money than on Jan. 1, 1941, to offset higher living costs.

Representatives of the Inland Steel company and the CIO United Steelworkers of America resumed contract negotiations yesterday in the company's Indiana Harbor, Ind., offices. It was the first meeting since January when negotiations were broken off.

Inland on Sunday became the last of the four "Little Steel" companies to accept the recent War Labor board decision requiring them to institute union security and raise wages. The company's notification of compliance said it was "compelled to do a thing which it believes wrong, because the alternative would interfere with war production."

Started Last September.

Fred M. Gillies, general superintendent of the Indiana Harbor works, headed the Inland representatives. John Doherty, international representative, and Joseph Germano, director of the United Steelworkers Calumet district No. 31, headed the union delegation, and also represented Indiana Harbor local No. 1010 and Chicago Heights local 64.

The contract conversations began last September after the union had been certified in July, 1941, as exclusive bargaining agent. Negotiations halted after the committees had agreed on virtually all points except the closed shop, checkoff, and the union demand for a $1 a day wage increase—issues which later were adjudicated by the WLB.

Clarence B. Randall, Inland vice president who has handled the WLB case, said yesterday he could predict neither the length of time the renewed parley will take nor its outcome. Other sources forecast long drawn and hard fought negotiations.

Reserve Right to Appeal.

In its notification of compliance, Inland accepted without comment the board's order of a 44 cent a day wage boost to a minimum of 78 cents an hour. It told the WLB, however, that it reserved the right to appeal the maintenance of union membership contract clause, and a union dues checkoff. Inland also reserved the right to terminate compliance with those provisions should the courts subsequently find that WLB had exceeded its authority in imposing them.

The union and the other "Little Steel" companies—Bethlehem, Republic, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube—previously had announced acceptance of the WLB decision. Chicago union officials said they understood that negotiations also were resumed yesterday at Youngstown, O., in the Youngstown Sheet and Tube case, and would be resumed in New York today with Republic and tomorrow with Bethlehem.

Dealers Give Inventory Data to Group Considering Control

Retailers and wholesalers representing 40 companies conferred yesterday in the Civic Opera building with members of a committee which is studying for the War Production board, the question whether control of inventories is needed to assure equitable distribution of goods among all stores and geographical areas.

Dr. Eaton Read, chief of the wholesale and retail policy section of WPB's office of civilian supply and professor of marketing at De Paul university, and two merchants, I. D. Wolf of Pittsburgh and John Donaldson of Chicago, constitute the OCS wholesale and retail inventory policy committee which is conducting the survey.

Hold Separate Conferences.

They were assisted yesterday by D. J. Duncan, Northwestern university marketing professor, who is head consultant to Read's policy section and is in charge of the technical staff assigned to the section. Each of the four held individual conferences with merchants. The Chicago interview will continue thru today. The committee will go to Pittsburgh next.

Companies in Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Minnesota, and one in New Mexico, were represented. They gave information and figures which will be analyzed in an attempt to answer two questions — whether inventory control is necessary, and if so, what form it should take.

Information Not Revealed.

Dr. Read declined to reveal the information given. He said no statement will be made until information gathered in a series of conferences thruout the nation is analyzed.

"The purpose of this investigation is to determine whether wholesale and retail inventory regulation is needed to assure equitable distribution of available goods among geographical areas, among various sizes of stores, and among various types of stores," he said.

In Washington a study of all available information on inventories is being made by several agencies.

ADDRESS H P 482, TRIBUNE

PAY HALF OF WAR COSTS BY TAXES, SEN. WILEY URGES

Proposes Huge Increase in Current Levies.

Washington, D. C., July 27 (AP).—A huge increase in taxation, so that half the government's expenditures would be met out of current revenue instead of borrowing, was advocated today by Sen. Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.]. "We should not consider for one moment passing on to the following generation more than 50 per cent of the cost of this war," he said in a senate speech.

The proposed new taxes to raise $6,271,000,000 would bring total federal revenues to a total of only $22,000,000,000, he said, as against prospective war expenditures of $72,000,000,000 during the next 12 months.

Urges Third of Income Pledge.

Wiley suggested that "timid, mincing steps" be abandoned; that congress raise $36,000,000,000 by taxation, and insist that Americans buy $36,000,000,000 in war bonds.

All senators voting for this plan, he said, could demonstrate leadership by pledging one-third of their net income to the purchase of government bonds.

Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] reported that the senate finance committee had decided not to consider a treasury proposal for mandatory joint income tax returns by married couples in the revenue bill. The senate had sought such a provision as a means of raising $420,000,000 of new revenue.

Eliminates Treasury Proposal.

Chairman Walter F. George [D., Ga.] told reporters the committee had decided to eliminate from consideration a treasury proposal to tax the incomes from outstanding issues of state and municipal bonds. George said, however, that the committee had left open for further discussion a proposal to tax the income from future issues of such securities.

Without taking any formal votes, George said, the committee had decided to study further a treasury proposal for elimination of the present 27½ per cent flat allowance for depreciation in oil and mining adventures and substitution of a cost depletion method.

May Cease Compilations of Stock Short Interest

New York, July 27 (AP).—New York Stock exchange officials are considering discontinuance of the monthly compilation of short sales, it was learned today. The figures are designed to disclose the volume of "bear" trading, but recent fluctuations in the short interest and the small amount of its total, has led the exchange to consider discontinuance as an economy measure.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Food Grows Wild.

July 27, 1942.

WITH so many succulent vegetables growing in the gardens of the Wheaton farm there is no need for any of the farm residents to worry about there not being an ample supply of healthful food. But if it became necessary to supplement the cultivated produce with other plants it wouldn't be much trouble for the farm residents to go into the woods and fields and gather a pretty fine basket of edible foods fresh from nature's garden.

This week we started to make a list of these edible plants which are on the farm. The first items we jotted down range from tubers which could take the place of potatoes to delicious wild fruits and "vegetables" which make delicious salads.

Sunflower Artichoke.

One of the first edible plants we noticed on a hike over the farm was the Jerusalem artichoke. This species with the fancy name is one of the sunflowers. It grows very tall, sports a pretty yellow flower, and is abundant all thru Chicagoland. The artichoke gets a minus zero rating here as a useful or even desirable plant, altho it produces edible tubers resembling potatoes in their food qualities. The Indians cultivated this plant and even white men have been known to grow it for themselves and as food for pigs.

The Jack in the Pulpit is another plant that could be called on if hunger demanded a source of starch. The turnip shaped corn of the Jack in the Pulpit can't be eaten raw. One bite of it and your tongue burns as tho stuck with hot needles. But when dried and cooked it is palatable, and Indians knew how to use the starch in it for making a crude bread.

Until this week we didn't know that one of our favorite wildflowers, the purple bergamot, could be used in making a palatable salad mixture. The wild leek and other members of the wild onion family are delicious and quite common thruout Chicagoland. Pigweed and a number of other wild "vegetables" long have been known as edible plants, but not until it was reported that Dr. George Washington Carver, the noted Negro scientist, had served a mixture of greenstuff containing bergamot did we know that the latter is edible. Nor have any of the wild vegetable experts ever referred to the bergamot as being edible.

It's Pungent Plant.

On the farm and all thru Chicagoland the bergamot is very abundant. We have noticed how pungent are bergamot leaves. If a salad containing this plant has any of that pungency or fragrance it should be extremely palatable. Several members of the mint family are widely used to flavor foods.

When it comes to various kinds of wild fruits which can be converted into jams and jellies, the farm is richly endowed by nature. The wild raspberries, wild blackberries, crabs, and the tasty fruit of the haws and wild grapes are quite abundant and make up a very desirable group of edible fruits which were more appreciated by early settlers than they are by modern farmers.

Salesmen.

SALESMEN: HERE'S WHAT OUR MEN DON'T DO
Our salesmen don't do any canvassing; don't do any delivering; don't do any credit investigating; don't do any calling back; don't do any collecting; don't do any servicing. They spend all of their time and all of their energy in adding to their personal incomes. Ours is an educational specialty sold on easy monthly payments in both homes and offices. If you're just pretty good you should earn $65 a week. If you're tops you should average $100 to $125 every week in the year. Basis: draw against earned commissions. Ask for Manager, Suite 1558, 20 N. Wacker-drive, Civic Opera Building.

ATTENTION MEN from ages 35 to 50 who have been affected by priorities. Ralph Micheli earned $260 the last week in June working Indiana territory. If you can sell, we can offer you an unusual opportunity of earning real money. Alexander All-Talking Advertising Films are sold in every state for use in all lines of business. Over 80% of our contracts are renewed each year. Full commissions are paid on renewals; exclusive territory is now available for [3] or [4] men to replace salesmen called to army or defense work. M. J. McInaney, genl. sales manager, will be here Monday and Tuesday to interview applicants. Phone or write.

Couples.

OUR long employed and excellent couple have been called into war work, but we retain an outside man who takes care of automobiles and garden and lives in his own separate apartment.
Will pay top wages to a white couple or two maids. Together these two people must handle the cooking and inside work for a family of two adults and two little school girls living in a house on the lake shore in Evanston. We do not want a nurse or governess, but our two household employees must speak good English and give children some daytime care. Our home is near bus and elevated station, 40 minutes from loop, and we provide garage for employe's automobile. We do not require much late nite work, but we do want top notch daytime service. ALL THE WORLD OVER—TRIBUNE FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

Chicago Tribune correspondents at the war fronts and at other places in foreign lands are named in the map above at the points at which they maintain their headquarters. They and the great press associations provide world-wide news coverage for Tribune readers. Note: Area of Japanese incursions in Pacific and Asia shown bounded by gray line.

ENOUGH words of foreign correspondence to fill a fair size book flow to The Chicago Tribune's cable desk each day, there to be weighed for news value, edited and given headlines for printing in the daily and Sunday issues of The Tribune.

This daily river of foreign news—an estimated average of 40,000 words—comes by cable, wireless, and air mail from The Tribune's own correspondents at the war battlefronts, from those stationed at the news centers of many lands, from hundreds of part time correspondents near and far, and from news agencies and services.

The news reports of The Tribune's own correspondents are vastly supplemented by those of the Associated Press, the greatest news gathering organization of the world. The AP, whose foreign news report The Tribune receives in full for each day's issue, has its own staffs in all important news centers of the world and has thousands of contributing correspondents.

The AP also is affiliated with other great news gathering associations—the British Press association, the Canadian Press, and the Australian AP, to name only a few—with which it exchanges news. The AP also supplies many great foreign newspapers, from which it receives the right to use the news they originate. The AP also provides many stories thru its feature service, Wide World.

The Tribune has the exclusive rights to publication in Chicago of the New York Times foreign service which has a large staff of its own correspondents in world news centers and also receives the news reports of co-operating newspapers. The Tribune maintains a New York office in the Times building, where a staff reads all of the Times' daily inflow of foreign news. The stories and items which are wanted for publication in The Tribune then are sent to Chicago by leased wire.

The Tribune also receives the foreign news reports of the New York Daily News.

An example of the operation of a Chicago Tribune bureau abroad is that in London, where Larry Rue is the chief. London long has been regarded as the nerve center of world-wide communications systems.

Rue in daily cabled stories gives news of the British empire, of the British war effort, parliament's debates, and doings of the ministries.

Mr. Rue and his staff review and report the reactions of the British press on important happenings affecting Britain and the United States. They scan the available field of news for feature, economic, and human interest stories to be sent by air mail to Chicago for use in daily and departmental sections of The Tribune.

The Tribune's bureau in London is in the heart of Fleet street—"newspaper row"—in the building of the Daily Telegraph, one of Britain's leading newspapers, and its news reports supplement those originated by The Tribune's London bureau. The bureau receives by telegraph printer the leading news service of London.

The war, of course, forced the closing of a network of Tribune bureaus and news points in Europe, but veteran Tribune correspondents are on duty at two of the very few remaining news centers of the continent.

Donald Day, who in peacetime reported the news of Poland, the Baltic states, and Finland, now is in neutral Sweden and from Stockholm cables the news culled from the cross currents of reports of travelers from Nazi occupied lands and diplomatic sources in a center where axis and united nations' envoys still meet on common ground. Day formerly was in Finland whence he dispatched reports of the Russian-Finnish war of 1939-'40.

David Darrah, who was Rome bureau chief until it became impossible to report factual news from that capital and he was expelled by the Mussolini propaganda organization, and who later was chief of the London bureau and then Paris, now is chief at Vichy, the seat of unoccupied France. Darrah covered France at war before and during the German invasion and reported the flight from Paris and the setting up of the new government.

When Darrah left Paris, Alex Small remained behind to cover the German occupation. Sigrid Schultz, now on leave in the United States, then still was in Berlin reporting the movements of the German war machine. In one dispatch she cabled a forecast of the German break-thru at Sedan.

Mr. Small has the unhappy—or happy—faculty of getting on both sides of a war front. He was in Warsaw when the German invasion began and before it was over was caught between both the German and the Russian advances. While he was extricating himself, finally winding up in Amsterdam, he accumulated observations, experiences, and notes which he composed into one of the remarkable stories of the war—a scoop for The Tribune.

Small covered the Low Countries before and during the invasion, Paris during the occupation, and then relieved Miss Schultz in Berlin. When the United States entered the war he was among the American correspondents seized and interned for five months at Bad Nauheim. When he became free again, from Lisbon he cabled stories of Germany in war time and the experiences at Bad Nauheim. Next he crossed Africa to cover the Egyptian front.

Sam Brewer, presently at Cairo and soon to return to India, could compose an extensive travelogue from his experiences as a roving correspondent of The Tribune. He served in the London and Paris bureaus, covered Spain, the Balkans, Hungary, Greece, Turkey, Palestine, Syria, Iraq, Egypt, Libya, India, Burma, and then Egypt again.

Brewer has a notable list of outstanding stories to his credit—the Italian-Greek war, the escape from Jugo-Slavia and Greece during the German invasion, Syria during the British-"Free French" occupation, Libya during the alternating British and axis drives, and most recently an exceptional story on the flight of refugees and soldiers from Burma and another on a frontline closeup of the battle in Egypt.

No less a wanderer is E. R. Noderer. In Europe he served in the Berlin bureau, reporting visits to the war front, and then in Rome and Switzerland, before making a tour of the Danubian and Balkan countries and returning to Chicago. Again he went by planes and ships to Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia, Java, Singapore, Rangoon, India, Iraq, Egypt, Palestine and Turkey.

Noderer was in Iran (Persia) before the British-Russian occupation and was one of the two American correspondents there to report it. Next he retraced his steps to Australia and New Zealand, only to move again to Singapore, arriving just six days after the Japanese invasion of Malaya began. Since then he has been in Australia, New Zealand, and New Caledonia.

Since Pearl Harbor The Tribune has steadily increased its staff of correspondents to follow and cover from the spot the actions of the United States fleet, the army, the marines, and the air force.

Perhaps the outstanding news story of the year was Stanley Johnston's report of the battle of the Coral sea.

Johnston was on the bridge of the aircraft carrier Lexington during all the days of the battle and victory over the Japanese fleet. He reported the broad outlines of the battle, the heroic fighting of the flyers from the fleet, and finally the loss of the Lexington from internal explosions after the battle was over. And in the final hours Johnston saved sailors from below decks of the Lexington and from the water. Johnston at present is on leave in the United States putting the story into book form.

Robert Cromie, a reporter from the Chicago staff, now has gone to Hawaii to add to the coverage of American actions in the Pacific.

Clay Gowran, from the Chicago staff, has been on duty for some time covering American defenses in Panama, the Caribbean, British, and Dutch Guiana. At present he is in Colombia.

Supplementing the work of all these correspondents and covering the news points at all times are the part time correspondents who send dispatches from European stations, the middle east, Canada and Newfoundland, the Caribbean, Central and South America, Australia, and New Zealand. Some Tribune correspondents have been in countries which have been overrun by invasions and at the moment their fate is unknown to the home office. Among them is Vicente Albano Pacis who covered the Philippines.

Correspondents and bureau chiefs also survey the foreign field for exclusive pictures to send to Chicago for the daily Tribune and the Sunday Graphic, rotogravure, and travel sections.

The Tribune receives all the pictures of the Associated Press Wirephoto service and also the services of the Acme and Wide World organizations.
